WAVERLY HIGH SCHOOL

VOLUME 25

Freshmen ... Sophomores ... Juniors ... Seniors ... We all belong to a class, but more importantly we all form the student body of Waverly. We are all Waverly Warriors.

Five banners were hung in the gym commons this year. The four classes and the school as a whole were represented. The unified banner says "'88 year of the Warrior". In this year of our live's we have taken time out to reflect on belonging to Waverly and being a Warrior.

Waverly's Student Senate got together in the summer and came up with an idea to help make this year special. Junior Debbie Lopez designed the banners and Mr. Lynn Egbert donated them to the school.

ILLIAD

Ahh . . . those lazy, hazy

Ahhh . . . those lazy, hazy, crazy daze of summer . . .

As we filed through the hallways of WHS on the last day of the '87 school year, thoughts of summer activities were floating through our minds. We could smell summer in the air and feel the gentle breeze urging us to abandon our books and head to the beach. One of the most frequented beaches around here is Lake Lansing. If it was even a halfway sunny day, you would find all the "hot looking" people you wanted, sunning themselves on the sandy beach. This summer was perfect for the beach bums. Michigan usually has five or six days where the temperatures hit 90 degrees or higher. This summer was a scorcher! There were about twenty days when the mercury rose above 90 degrees.

After spending the day at the beach you could cruise over to Sensations in East Lansing (on Sunday and Wednesday nights at least) and find other WHS students rocking to the beat.

Of course some people go for a total change of scene. They "disappear" for the summer and aren't heard from again until August. A lot of them go stay with relatives or they have a cottage somewhere.

. . . Ahhh . . . those lazy, hazy, crazy daze of summer.

"It took a lot of guts for me to sit there in my bathing suit. I felt like a nerd." — Kelly Donally
 "I wasn't scared — honest!" exclaims Todd Youngblood. Kevin Seperic completed basic training this summer.

It may not look like it, but this is at 7:00 A.M. in August. Dedication is obvious when guys get up that early to work so hard. If only this London Beefeater knew he was talking to the most feared English teacher at WHS. Mrs. Kesel must have him fooled! Boy that kiss must have been good, or maybe this is the fireworks at Riverfront Park.

What was special about the summer of '87?

"It was the summer of '87, meaning that it was exactly 20 years from the summer of '67, which was supposedly one of the best summers ever." Jennie Thelen said that on reflection of the summer of '87. Jacinda Adams has a different perspective. "I went to Prince's and Sheila E.'s concerts and got to meet them afterwards." Well that is certainly not a usual event!

Belong to a sports team takes up a lot of one's summer also. People go to camps all summer long to perfect their skills. Renee Parshall loved being on pom-pom and going to camp. "It was a blast!" Of course there are people who play sports for money. Brad Engler won $200 with a hole in one. We have a star in our midst!

Of course our teachers are people too. So they were asked this question also. Mrs. Harwood worked very hard over the summer and got a lot accomplished. "I had a garden and we finished building and landscaping our house and surrounding area." Mrs. Mulbach went overseas to the lovely place of England. "To go to England when one is an English teacher, is like dying and going to heaven."

crazy daze of summer

District's three week strike

During the strike a number of students voiced their opinions until a full-scale student protest was formed on the day after the board announced their bomb to replace any teacher who would not show up on Monday. Some students pleaded for an end to the strike while others simply wanted answers. Local media ate this up along with the strike in general, and why not? That same Wednesday, hundreds of students joined together in an evening rally where they protested the strike.

We are into twelve weeks of school, but these same students who joined together and eventually saw the settlement are disoriented and separated from the traditions and activities usually found in high school. We can only hope that the year will pick up and this yearbook will be filled with positive things to create "'88 year of the Warrior". As concerned students, we can only hope that no other Waverly students will have to go through what we did in the fall of '87.

Teachers at Waverly High School are some of the most experienced, best educated and highly dedicated in the area. But internal pride in your job, must be balanced by external appreciation from your employer. When it isn't there, pain continues.

The Iliad staff would like to thank senior Jeff Goad and teacher Mrs. Mulbach for contributing their thoughts on the 1987-88 teachers' strike.

Mr. Thompson, Dr. Parr, and Mrs. Cameron let their signs state their positions. Although we wished to remain neutral throughout the strike, a petition was signed to help keep our teachers. Amy Cooper was worried about graduating, while seventh grader Matt Goad worried whether this would happen to him before his senior year. The sight of this sign dismayed many WHS students.

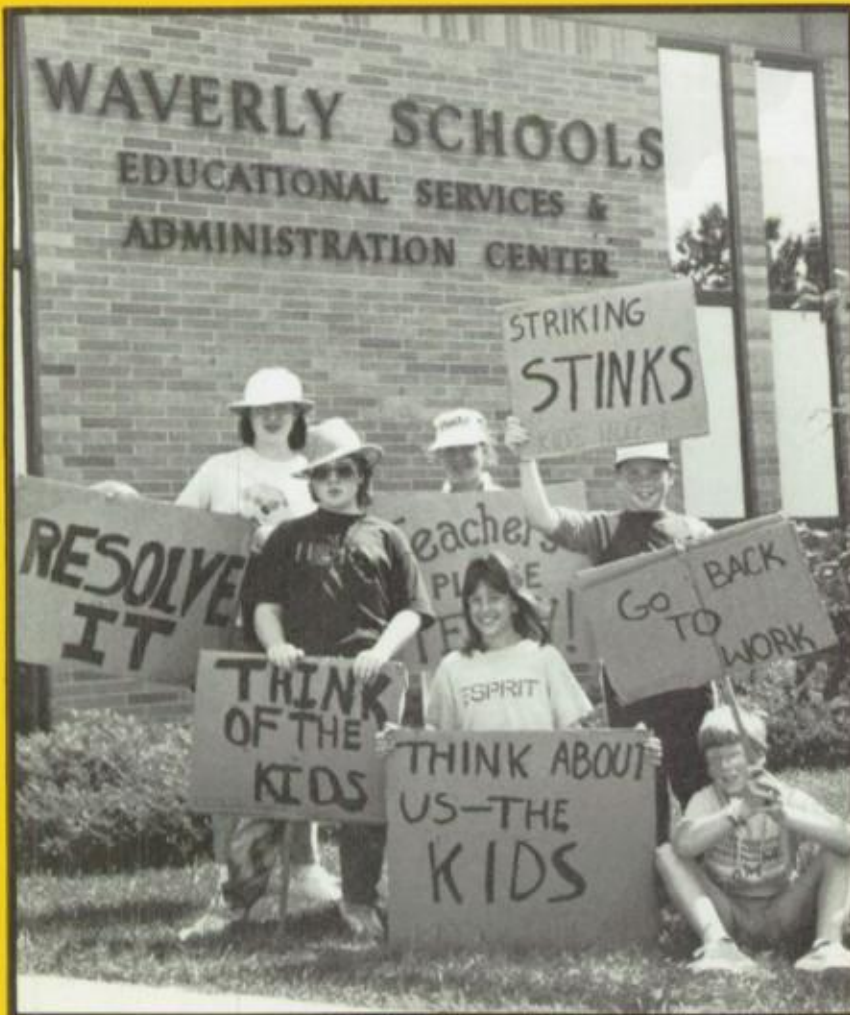

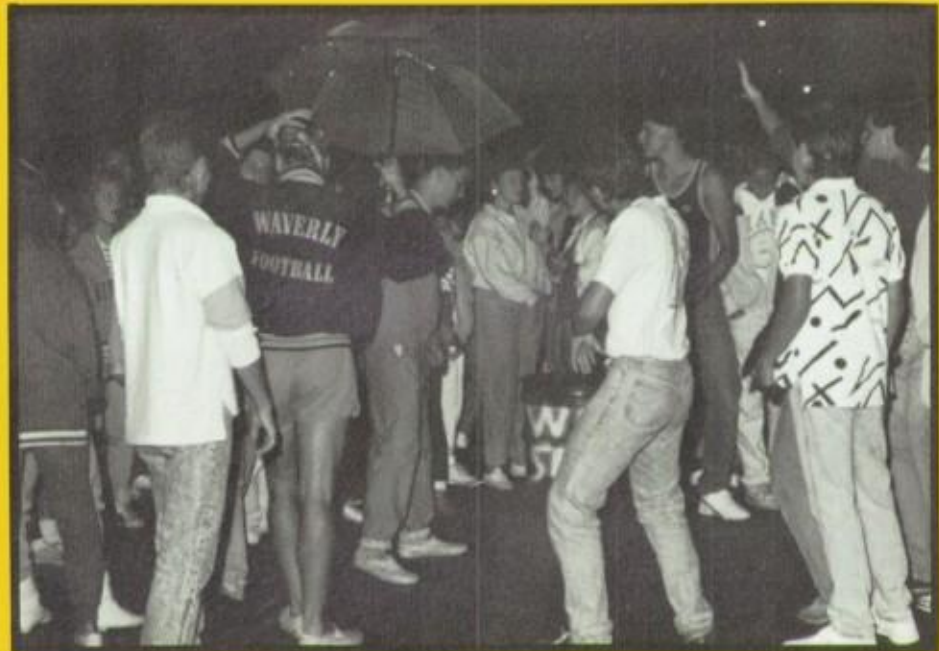

Not easily forgotten

Seniors Bill Burke, Matt Lichon, Steve Potter and David Clevenger stand by a car with a sign reading "What about us?" at the student rally.

Many students participated in the rally, even though it was raining.

Did the teachers strike affect school spirit?

When asked this question students responded in different ways. According to Peggy Abood it didn't affect the spirit. "The kids were so anxious to return to school that it didn't matter." Brad Engler had both a positive and a negative view. "The student rally helped bring the student body closer together, while the strike made the students mad at the teachers and the board." David Townsend had the feeling that the strike did hinder school spirit. "Yes, I believe the strike affected the school spirit, because of the momentum lost coming into this school year." Kerrie Hallberg said, "Once school got started the strike did not affect the spirit of the student body, except for the fact that some teachers were still hurt by the ordeal."

As you can see the opinions of different people vary as to whether the strike had a detrimental affect on the spirit at WHS. Since the strike did happen, and that fact can't be changed now, we will never know for sure. However, we have a strong student body with lots of spirit and now all we have to do is show it.

Spirit week . . .

Keeping with the theme of homecoming, on Monday all the students dressed with their clothes on inside out. During lunch there was a licorice eating contest won by Susie Buda and Christian Odlum.

On Tuesday each class was assigned a "Twister" color to dress in. (Seniors wore red.) During lunch representatives from each class played the actual Twister game. The freshmen class, dressed in green, won.

Yo, dude, Wednesday was just a crazy day! All those surfers struttin' their stuff, was just too much. The senior guys won the volleyball game at lunch.

Thursday was the most confusing day, everybody dressed with a twin. The air band contest had six groups competing.

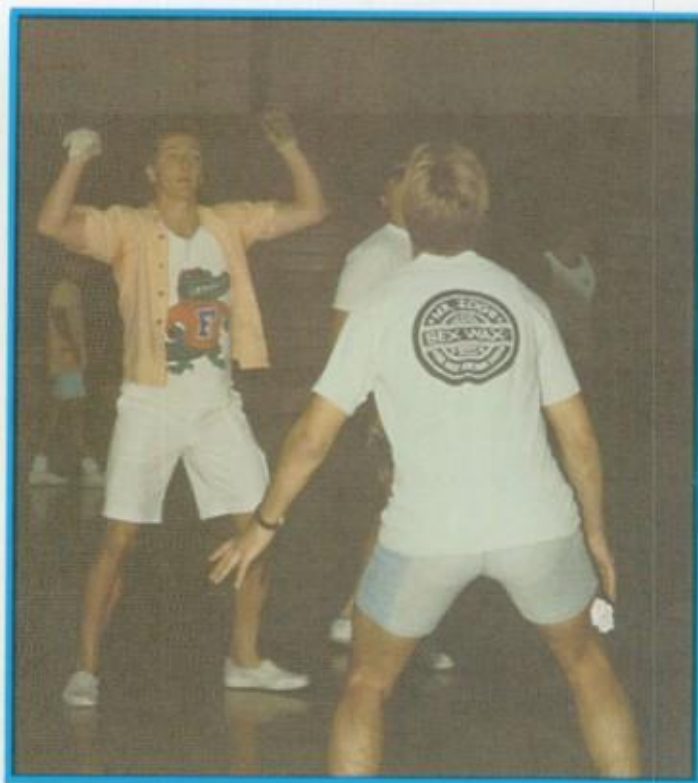

Friday showed the most enthusiasm because everywhere one looked they'd see black and gold, on both, students and staff. The pep-assembly was rowdy and well-attended. This great finale of spirit was a perfect ending to the week.

This crew keeps the audience jammin' even after the music has stopped.

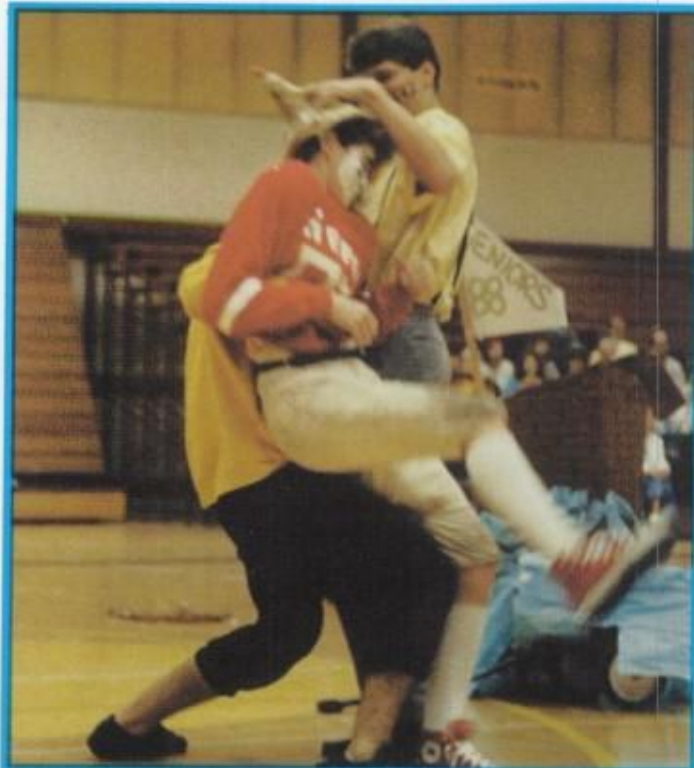

Jeff Goad and Brian Forman went all out to show their spirit on Twin Day.

Bill Burke sets up a perfect spike for Dominique Kellerman during the 'surf day' volleyball game. Their team won.

These junior class members played twister at lunch, they came in second place. Yes, Amy Bacon you will have to tell Monica Patton which is her right hand.

During the pep assembly Nancy Dombroski made the unfortunate mistake of dressing up as an Everett Viking.

definitely unforgettable!

Katie Leary was part of the winning Twister team on Monday. Even though they're green, they won.

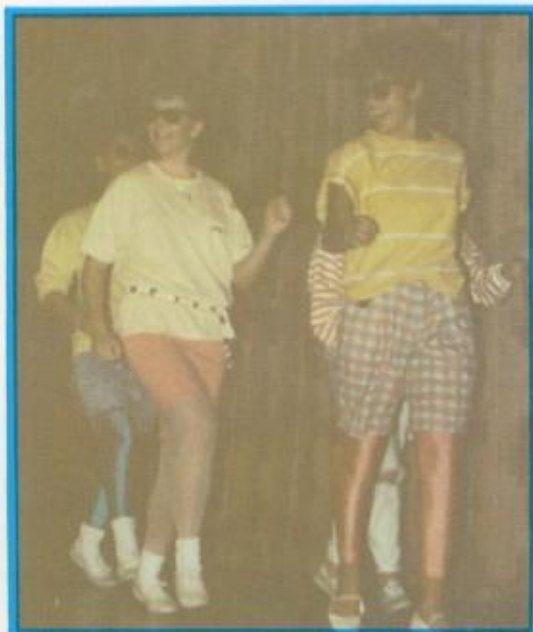

The winners of the licorice eating contest are Susie Buda and Christian Odlum. (What? Fixed? Of course not!) They are just the hungriest.

During the assembly we enacted our own dating game. Jenny Creamer chose Steve Potter, their prize was lunch at ... Dog-N-Suds?!

While Dominic's shoulders die, Bill leads the school song.

Betsy Bacon, Debbie Lopez, Melissa Phillips, and Kerry Behrendt, strut to the tune of "Only In My Dreams".

With team members as awesome as Steve Kutas and Christian, it's no wonder the senior men won the volleyball contest.

Homecoming opinions

When asked in general how they felt about our Homecoming, twelve of our students responded as follows:

Terra Riley (91) — "I think that the freshman court members were the best."

Sasha Jackson (91) — "I feel that anyone in High School, in any grade, should be able to run for King and Queen."

Chad Sims (91) — "I think that next year we should have floats pulled by cars, instead of wagons."

Lori Rounsavall (90) — "There was a lot of school Spirit. I really liked all the days. It really got me hyper. The game was pretty exciting too."

Ed Rashid (90) — "The game was exciting and the dance was fun. I really liked all the spirit we had."

Missy Beasley (90) — "Everybody was really into it and participated a lot. At the pep assembly everyone was so rowdy. It was fun."

Angie Maidlow (89) — "Everyone was really keyed up for the game and there was so much school spirit!"

Scott Menapace (89) — "I liked the dance, and all of the parties afterwards."

Mike Seagraves (89) — "The different days were really good, but next year I think the dance should be more formal."

Madonna Abood (88) — "I think a lot more people participated than the years before."

Jeff Kniple (88) — "Everyone was more relaxed, It seemed like everyone had a really good time."

Becky Allen (88) — "I thought all the different days were really original, the whole week was really fun."

Inside out upside down

The Fall Homecoming was full of enthusiasm and excitement.

Students and staff alike shared in the activities of Spirit Week, and the pep assembly proved this. It was said to be the best assembly in years.

Mini-floats made by classes, clubs, and organizations were paraded during the assembly. The winning float was made by the sophomore class.

Mr. Odum did a great job leading the assembly and keeping up the enthusiasm. Other congratulations went to the Senior Class who won the spirit contest.

Even though the game was lost to Everett, the spirit continued throughout the entire evening.

The dance had a great turn-out and was quite a success. Just about everyone who attended it said they really enjoyed themselves.

All the Warriors should of been proud of their spirit that showed all throughout the celebration.

Dion Jones may be faking to play here, but in band class he pounds away.

This is the first of six groups that performed in the air band contest.

Tonya Powers and Kathy Flynn lead the French Club's float. Their float has a big viking ship falling over a waterfall. They did a great job for having only two hours to construct it.

During this pep assembly the Junior class really did "have this party rockin."

Susie steals the show.

Warrior spirit all around

Carrie Fernsler, Janice Maat, Bobbie Quick, and Christina Luedders display the Spanish float.

Our marching band puts on a spectacular half-time show. The band really has a lot of spirit this year.

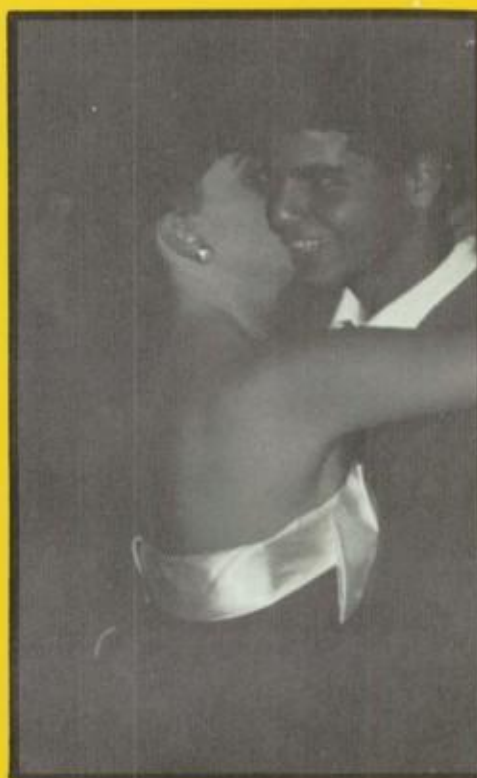

Al Cline warns Kelly Donally to smile but he's to late.

Janice Frendt leads the Junior class spirit while Alicia Howrani pulls their float.

Steve Utrup finds himself funnier than anyone else does.

Ed Rashid is more than thrilled with whatever his date's whispering in his ear.

The best part

Homecoming brought many exciting events and along with those events comes the memories. When asked what they would remember most about this year's homecoming, this is how students responded.

Getila Knox (91) "Walking in and seeing everybody hugging everyone else, and seeing my friends' names on the ballot.

Casie Trudgon (91) "I had a lot of fun with my date."

Jeff Schwarz (91) "It was my first homecoming so I'll always remember it."

Scott Underhill (90) "Everyone dressing up and looking sharp, and trying to win the game."

Lynann Weatherwax (90) "Nothing that I really ever, ever want to remember!"

Justin Duncel (90) "I wish I could have went with Lynann so she would have something to remember.

Maureen Wright (89) "What? Homecoming I think I must of missed it!"

Lori Swift (89) "Dinner at my house before the dance."

Jacinda Adams (89) "Being with my date and the way he treated me."

Ena Stewart (89) "Getting all dressed up and being with my friends. I also thought out to dinner at 1:00 a.m. and seeing everyone there."

Amy Korndike (89) "Getting all dressed up and going out with my friends."

Nick Stornant (88) "I can't really recall that night."

Carrie Purol (88) "It was like a snowflake, it made a mark, but not a stain."

Brad Engler (88) "The high-light was the football game, we were winning at half-time."

Sandra Lartique (88) "I was happy that Kristi made it on court."

Brad Cole and Kim Maidlow . . .

"... And the couple is ...?" No one knew for sure, because they couldn't hear who was announced.

Although frustrations are part of being on court, it still was terrific. The problems like checking three times to make sure you got the correct tux ordered and then picking up the wrong one, or forgetting your flowers or wearing shoes that just kill your feet, are more than worth it.

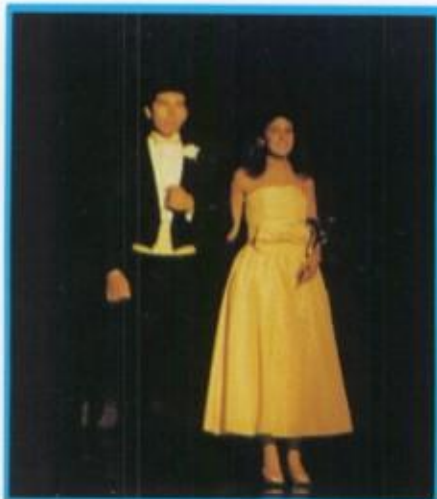

This year brought a new surprise to all of us. That was the fact that the court members who played varsity football were able to walk during the court's half-time presentation. In the past, their fathers had to represent them, leaving them disappointedly in the lockerroom. A senior player, and court member, Josh Kesler, said, "I thought it was stupid that we couldn't walk in the past, and I'm really glad that they changed it, even if I did have to wear my uniform."

The honor of being on court definitely made a lasting impression on this, and probably many more, years in their lives.

While we are all in the assembly the court members are nervously waiting.

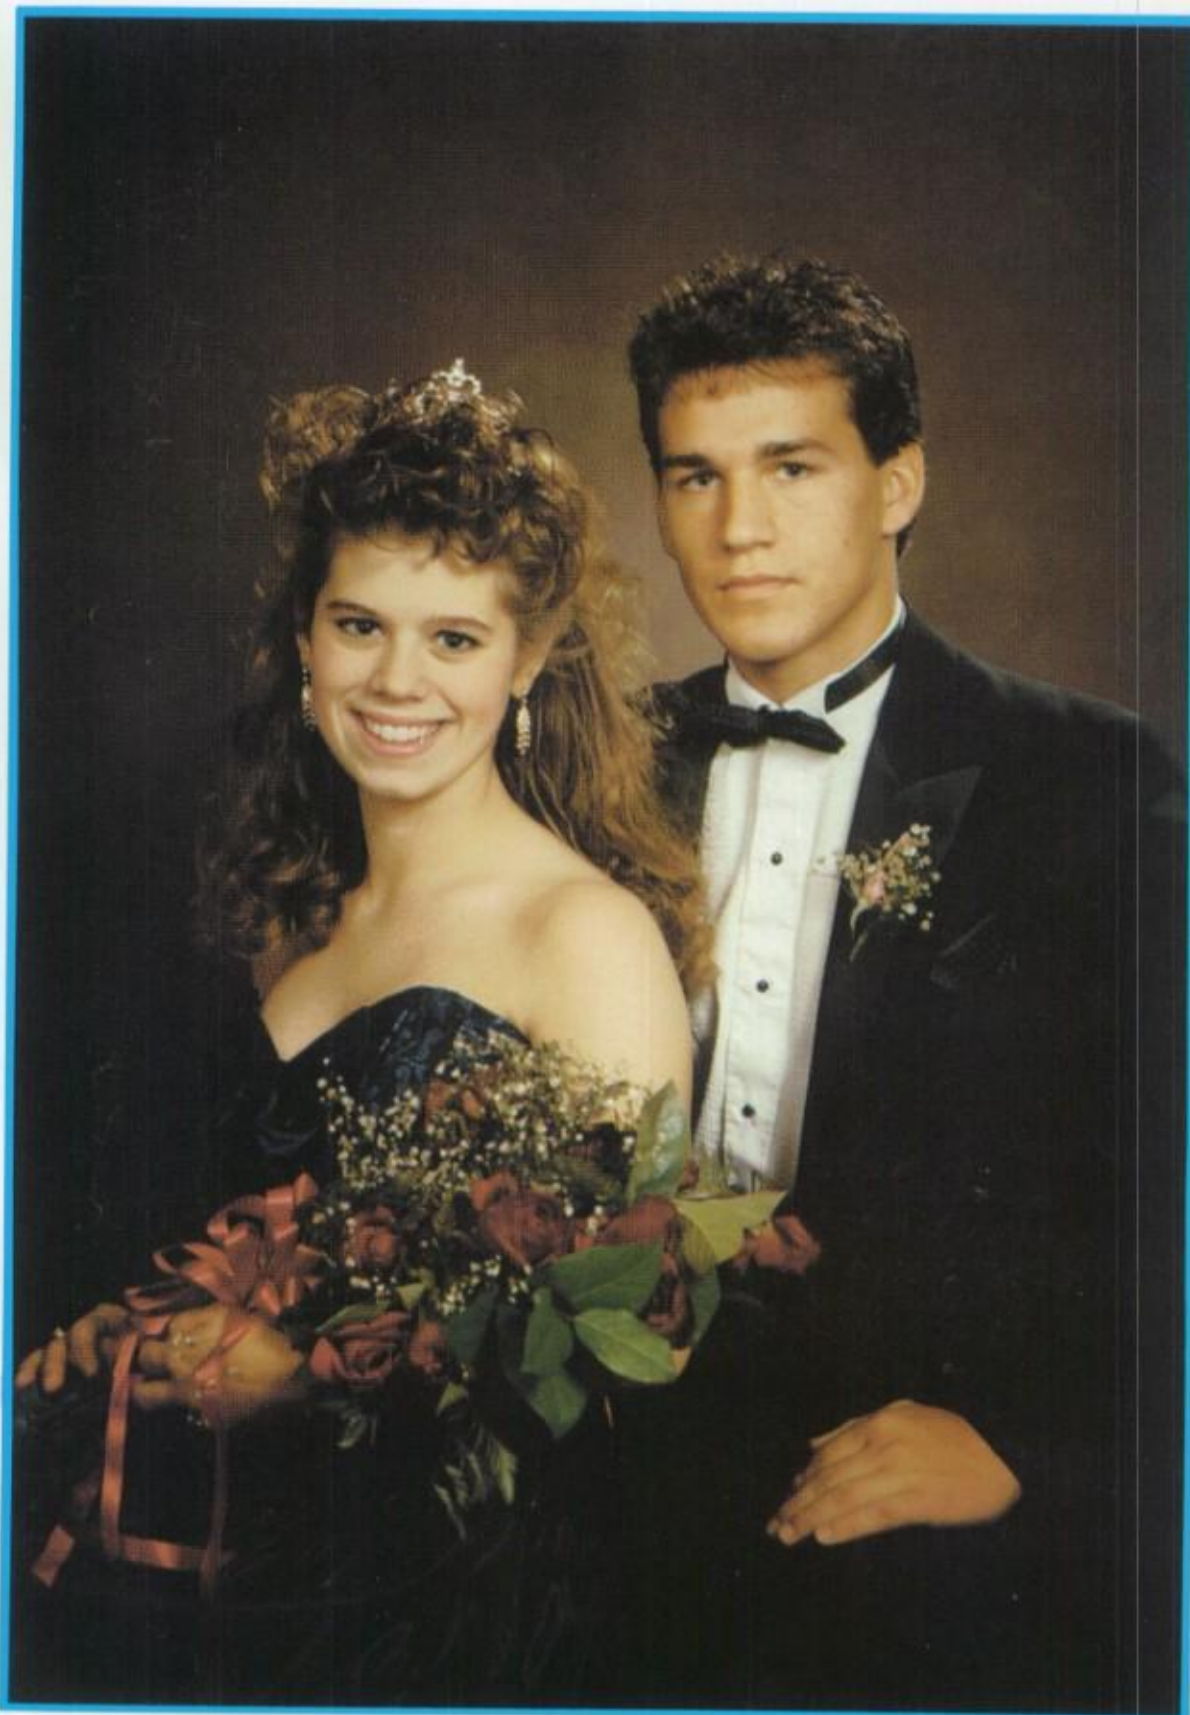

Robert Montalvo and Jennifer Piacenti smile to the dark.

Steve Kutas and Kristi Egbert are the last senior couple to walk.

This stunning senior couple is Christian Odum and Kerry Behrendt.

the best of our school

It looks like these smiles definitely explain the representatives, as they wait to walk.

Kim Maidlow is full of smiles even before she finds out she's queen.

Melissa is glad that the football players were able to walk this year.

Court quotes

Along with all the glory and excitement of representing their classes, so also came the confusion and nervousness for each court member.

Each representative wanted to share a little of his/her feelings or experiences that stood out during his/her reign.

Angie DiVietri — "It was so scary being the first one to walk at the assembly."

Tim Spedoske — "I won't forget the feeling of staring into the spotlight and not being able to see anything else."

Staci Menapace — "I had trouble finding a dress."

Dan Hadley — "I'll never forget the fear I had of walking in front of all the people and the spotlight."

Nicole Kelley — "I think my parents were more nervous than me, but I still had a lot of fun."

Tom Behrendt — "It was a lot of fun being with the other court members, especially Christian."

Molly Milloy — "My dad stepped on my dress and then shut it in the car door."

Travis Robinson — "My parents took so many pictures that I could never forget anything."

Joy Johns — "I was running late for the game, and then on our way my boyfriend's car stalled."

Joe Huhn — "I'm surprised they didn't have an exception and make me King."

Jennifer Piacenti — "The entire court went to Cheddars together, and had a blast!"

Robert Montalvo — "I was really surprised I made it, also I didn't get the tux I ordered and I was mad!"

Kerri Behrendt — "Christian practically had to drag me out, and once we got on the field my heels sank into the ground."

Christian Odlum — "It was really weird only being able to see the spotlight."

Lesli Schrauben — "I walked too fast in the gym and embarrassed myself."

J.J. Darden — "I was really nervous, and Lesli forgot to stop."

Kristi Egbert — "I was shaking the entire time Steve and I walked out ... but I don't think it was because I was cold ... I think it was because I was thrilled to represent the Senior Class."

Steve Kutas — "The dance was sweet, I had a lot of fun."

Melissa Lopez — "I accidentally spilled contact solution on Kristi's dress, and she went spaz."

Josh Kesler — "It was such a unique feeling having the spotlights and everyone watching, I loved the attention."

Katie Cushman — "It gave me chills knowing I was out there representing my class."

Brad Cole — "I think it was a great honor to be chosen king. Next year though, I think they need to get a new crown for the King."

Kim Maidlow — "When they announced queen at the game, I didn't even hear my name."

Jeff Spedoske — "My most embarrassing moment happened at the assembly when, instead of turning around, I started to leave."

Another day . . .

Along with all the studying and time that going to high school requires, so also comes the excitement and new trends.

This year's fads were a lot like last year's and even vaguer in areas; nevertheless, they still existed.

The favorite movies seemed to be Fatal Attraction and Dirty Dancing.

Along with last year's clothing styles like Coca-Cola, also came bubble skirts, scarfs, and over-sized and cropped sweaters. Some guys stuck with the tied-dyed surfer look, and Bad Boy collection. Where did they find the styles? Most either shopped at Hudsons or The Limited.

Again Burger King was a popular hangout but Mc Donalds gave them a lot of competition.

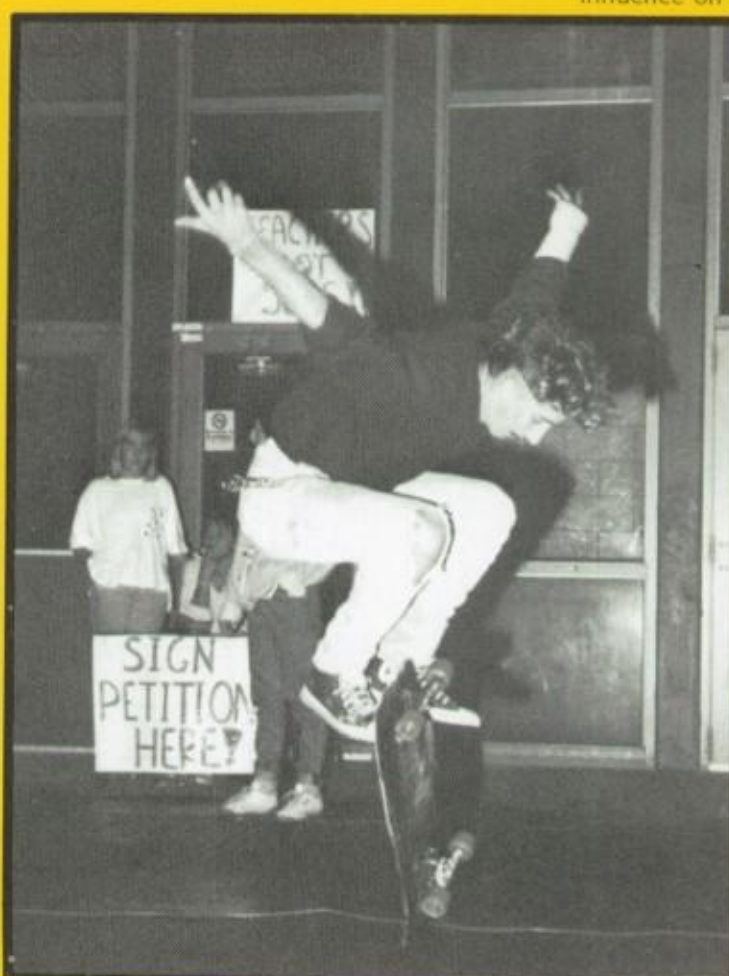

Of course all the "dreamy" favorite things like Porsches and trips to Australia existed, but for the most part the year was a pretty relaxed one, with most students being quite content. Just another, "year in the life."

This store definitely has the largest influence on girl's fashions this year.

Coca-Cola returns again this year. The hair style is popular also.

This photo shows it all!!! The Converse hightops, ripped jeans, big sweatshirt, shaved sides and don't forget the skateboard, all are the latest statement.

What could be a better birthday present than spending a night on the town in a limo? Apparently not much to Amy Koorndyke, Lesli Schrauben, Monica Patton, Tina Weatherwax, and Tara Hart, who are having a blast doing one of their favorite things.

These two are glad they found a seat before the mob (us) shows up at Mc Donalds.

of our favorite things

What a queen! I mean king!! Brad Cole certainly looks stunning in his Halloween costume. It's a good thing for him that Halloween comes after Homecoming.

Carrie Purol and Madonna Abood pose to show off some of this year's clothing styles. I think they're ready for Cosmopolitan.

What does

Yes, who wouldn't kill for a Porsche Gembala Cyrus. Almost every student here has a favorite something they may not actually kill for it, but they still really enjoy them.

Joe Purnhagen "Soccer and skatin"

Jami Schrauben "Guys"

Tony Whitaker "A Lamborgeni"

Angie Di Vietri "Cheerleading"

Jason Law "Music"

Ricardo Centeno "Drawing"

Marc Earl "Women — sweet thing is my favorite thing"

Cindy Burnett "Volleyball"

Dan Hathaway "Football and Mr. Hall's Government class."

Melissa Silva "Burger King, 'cause it's the place to be."

Wendy Del Castillo "Pom Pon"

Rocky Stornant "Skiing with awesome babes in Colorado and hot tubs"

Nick Stornant "Girls and a nice cold one."

Robyn Garrigus "Going to the beach and going to Traverse City."

Nicole Keast "Going to the beach and sailing."

Todd Youngblood "Fast money, fast cars, and always skiing and always, always, keep the tunes cranked!!"

make your day?

The men enjoying their lunch at Burger King are seniors Jeff Kniple, Dave Clevenger, Brad Engler, and Brian Foreman.

After hours, we've got . . .

What do you do after school? Homework? Watch T.V.? Go to work? Go to practice? There are so many choices that it doesn't seem like there is time to do everything.

One of the most obvious things to do after school is your homework. No matter how old you are or what grade you're in, you always seem to have plenty of homework to do. What a drag!

It is said that people, teenagers especially, spend many hours in front of the boob tube. What would we have to talk about if we couldn't discuss our soaps? I mean really!

If you walk around our high school at any hour of the evening, you will find at least one team practicing their hearts out. Many times you will find up to five or six teams all doing their stuff. Talk about tired people!

If all that isn't enough, many students have jobs. They go from schoolwork to work work. Students have jobs for two main reasons. To save for college and to pay for their entertainment. Ahh . . . money!

With all these things going on, it's amazing we ever have time to do any trivial things like eating or sleeping. Although according to many parents, we do a lot of those things too. (At least we do, when we happen to stop at home.) Being a teenager definitely means being busy after hours!

Kevin Seperic is doing one of everybody's favorite things — t-peing. Watch out! You could be next on his hit list. On the week-ends, going to the movies is one favorite option.

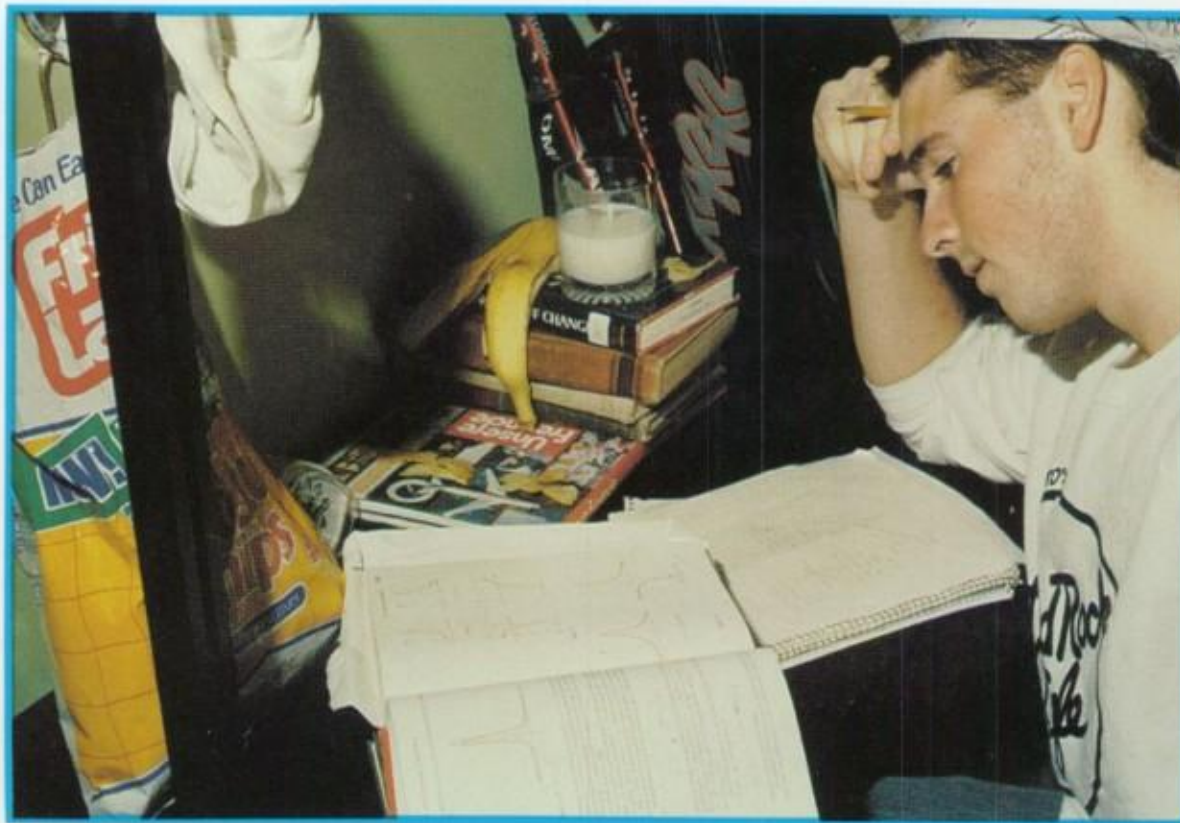

"It's tough to juggle working and going to school at the same time."

— Kim Maidlow

Showing you WHS spirit by attending sporting events one popular thing to do "after hours." Watching the job tube is definitely a favorite pastime. I wonder which soap is on?

UGH! HOMEWORK! Doing Trig definitely is not Scott Bryde's idea of having fun.

How much time do you spend on homework a night?

A survey was taken at WHS to see how much time was spent on homework
 Here are the results:

... time on our hands

Waverly out of uniform

Usually when you walk down the halls of WHS, it looks pretty normal. You see what you expect to see. Kids dressed in jeans, skirts, sweats, pajamas. Pajamas?!? Whoops! It must not be a normal day. "What did you say? It's not a normal day? What a relief! I was hoping WHS kids didn't usually wear pajamas, togas, and the like to school."

Waverly's Student Senate sponsored a slave auction at the end of September. The bidding took place in the cafeteria at lunch and the people who were "purchased" were the slaves of the "purchasers" for the rest of that day and the following morning until noon. A lot of fun was had while money was being raised.

Halloween was another day that you could find strange looking characters wandering around the halls of WHS. A lot of students got into the spirit of the holiday and dressed up.

It's not often you will find a Warrior out of uniform, but when you do what a sight!

Susie Buda, Jeff Goad, and Kristi Egbert must have really believed in dressing up for Halloween; otherwise they wouldn't dare go anywhere looking like that.

Anne Stapelman was used as a dust mop one day long ago!

Steve Kutas's mom must have forgotten to check and make sure he dressed himself properly this morning.

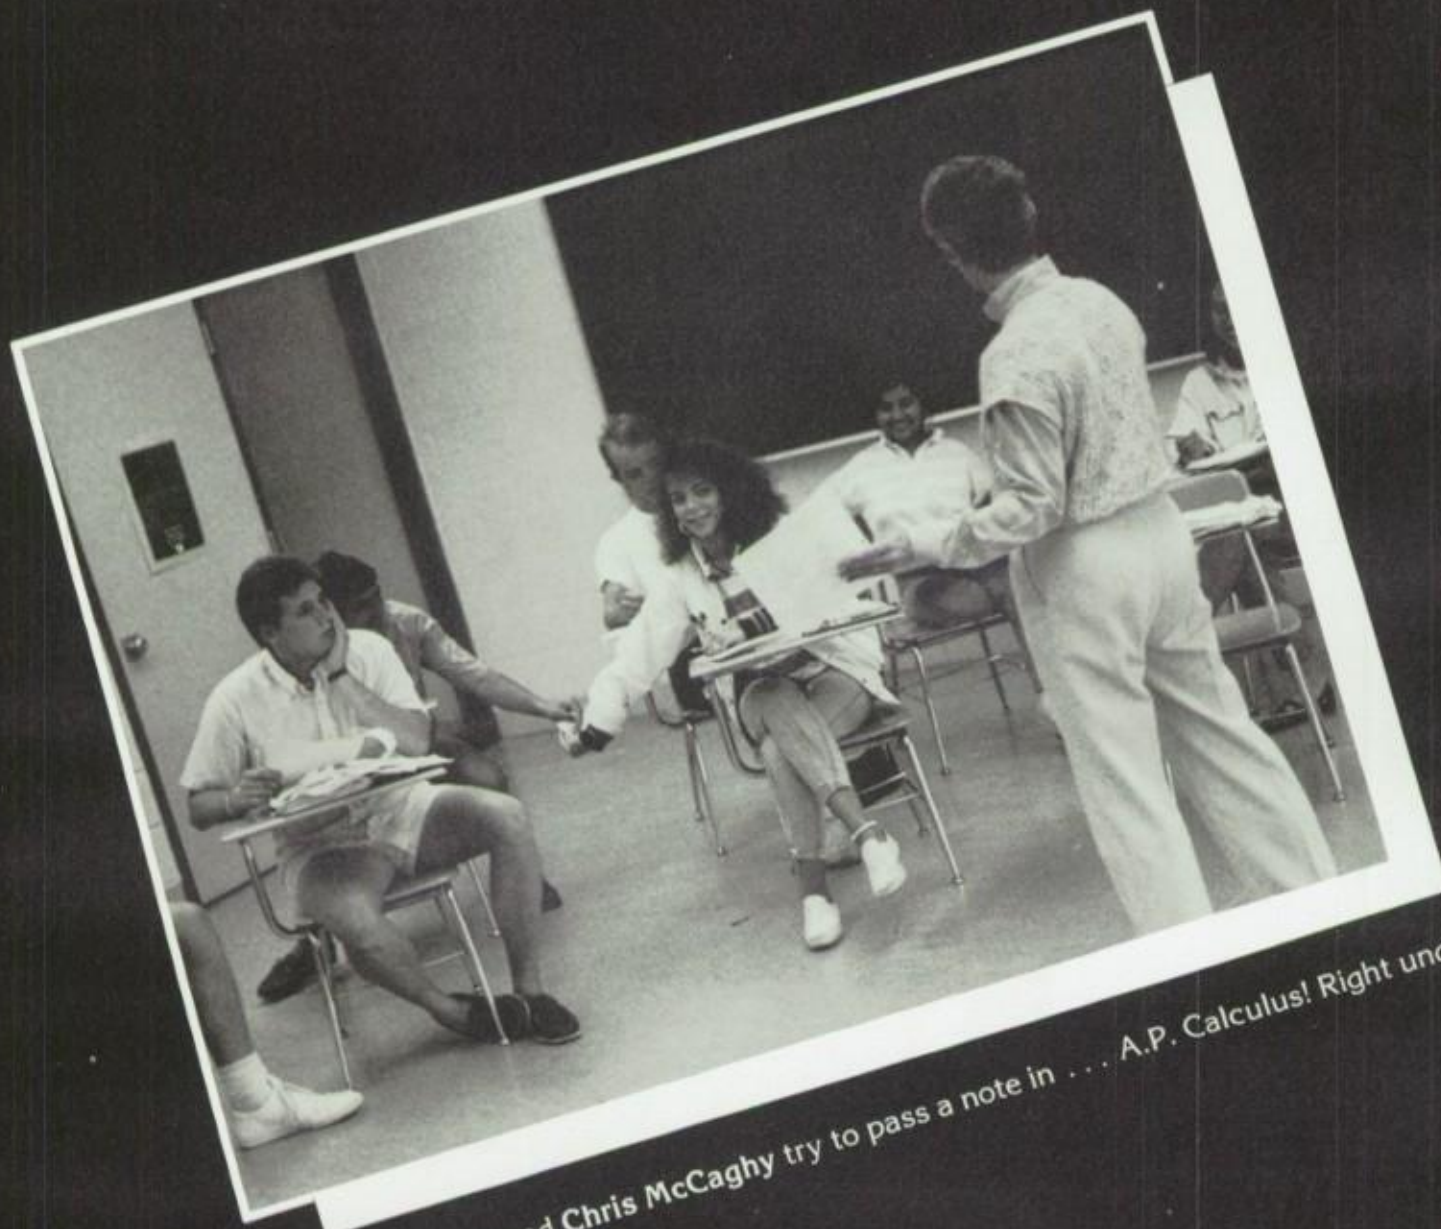

Is that really Brad Cole and his furry friend?!

CLASSROOM

Math classes in action

Did you ever wonder what went on during a math class — other than math? Or did you ever ask yourself when you would use math again? Some math students were asked how mathematics would help them and here are their responses.

"I plan on entering the computer field and I need to study math." — Chin Kim

"I want to be an engineer (and make big bucks) so I need math" — Brent Phillips

So according to several students, math is used and needed — a great deal — after high school.

There are several students who excel in mathematics. Heather Cavanaugh, Elizabeth Clifford, Steve Hahn, Heather Lester, Alimah Parshall, Tim Spedoske, Joanna Stowe, Ann Vance, and Missy Westmoreland. These students received the Math Departmental Award.

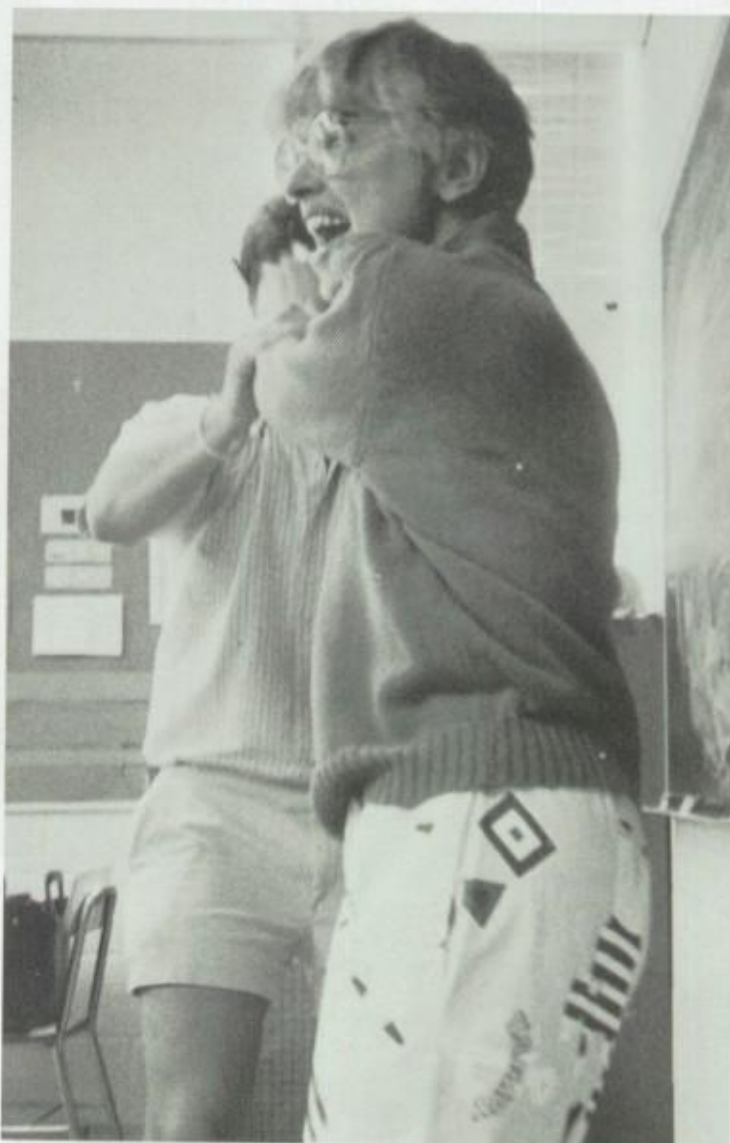

There have been some quite funny events that occurred this year during math class.

"Someone let a mouse loose in Mr. Hallberg's class. It was hysterical!" — Tony Winnicker

"One of the students hid in the closet and our teacher couldn't figure out who was knocking on the door" — Christie Luedders

"Mrs. Marvin told the class to move closer to see the board. Everyone moved their desks to the center. We were bunched together so close no one could move. It was hilarious. Messy (Mrs. Marvin) laughed the entire hour" — Christian Odium

The math department at Waverly is exceptional and this year has proven it.

Prof. Lindahl enhances A.P. Eng.

Literature, composition, speech, and grammar; During each class hour one may dive into the romantic poems of Keats, Shelley, or Byron; adventure along with Twain and Stevenson; Fantasize into other worlds with Swift; learn the structural importance of a sentence, and even learn to communicate effectively. Such factors help to enhance the Waverly English department's ability to educate and share the knowledge of the written word.

This year the Advanced Placement class had the opportunity and the privilege to be taught existentialism for nine weeks by Dr. Folke Lindahl, professor from James Madison College at Michigan State University. Students seemed to really enjoy his daily lectures, especially senior Amy Strauss. "Dr. Lindahl inspired us in many ways and he really made us use our heads. It was a great experience and I'm glad we had the opportunity."

Acting out Shakespearean plays; making a mythological video; demonstrating the correct way to saddle a horse; conjugating verbs and discussing the theme of Browning's, "My Last Duchess", are all elements that make up the daily endeavors of students studying english at Waverly.

Those science careers start right here

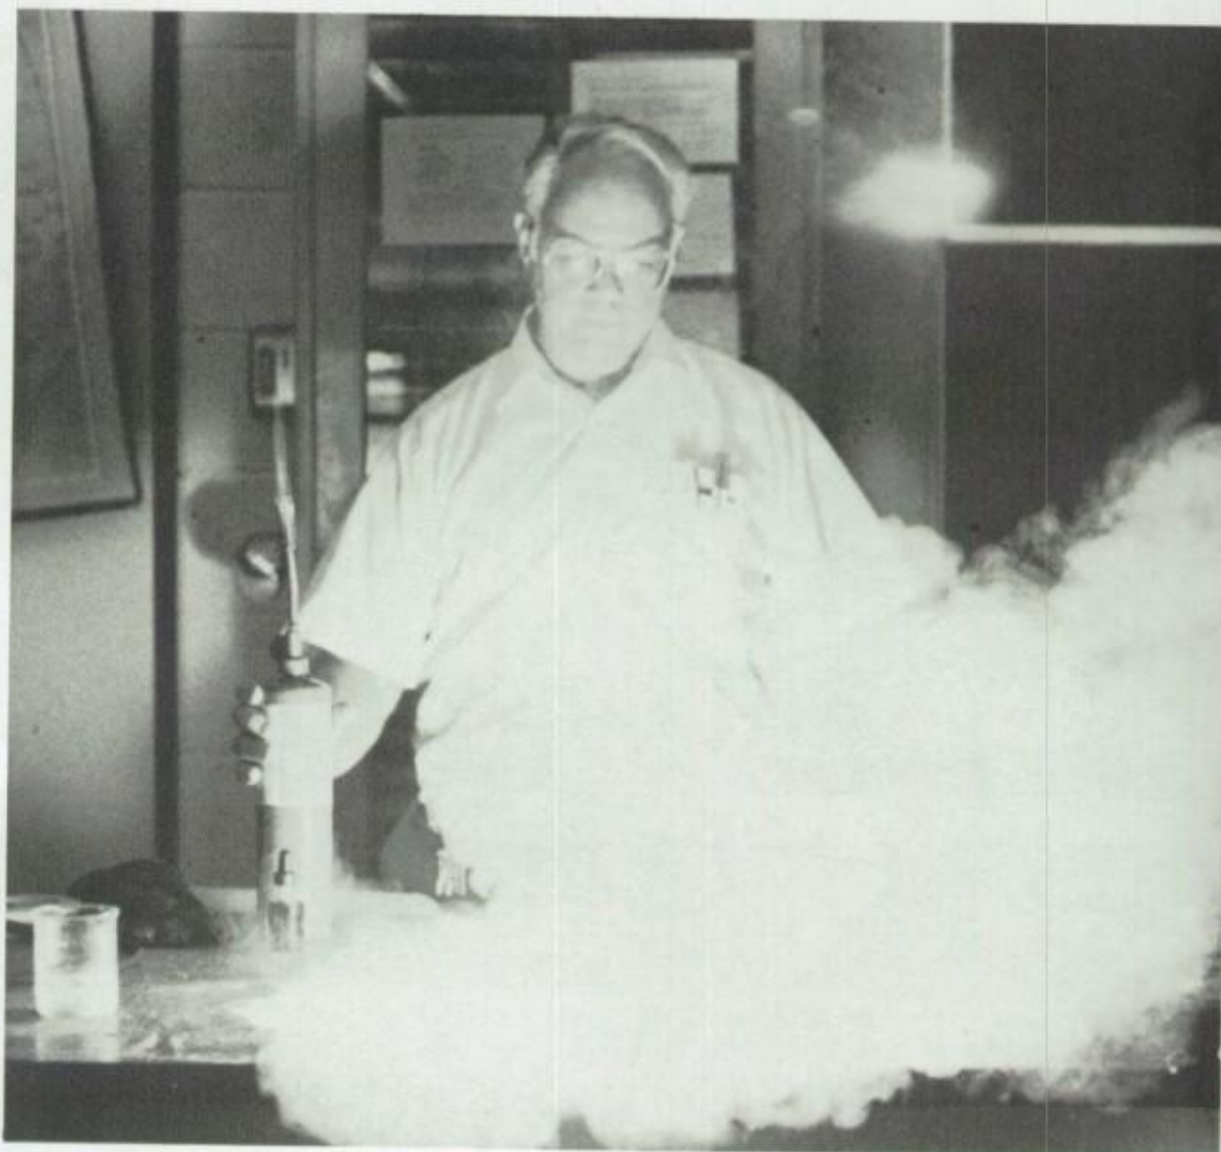

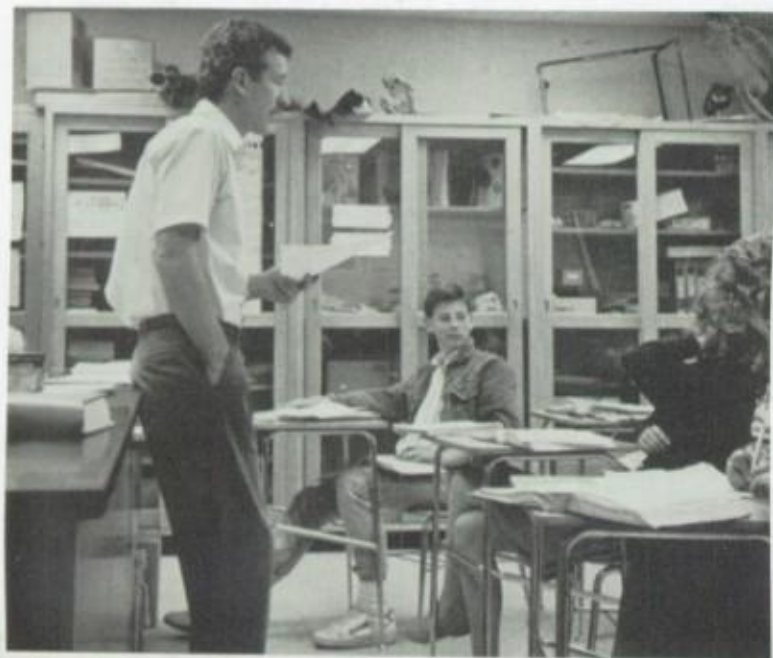

Did you know that Mike Martin wants to go onto college and then become a medical trainer? Or that Alana Mestemaker plans to study marine biology and Bruce Foster plans to go into a medical profession and Elizabeth Leary is going to be a plastic surgeon. All of these people are going on to these professions with the help of the science that they have learned here at Waverly High School.

The Science department has produced many students with amazing talent and intelligence. Some of the departmental awards given out this year went to Sabrina Gonzales, Christine Parkhurst, Tim Spedoske, Brad Clegg, Heather Cooper, Terry Hogle, Shannon McNeal, and Alex Wallsten.

I'm sure Sue Morway won't forget when Stacy Leatherwood spilled chicken blood on her shoes. This just goes to show that science has fun times as well as the learning.

Taking on the science of society

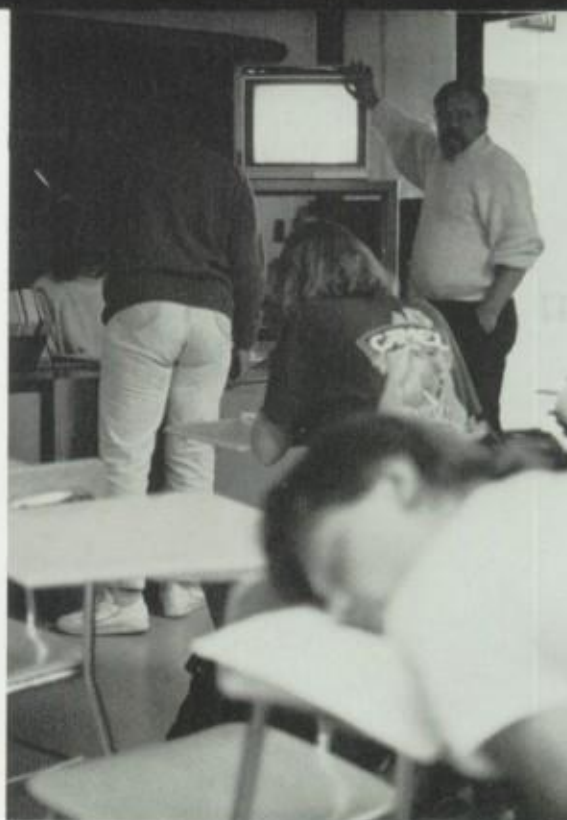

The Civil War, politics, the judicial system, and the history of Michigan are just a few pieces of the intricate puzzle which makes up the Waverly Social Science department. Students not only hear lectures, but have the chance to actively participate in different activities. These activities help the students understand classes such as U.S. History and Government.

Different guest speakers popped up during the year to talk to students. One was Congressman Howard Wolpe of Michigan. Another was Doug Schirk who discussed the economic and political problems of Nicaragua.

In February many students participated in Black History Month. Junior Ena Stewart talks about her part in that, "It helped me make a lot of people aware of what black people have accomplished through the years."

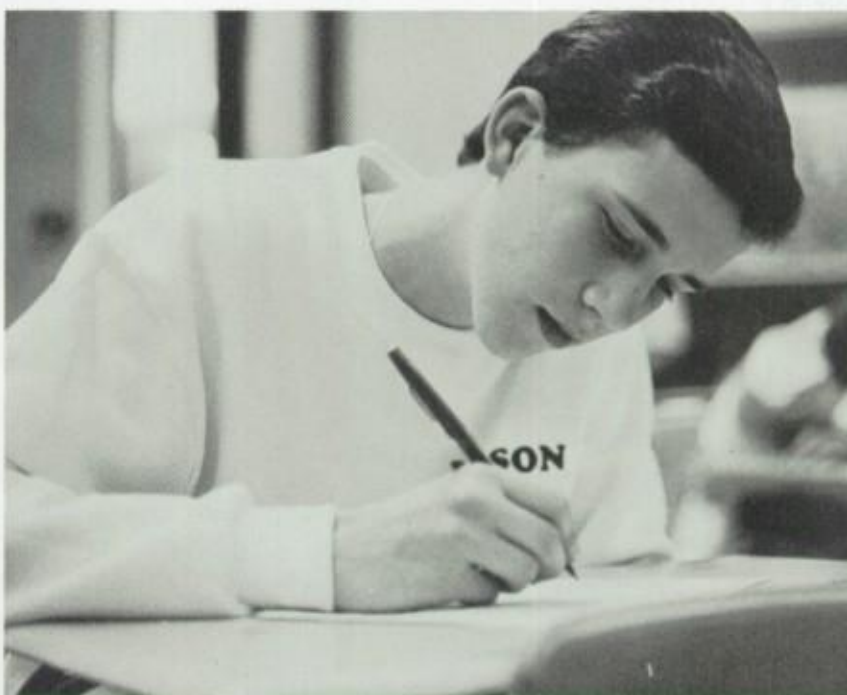

Three students had the chance to see Rev. Jesse Jackson speak at Sexton. Jacinda Adams, junior, said, "I felt inspired. I learned that if you want something you have to give 100%."

Getting students involved with the learning process is a nice change. It's also fun, too.

It's a step in the right direction

Some students take a computer course as a tool in preparing for a future career. One such student is Debra Zaikoski, a senior, planning to attend L.C.C. to earn an Associates Degree in Business.

"Computer class will be helpful to me in the future because all businesses will use them by the time I enter the job market," stated Zaikoski.

For other students the class is just an expansion on a current interest. "I took a computer class because I felt I needed to know more about them since they're an outside hobby for me," claimed sophomore, Rick Robbins.

A few students have a serious interest in computers. One such student is Steve Hahn, a sophomore. He plans to base his business career around the computer industry.

"Computer class and computers in general have made my life more organized. They have contributed to my learning of the business and financial world around us," stated Hahn.

Most computer students agree, though, "It's fun," claimed sophomore, James Locke.

Mr. Clare Moritz and Mr. Steve Politowski, the computer teachers.

Goodnight, Aaron Holland, and sleep tight, but don't let the "computer" bugs bite!

"Computers are the key to the future. I've found some of those keys in Waverly's computer lab," stated Ayanna Mitchell, junior.

"Dominic, don't you think you should be doing your work instead of playing games?!" states senior, Lesli Schrauben as she and Debbie Sweeney watch Dominic Kellermann enjoy an exciting computer game.

Mr. Moritz holds another one of his classed captive, "I like teaching computers because the students are really interested in learning. It's beneficial to the students because students get a relatively quick feedback on their work, from the computer," claimed Mr. Moritz, computer teacher.

Kim Trice, senior, is diligently practicing her typing skills in office block. Staci Menapace, freshman, is obviously awed by her typing class. Staci please close your mouth before something flies in it.

Jeff Struble studies hard in his typing class to become a better typist. Lynn Prince is becoming a secretary for tomorrow in Office Block.

Making it some of my "business"

"Co-op allows me more freedom than normal classes and it is more fun too," claimed Matthew McMichael, senior, who works in the computer lab at Waverly.

Some of the keys to the future are obtained in Waverly's business and Co-op courses.

Business courses instruct the students in the basic skills needed to use business machines.

"I really enjoy my typing class. The class also gave me one skill I did not expect: I now have better eye and hand coordination," claimed Scott Noecker, freshman.

Accounting shows students how to keep track of their money. "Accounting is really fun especially when you like money," claimed Amanda Lee, foreign exchange student. "It will sure help me in the future especially because I'm going to be an accountant."

One beneficial program in the business department is Co-op. Co-op also allows the students to gain experience in the working world. "I've learned a lot more in Co-op than I did in regular school," claimed Debra Zaikowski, senior.

Katrina Ward, Junior, found another benefit to a business class, "Hopefully, It's going to save me money in college because I won't have to pay anybody to type for me."

Our business teachers are Jennie Carl, Erv Thelen, Mary Lou Cone, Joyce Newmyer, Dr. John Forte, and Jan Criss.

Art . . . in a different class

"I think of life as a big house and art as one of its many closets," remarked David Ellison, a junior art student. Art to many of us here at Waverly is more than just a class to wither away time. Beth Leary, senior, expressed, "I love art! It gives me a chance to express myself in a tangible form."

This year, the art program has been reduced from three teachers to two, Mr. Thompson and Mrs. Triola.

The products of our art classes were displayed well. One display was presented at both teacher conferences and the Talent Show.

"If it wasn't for art we wouldn't have anything to appreciate," states Carrie Fernsler, proving arts significance once more.

Waverly's artistic talent was highlighted by students such as Carrie Fernsler, Scott LeVeque, Trent Nainan, Beth Leary, and, the modest Brian Starks; "Art is sweet, dude, 'cause I'm sweet at it."

Cooking, printing sewing and sawing

When one thinks of Industrial Technology, one may not include Home Economics and Cadet Teaching in a field including drafting, plastics, graphics, and woodshop.

"I loved making lasagna with those crinklie noodles," said Kris Smith, a senior chef.

Brian Dokum, the only male cadet teacher stated, "anyone who is interested in teaching should definitely participate in this."

Graphics first year class includes many things, one being offset printing. Second year continues with the printing of Waverly's own PLEIAD.

Woodshop students learn and use many different materials such as plastic, wood, and metal.

By the way it looks like our Industrial Technology classes will continue to excell in the coming years.

Foreign Languages is a fun challenge

Taking a foreign language is definitely a challenge. Many students give up after a year, others continue on. We offer French, Spanish, and German, all of which are great classes.

Mr. Siler's fourth hour French II and Mrs. Swieringa's fourth hour German II class tied for first place in the National Honor Society food drive. All fourth hours competed but these two were the most outstanding.

The French and Spanish classes also made posters this year. Each poster was judged by various teachers and a first, second, and third place prize was given to each.

The Spanish classes also put on a Spanish night. All the Spanish classes got together for a pot luck dinner featuring, of course, Spanish food. Skits and small acts were also put on by the students. The whole night seemed to be a success.

Working your body into shape

Mark Burgess, Steve Ballard, Jason Krause and Brad Crist reach for the basketball. Annie Pang and the rest of the gym class enjoy a game of volleyball.

Leah McLaury twirls the jumprope as Delaney Hogan jumps in.

Terry Amunga and Shamoor Williams start a fast break to the other side of the court.

Gym is a class we've all taken at one time or another some of us by choice others only for the two years it's required.

Gym classes offered are fall team sports which includes volleyball, basketball, football and soccer. Spring team sports which include volleyball, basketball, tennis and softball, Indoor/Outdoor games, dance and Net games.

Mr. Taft a gym teacher for many years said he thinks that the gym classes are just what the kids want. "We didn't really change anything, the kids like what we offer now." The addition of the little gym two years ago helps. Here are some of the reasons why Waverly students take a gym class:

Jason Todd — "Because Monica comes in here and interviews us for the yearbook or newspaper everyday."

Steve Potter — "Because I get to lift and better my almost perfect body."

Matt Lichon — "Because it's easy and it gives you a break from other classes. You don't usually have homework!"

Molly Milloy — "Because it gives me a break from other classes."

Chris Hashley — "So I can play softball in 'Net Games'."

Nancy Dombroski — "Because I always have one awesome sub."

Nicole Kelley — "Because I have to! Plus it's physically nourishing."

Mary Gunderman — "It's a chance to scope out the awesome dudes."

Marching band starts with a bang.

Our marching band worked hard to make our halftime shows an exciting event. The marching band started meeting one week before school started. This consisted of making squads, learning music, and learning shows. The band had many night rehearsals and met 1st hour every day.

One of their many shows were known as the Senior Show in which all the seniors were honored. The band also played at the Township hall for the unveiling of the sesquicentennial plaque. At the end of the season, a potluck dinner was held to give awards.

As many of you can remember, the marching band was at many of the pep assemblies doing what they do best — getting the crowd pepped and ready for anything.

The marching band deserves a hand from all of us for their half-time shows which made us anxious to win!

Ms. Iagulli is the Waverly High School marching band director. Just look at that smile! That's what got her through the season.

During one of the marching band half-time shows, the 22 seniors were called forward to be recognized for an excellent season. These seniors were given courages before the game that night: Lisa Brenner, Tom Cunningham, Amy DeYoe, Heather DuMond, Heidi DuMond, Dion Jones, Josh Kesler, Kim Roe, Julie Blackshaw, Chris Grove, Maria Lofrese, Becky Miller, Renee Parshal, Suzy Epps, Sara Epps, Heather Kinning, Joe Lavigne, Ted Manko, Mike Mishanec, Pat Moore, Mike Rice, Nicole Keast. Congratulations, seniors, you did a great job!

Jazz is inspiring at collage

The Waverly jazz band has a very good reputation for their excellent performances. The band is remembered most for their unbelievable show of talent in the 87-88 Collage Concert.

The band has played for many events such as the Central Michigan University Jazz Festival and performed for the 39er's. They received II's at Regionals in Clarkston.

The jazz band's last two performances were at the school's final assembly on June 15 and at the Summer Concert on June 18.

The high school Jazz Band Director is Mr. Parker. Parker has helped out a lot during marching band season and works with the symphonic band.

Superb performances from the concert bands.

There are two concert band groups that represent our school, they are the Wind Ensemble and the Symphonic Band. These groups both have Freshmen, Sophomore, Juniors, and Seniors, participating in them.

To be a member of the Wind Ensemble is by audition only, and the Symphonic Band is made up of those who preferred not to audition in the Wind Ensemble.

The District Festivals were held here at Waverly. The Wind Ensemble and Symphonic Band both received II (very good) ratings.

This years big event was the Collage Concert. The Concert was in December of 87. The bands both played very well that night. To end the night with a bang the final piece was accompanied by an extraordinary light show followed by fireworks.

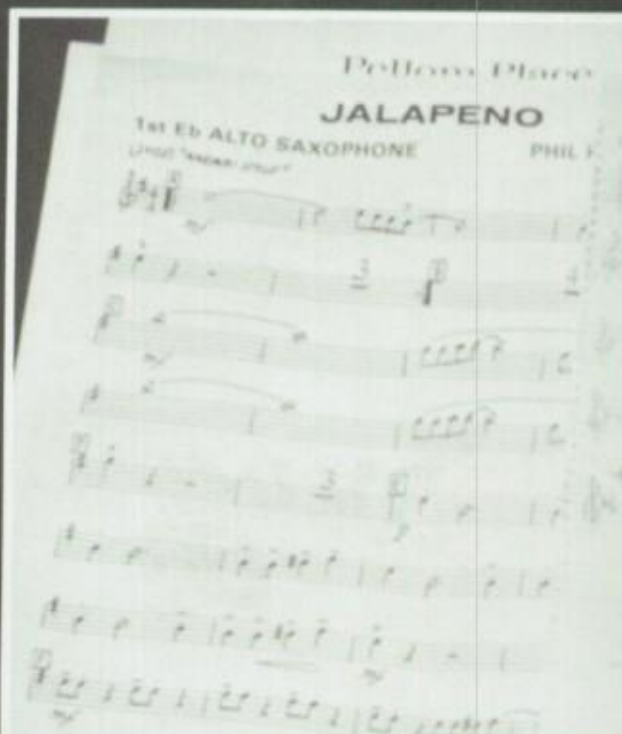

Mr. Parker and Ms. Iagulli are the directors of the high school concert bands. Mr. Parker directs the Symphonic band and Ms. Iagulli directs the Waverly Wind Ensemble.

The Waverly Wind Ensemble is directed by Ms. Iagulli. There are thirty-five members and thirteen of them are seniors. These members must audition to be in this higher more challenging band.

The Waverly Symphonic Band is under the conduction of Mr. Parker. The symphonic Band has forty-four members with eight of them being seniors.

Orchestra members perform intensely during one of their concerts. These students performed at District Festivals and received a II rating which is very good.

Dedicated Orchestra members achieve many goals

Our 87-88 Orchestra is a very dedicated group of Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors.

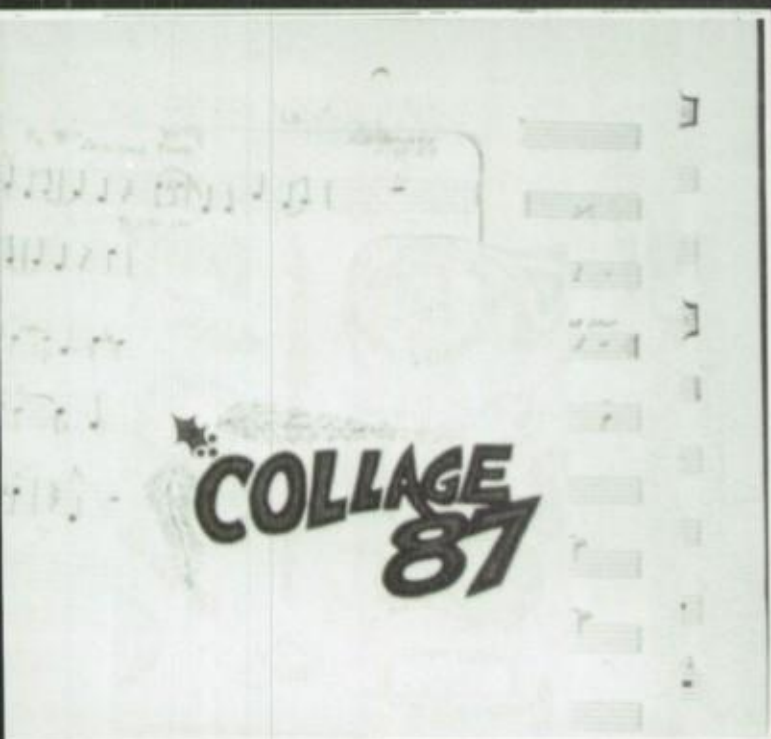

This group has the special opportunity of having a dual concert with the St. Johns Orchestra, they also played a major role in the 87-88 Collage Concert, with many individual players performing.

The District Festivals were held here at Waverly and the Orchestra received a II (very good) rating. There were many participants in the Solo and Ensemble Festival this year.

Overall this years Orchestra has achieved many goals and has many talented individuals in their group.

The Orchestra Conductor is Karen O'Brien who is a very dedicated individual to her job and to her students.

Rhythm is gonna get you

"I've had a lot of fun even though we have had our share of rough times," said senior Sara Epps. This seemed to be the average opinion of the group.

This year's Waverly Reflections definitely have been through a lot together. After getting a late start due to the strike, the Reflections found themselves under tremendous pressure on their first day of class. Upcoming concerts that had been scheduled the year before were now only three weeks away, and the music needed to be learned.

After the fall season however, their repertoire did not let up; Christmas was around the corner and over 10 new songs had to be learned. "It was a busy time of year. We performed a lot of concerts. It was cool getting out of school as much as we did," commented Josh Kesler. The annual collage concert, which they take part in every year was a huge success for the Reflections. "We really performed well that night. It was one of our best that season," replied Pat Moore.

The group plugged on towards competitions in February and March. During district competitions, Reflections took straight ones which qualified them for state competitions where they took one's again.

Let's take the gang downtown.

"This year has been perfect," says senior Jeff Kniple, but later adds, "HA, yeah, right!" Sara Epps, you better watch out that Jeff doesn't hit you!

Above: "Am I doing this right?" asks senior Jill Phillips to dance partner Chin Kim. Below: Director, Denise Sauter and accompanist, Lisa Edgerton watch attentively as the Reflections perform a dance number.

Long hours of practice go into the preparation for the annual Reflections Pops Concert. This year's theme was The Rhythm Is Gonna Get You. Look out Pee-Wee Herman!!!

Above: All decked out in their formal attire, the Reflections perform a variety of music for a church group.

Finally the group was able to concentrate on some "fun" music for their annual Pops Concert. "This is what I've been looking forward to all year. It's what made me want to be in this group," remarked senior Kiersten King. This year's theme for the Pops Concert was "The Rhythm Is Gonna Get You." Other popular songs included "Happy Together", "I've Got Rhythm", "Alley Oop", "Locomotion", and "Route 66."

"Overall, this year hasn't been too bad. I learned a lot about what goes into being part of this group and I am looking forward to it again next year!" stated Michelle Lee.

Waverly's fine art continues

The Waverly Choral Department has again excelled this year with a variety of different performances.

The Combined Choirs which consist of the Women's Choir, Men's Choir, and Reflections, performed early this fall for a group called ACDA: American Choral Directors Association. Waverly was picked to perform due to the outstanding performance of last year's groups at State Choral Competition. They, (ACDA) were not disappointed with the performance of this year's group.

As done traditionally, the separate choirs took part in a variety of competitions receiving marks from excellent to superior.

The choirs had remarkable performances during their Christmas and Spring concerts.

Next year the choral department has hopes of expanding to four choirs: Women's Choir, Men's Choir, a Select Choir and an Honors Select Choir, (Reflections). The future for the choral department is looking bright.

Blessed are secretaries for jobs well done.

"The Secretaries of Waverly High School are one in a million. They are so supportive and helpful. They made each day easier to get through. They always come up with a smile or funny comment when you need it," boasts Mr. Comstock.

What would the school be like without the help of the secretaries? Don't think that their jobs are easy everyday routine. They help with solving students' problems indirectly. Typing memos, answering phone calls, running computer programs, keeping track of financial matters, assisting principals and faculty members and handling administrative affairs. Elizabeth Karkau, one of the secretaries comments, "I enjoy my work very much. I have a nice group of people to work with. It's an interesting job because of the varieties it provides. The main advantage in working in a school is I can have a summer vacation. I like Waverly a lot."

Dorothy D'Haene says it best when she says she "likes working in schools because she likes to work with the kids."

WHS' leading men

Waverly principals Mr. Stahl, Mr. Comstock, and Mr. Johnson exchange new ideas for the school and discuss current events.

A secretaries job is never done. With phones ringing off the hook, which phone should they answer first?

While Mrs. Belding is making an appointment, she must be thinking of how great the Rose Bowl was.

Shelly Lischkge, Suzanne Guetshow, Dorothy D'Haene, Charlene Crawford, Joyce Goodman, and Elizabeth Karkau survived another long and grueling year.

"I think she is a very self-determined girl," commented Sue Lee on her friend Julie Burns, a black belt at Tai Kwan Do.

"Being called 'Bruce Julie', 'Karate Kid', and 'the master', Burns started learning Tai Kwan Do two years ago. 'At first I wanted to learn it because it looked challenging. As I studied it more, I learned a lot of things like patience, self control, and a respect for other people.'"

"Some people take Tai Kwan Do and then look for fights. I think that's stupid and immature."

When considering her future, Burns wants to be a teacher in Tai Kwan Do. Two months later, she will be an instructor in her class, working with juniors. "Four years after that I will be a certified teacher. I can't wait till then. Tai Kwan Do gives me a goal. Whenever I achieve a goal, there is always another one ahead. It gives me motivation to do better."

"In spare time I like to hang around with my friend Tiffany. Most of the time I like to imagine things. I want to be self-reliant, to judge and decide things by myself," said Katharine Cunningham.

Yet she is called "Possessed Satinist", "Vampire", and "Witch". Cunningham replied, "That's ridiculous. People can't judge others solely by appearance."

"I hate people staring at me when I walk in the hall or anywhere. I didn't do anything wrong," exploded Cunningham. People think she's weird because she always wears black, exaggerated make-up, and gigantic cross earrings.

"Since I was a child I wanted to be someone different and unique. I think the way I dress is creative and stylish. I hope I can be a fashion designer one day."

"Sometimes I feel very lonely and it's hard to make friends because they are usually scared by my outlooks. I wish people could take time to get to know the person before making the judgement."

"My main goal in life is to be happy. I try to be nice to everybody."

"Everyone is unique, only some people have the guts to show it."

Heather Cooper: Freshman Gymnast

When you first look at this 14 year old freshman, you might not think that Heather Cooper is a very athletic girl; however, after school she participated in probably one of the toughest, and most demanding sports that girls have, gymnastics.

Heather is an all around gymnast in the Great Lakes Gymnastics Junior Division, which means she does all four of the events (balance beam, parallel bars, floor, and vault). When asked what her favorite event was she said, "My favorite event is the beam." Heather stated her highest score in that event is a 9.4.

Heather's work-out routine consists of a weight lifting program and various gymnastics routines.

All Heather's hard work pays off. Her gymnastic meets take her to places like Florida and California! Last year, members of Great Lakes went to France.

Although she said she had no particular hobbies or interests, she did mention that her favorite teacher is Mr. Prahler who teaches Social Studies and her favorite subject is her biology class taught by Mr. Fillingham.

When asked what kind of grades she gets Heather stated, "Oh, I get mostly A's and B's."

Who knows, maybe when you turn on the Olympics in 1992, you will see Heather Cooper getting a '10' on the beam.

The skateboarders:

Joe Purnhaven

Above: Joe pulls off an excellent wall rideout side of the gymnasium. Right: Purnhaven performs a really nice rail slide in the court yard. Check out the tough Joe.

You all know what sounds skateboards make; the scrapes, the grinds, and the dull humming of wheels. When these sounds infiltrate your ears, you know that the SKATERS are coming.

"Skating is a way for us to let out all of our frustrations," said Joe Purnhaven. "It gives me freedom and a way to express myself."

Purnhaven has been skating for a little over a year and a half. "My goal is to receive an amateur contract with a skating company in two or three years. I skate about every day and have bruises and scrapes to show for all of the times I've 'waxed' but as long as I improve I won't care about the scabs."

Purnhaven says that his favorite place to thrash is "Skaters Alley" in East Lansing. "It's fun to skate there because all of the other guys are so cool to hang around with. They will teach you tricks that you don't know. Some of them are already sponsored by skate companies so they know what they're doing."

Purnhaven's favorite pro skater is Tom Guerro. "Guerro is a great street skater, and street skating is the only skating to me."

Rich Culver

Rich Culver is the second half of the new freshmen skater generation. Culver says that he has been skating for over two and a half years.

"I like to skate. It is something to do and is a lot of fun. Some people play sports, well skateboarding is my sport," said Culver.

Culver says that Natus Copus is his favorite pro because he is really supportive of skaters and tells them to keep practicing and keep improving.

"Skateboards are really expensive to buy, that is why I only have one board, they tend to run about $130 dollars for a good one, mainly because there is only one skate shop in Lansing and since they have no competition they can charge us as much as they want."

Culver says that he really doesn't get hurt any more, but when he started out he says that he has had every wipe-out imaginable.

When asked what Culver thought of posers, Culver said, "Posers really don't bother me, when we all started out we were all posers, but now some of us are really good."

Culver says that skating isn't a cult thing, it is an activity. "Sometimes we just hang around 'Bilbo's' and socialize.

Above: Rich perfectly executes a hand plant in the court yard. Left: Culver "ollies" off of a bench. Far Left: Rich lets go of a mile high boneless to please the spectators.

Extracurricular computers

"I think he has excellent potential in the computer field," commented Mr. Byron Olson, an advisor, on the performance of Steve Dunham.

On Thursday evenings, Dunham, 16, gets together with about 40 other students. They all meet at Electronic Data Systems (E.D.S.) to discuss and learn how to program computers.

Dunham received his first computer at the tender age of seven. Although the computer is either a study or learning instrument, he can occasionally be found playing a game. He adores the IBM Compatible computer. Dunham admits he has a special outlook on computers. "I like computers because they're very interesting."

His hopes for the future are to study computers and possibly get into a computer related field. He presumes that his field of study will be computer programming. He believes that kids should get into computers as early as possible. "Because of the growing use of computers, I think younger people should get into them early and I also think that they should be used in education."

Dunham says that his love for computers developed when he was a little kid. He also states that it is very hard work to make the programs for the level that he is on, yet it is well worth it.

Olympics 1996?

"Mom and Dad started me playing soccer at the age of five and I have played ever since," said Mark Shipman.

Shipman has played in several leagues. He has played in U.S.S.F., Bonanza, and the Little Caesar's soccer leagues along with the A.Y.S.O. team that he started playing with when he lived in Holt.

"A.Y.S.O. was just for fun, but when you get into the leagues that you have to try-out to make a team, competition can get pretty fierce."

Last year Shipman made the Olympic Development All State Team for his age group.

"I was really surprised that I made all the cuts, I think it was mostly luck because there were a lot of excellent players cut from the try-outs, I really hope to make it again next year."

Shipman is now playing for the Lansing Cosmos which won its last three games to capture the state championship in the 14 and under age division.

"The Cosmos played really well together this year," said Shipman. "We have played together as a team before, but this year we sort of jelled, especially when we came in second in the Lexington Kentucky Tournament."

Shipman said, "My next goal is to make varsity soccer next year. My only real weakness is my speed, but I believe I have enough ball control to make up for it."

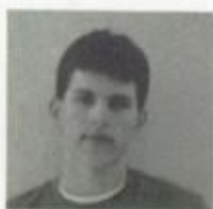

Above: Mark leaves another East Lansing player in the dust. Top Left: Shipman plays some tight man-to-man defense. Bottom Left: Mark watches the action from the bench during the Lexington tournament.

"You know you're a freshmen when . . ."

Ben Dunlap:
"When you're asked stupid questions like, you know you're a freshman when."

Tom Marowelli:
"When even the middle school kids are mocking you for being a freshmen."

Sue Lee:

Mark Shipman:

Marcel Mayberry:

Kim Rodriguez:

"When you're the only one being quiet in a class full of upperclassmen."

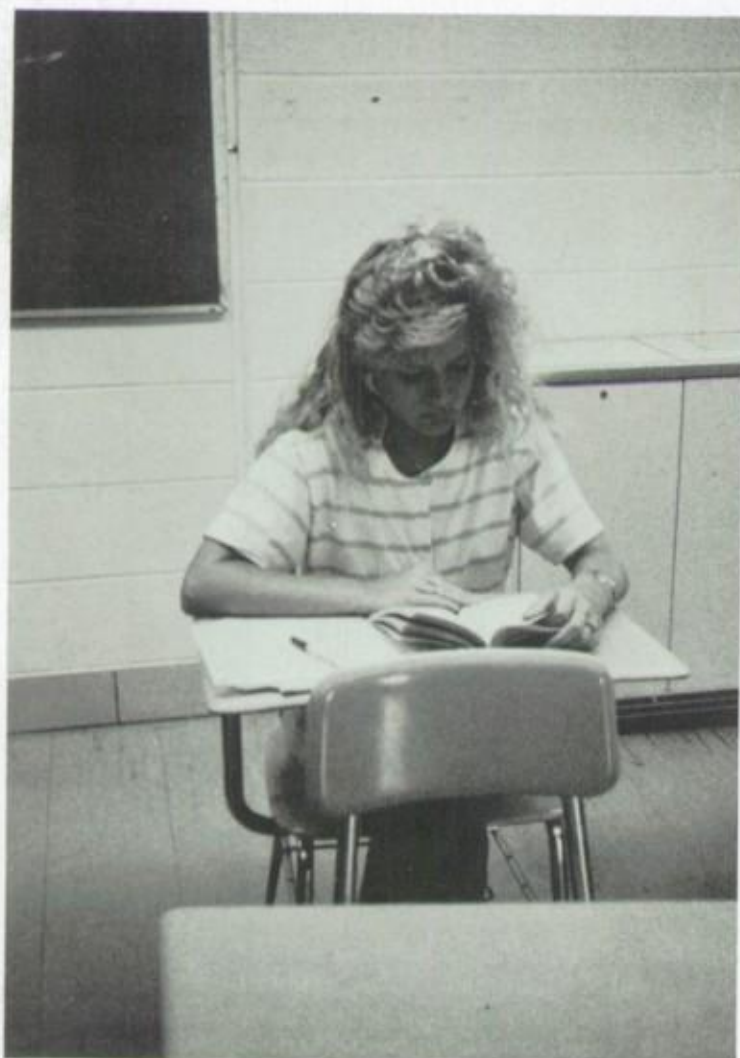

Sasha Jackson:

"When people try their hardest to look down on me . . . and can't."

Mike Hashley:

Just a little more time is all we're asking for

Perhaps the hardest thing to do in life is to set down goals and promise yourself that you will accomplish them.

Dana Phillips, 17, has been skating since the age of three, and at the age of five she was entered in the amateur division. She would practice four to five hours a day at an academy in Trenton. The practices were hard but her love for skating pulled her through. "I love skating. I love the excitement, the danger, and I express my feelings well while skating," remarked Dana.

Her life seemed to be going the right way, until hardship set in. She was forced to stop training at the academy and give up any chance of going to the Olympics. Her hope now is to become a professional skater. This would mean she would be free to teach in later years.

Dana would someday like to teach young children. She admits she enjoys the company of children, and would like to help a child in any way she can.

One of her fondest memories was when a small girl walked up to her and asked her if she was a professional skater. Dana explained to the girl that she was not, but the little girl was still fascinated. She gave the girl a few tips and sent her on her way.

Dana now spends her weekend afternoons at Munn Arena on the Michigan State campus. When at one time she spent a week studying one move, she now spends an hour.

For Dana, not going to the Olympics was a disappointment, but like falling on ice, she didn't quit. She has something to be proud of, for a motto which she takes seriously and lives by was "never quit".

"Racing a hydroplane consists of speed and good competitive driving," said Andy Snively.

The Snively family has been racing hydroplanes for many years and Andy is the newest to enter this family trend. He has been racing every summer since he was five years old.

In the 11 years that Andy has been racing, he has made a name for himself in the sport. "My favorite division is the one that I race in. The boats, which are ten feet, three inches and are powered by a 20 horse power engine, are very quick; it's the speed that I like," said Andy.

Andy's boat is a B and A hydroplane which is powered by a 20 horse powered Yamato. The people on Grass Lake (where he practices) are very familiar with the boat because Andy practices there every day for the 14 competitions that he enters every summer.

Some races he has won are the Grand Rapids Regatta, the Ohio Defiance, Thompson Lake, and Detroit Trenton competitions. He received a trophy from each race. Andy has also gone to the national competition three years in a row. His first year he placed 23rd, but did much better the next years by placing eighth and third, respectively.

Do you ever feel that there aren't enough hours in the day? Do you ever feel that you're up to your ears in work and that you'll never find your way out?

Christine Parkhurst, sophomore, has one of those days nearly every day. She is involved in many activities in and out of school. She plays violin both in the orchestra and in the pit orchestra for the play South Pacific, participates on the Future Problem Solving Team, is involved in the Bible Study Group, accompanies three church services a week, sings in adult choir, and often participates in special music programs for school and in church.

Christine spends up to an hour a day practicing the piano and the violin. "I must practice to proceed, but it's really a lot of fun," claimed Christine.

Christine uses her many musical talents in many ways. She plays in special programs for different reasons. "In the fall, I played the piano for a church activity for missionaries," she stated.

"I'm on the Future Problem Solving team, which is great for me, because it's a low key activity," she explained.

She also participates in the Bible Study Group. "I like doing something that furthers my beliefs within the school," said Christine.

Without a blind adherence that has conquered some

We all look forward to summer because with summer comes swimming, tanning, working, or just bumming around with your friends. But this year, for sophomore Jeff Dahring, with summer comes a two week stay in Hornbeck, Denmark, with his soccer team.

The team was put together through American Youth Soccer Organization (A.Y.S.O.). Soccer players from all over the city tried-out for this team, fifteen are from Waverly. The coach of this team is Bob Ramsey. Jeff and the guys will be staying with the families of the local Hornbeck soccer team and they will be playing games against teams from towns around Sweden, including Hornbeck. Jeff is looking forward to "meeting new people and touring parts of Europe". Jeff has been playing soccer since kindergarten. He was a valuable asset to our Junior Varsity soccer team this year. He hopes to play on the Varsity team his junior and senior year, but after high school he wants to "take it easy and concentrate on other things."

RIFF hopes to make it big

They're not on M.T.V., not played on the radio, not known to very many people. This isn't about just any ordinary group of students who get together to play some tunes. They're ... RIFF ...

This four man band consists of Chris Carolan, vocals; Aaron Holland, lead guitar; John Rodgers, drums; Scott Sharp, bass guitar.

They got started in November of 1986. They've broken up a couple of times but they've always ended up back together.

These four guys can make some good times together, they may even make it big.

They play big Rock, like Def Leppard, Van Halen, Led Zeppelin, and really old Motley Crew. Chris and Aaron have more talents than just being able to play music, they can write songs, too.

"Bob D'Hane and his band BAMF influenced us in getting into music and we hope to perform in front of school sometime," replied Chris Carolan.

"John's parents give up a lot for the band because we practice and play at their house, sometimes they even try to sleep through our late night Jam Sessions," said Chris.

John Vance, a junior at Waverly High School is currently ranked second in the nation at Tae Kwon Do. Vance started as a white belt about seven years ago. He is now a black belt and instructs students of lower rank at A.T.A. Fitness Center on Elmwood Rd. Vance has worked up to assistant manager and soon plans to be a manager.

With tournaments spread throughout the course of the year, Vance is constantly in training. He attends close to 12 tournaments in a year and usually places in the top two. "Ever since I was very young I have loved the sport; but my parents were afraid I would get hurt." But by wearing the right equipment and having superior coaching John hasn't sustained any type of major injury.

John is the kind of person that sets goals for himself and almost always reaches them. He is a top student and a great person to be around. One day John hopes to open his own gym and school but he has a few other goals to conquer before he begins that task. Have a Great Year and Good Luck!

Goal: Prom

The main responsibility of the officers is PROM. What do we have to do about prom? Everything! First of all, prom cost money. We raised the money by manning the concession stand during home football games.

We had to reserve the ballroom one year in advance and we still didn't get it on the night we preferred. About three months before the date, we had to order everything we were handing out. We also had to decide on colors, theme, song . . . About one month in advance, we had to meet and pick out food, decorations, etc. We also had to arrange to have a photographer present.

On prom night, we had to check and make sure that the decorations were put up right, and that everything was delivered and ready to go.

— Janice Maat

The puck stops here

Not many people know about what this one special young lady does. This young Lady is Ellie Griffith. What does she do, people ask? She plays Hockey. Yes Hockey! She started playing Hockey when she was seven-years-old and played for The Greater Lansing Amature Hockey Association (GLAHA).

When she was little, her sister was a figure skater and Ellie really didn't like to figure skate, so she went to playing hockey because it's a fast sport. When she was playing for GLAHA she played with boys and girls but when Ellie got older it got a little harder. Her sister wrote a letter to the coach of the Michigan Capitals and the coach asked Ellie to come and tryout so she went to Detroit to the tryouts. Ellie made the Michigan Captials and plays on the defense. On the first day she was, "excited to see that all my hard work had paid off," and nervous. When she got on the ice she showed them that she can take anything they dish out. Everytime she went out on the ice she felt she had to prove herself and they finally accepted her.

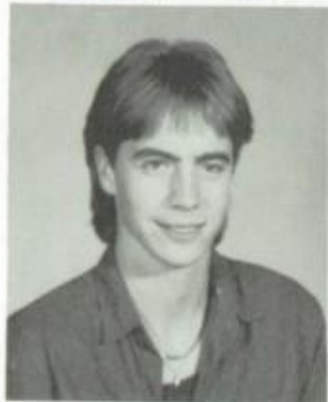

She sometimes hopes that girls hockey will come to the Olympics and when it does she wishes to go and play hockey for the USA team.

Once a buddy, always a buddy.

You never see one without the other. That's how the "Buddies" are here at Waverly High School. "Friendship means to me trusting each other and having a good time together," said freshman Tiffany Odum, pictured below with friends Sandy Bosma and Jami Schrauben. Senior Jeff Goad and his girlfriend Lynann Weatherwax also have a special relationship. "Lynann doesn't change me as much as she does the other guys" states Jeff. Junior Amy Bacon along with best friend Wendy DelCastillo commented on their friendship, "We can laugh and confide in each other. She's my buddy!" Other buddies pictured are Juniors Kim Peltz and Shelley O'Neil, Seniors Saundra Lartigue, Rena Bonet, Tami Bennett, Susie Buda, Kristi Egbert and Melisa Phillips. Juniors Shamoor Williams and Terry Amunga. Seniors Jeff Spedoske and J.J. Darden. Juniors Goran Jurkovic, Jason Todd and Jason Endsley. And Mario Ledesma, John Sugden, Ted Fatura, and Alan Prinkalans; a taste of all Waverly's friendships.

Jeff Goad

He's known as "the Legend," for many reasons; at Waverly we'll remember him for all of his achievements and as an outstanding leader. He participated in Student Senate all four of his high school years; and was the Board Representative his senior year. Jeff was chosen as one of the C.A.C.s top ten leaders.

Biggest partiers are Mike Coates and Rena Bohnet. Most Gullible are Dave Clevenger and Katie Cushman. Biggest Mouths are Dominic Kellerman and Kim Rahar. Biggest Flirts are Kristi Egbert and Brad Cole. Class Clowns are Dominic Kellerman and Carrie Purol.

Miscellaneous stuff

Prom 1988 . . . "Tonight You're Mine" . . .

Prom, a night to remember. This year's prom theme was, "Tonight You're Mine". Many people arrived in style with limos and Cadillacs. Prom was held on May 13, at the MSU Ballroom. This year Channel 10 broadcast the 11 pm news live from our Prom. They interviewed junior Becky Malin about SADD.

Some of the other highlights of the prom were the fact that this was the biggest one in Waverly's history! Over 400 people attended! Also, there was a pianist playing a grand piano in the foyer. Also, there was an ice sculpture of a castle in the parlor.

Becky Malin, a junior, was interviewed by T.V. 10 on her affiliation with SADD. "They asked what we had done to prepare for prom. We had sent out contracts that had a student pledge not to drink and drive. If 75% of the contracts were turned, we would have Mr. Comstock locked-up. Of course, non-alcoholic champagne was served!"

As you can see, the junior class put on an unforgettable prom. They put a lot of hard work and patience into it. Janice Maat, Junior Class Treasurer, added, "Even though we had some problems with the company, everything went off smoothly and we had a great time!"

Top Far Right: After enjoying some punch, couples are ready to hit the dance floor. Below Far Right: Students watch TV 10 get ready for the 11 p.m. news.

“Who had the best dress?”

This year we asked a few of the students some questions about prom, and what they thought of it. The first question was, “Who do you think had the best dress?”:

Rocky Stornant — “Lori Swift, because it was hot and now!”

Amy Strauss — “Amy Young, because, it was different.

Dominic Kellerman — “Jennifer Garrison.”

Chad Stewart — “Lori Swift because, it was tight!”

Susie Buda — “Rena Bohnet because it was beautiful.”

An unforgettable time!

“Where was the best place to eat dinner?”

This year a lot of people ate dinner at many different places. Some ate with groups of friends and some enjoyed a quiet dinner for two at their favorite restaurant. Here's what some of them said was “the best place to eat.”

Jason Todd — “The Pour House because everyone was there.”

Ena Stewart — “Chadwick's it was very elegant.”

Dan Hathaway — “The Pour House because I work there and got a discount.”

Pat Moore — “Hummingbird's because all the guys were there.”

Annette Baur — “The best place was the Pour House because everyone bashed there.”

Far Right: Brad LaPratt and his date, Suzy Epps, take a minute to check out the lovely couples. Below: Kim Breidenstein and Beth Leary seem to be amazed at the ice sculpture.

Right: Tara Hart and Monica Patton stop for a picture at the Pour House.

Far Right: Mrs. Ellis helps Randy Altman and Noel Piggot find that perfect pose!

"Who was the cutest couple?"

Left: "No more pictures, please!" exclaims Kerry Behrendt, Anna Mariin-Sanchez, and Kelli Meyers. Below: Couples slow down the pace and enjoy each other.

There were a lot of cute couples at prom besides yourself, so we asked, "What specific couple stood out in your mind?":

Molly Milloy — "The cutest couple was Matt Lichon and Amy Foster."

Steve Potter — "Jason Endsley and Sue Buda."

Ron Ruiz — "Mike Stapelman and Jennifer Pollice."

Matt Lichon — "Cutest was Brad Engler and Nancy Dombroski."

Tara Hart — "Lori Swift and Scott Menapace looked the sharpest!"

Kelly Donally — "I thought everyone looked cute!"

Tony Andrews — "Jenni Creamer and her boyfriend, Mike."

Chris Hashley — "Nancy Dombroski and Brad Engler."

Students awarded on Annual Awards Night

"The envelope please . . . and the winner is . . ." As each award winner was called, the auditorium roared with applause. Hugs, kisses, and a general feeling of achievement, excitement and joy was shared by everyone who attended. Says Betsy Bacon, "It was very special. Seeing everyone in their caps and gowns made me realize that high school is coming to an end. It was a good feeling seeing my classmates awarded." On Tuesday June 14 at 7:00 pm in the WHS auditorium the 1988 senior class was honored with various awards at the Annual Honors Night.

The awards ranged from the Top Ten, scholarships and Departmental Awards, to the Outside Organizational Awards and Leadership Awards.

"I felt very honored to be representing my classmates and my school when I received the Outstanding Leadership Award. I hope that all my efforts will someday be an impact on future Waverly kids, and when that happens, I know it was all worth it!" commented award receiver Mike Rice.

Friendships that have lasted since grade school, were evident as friends congratulated one another on a job well done. Commented Steve Kutas, "I was very happy and proud of all the people who were awarded, because they all deserved it!"

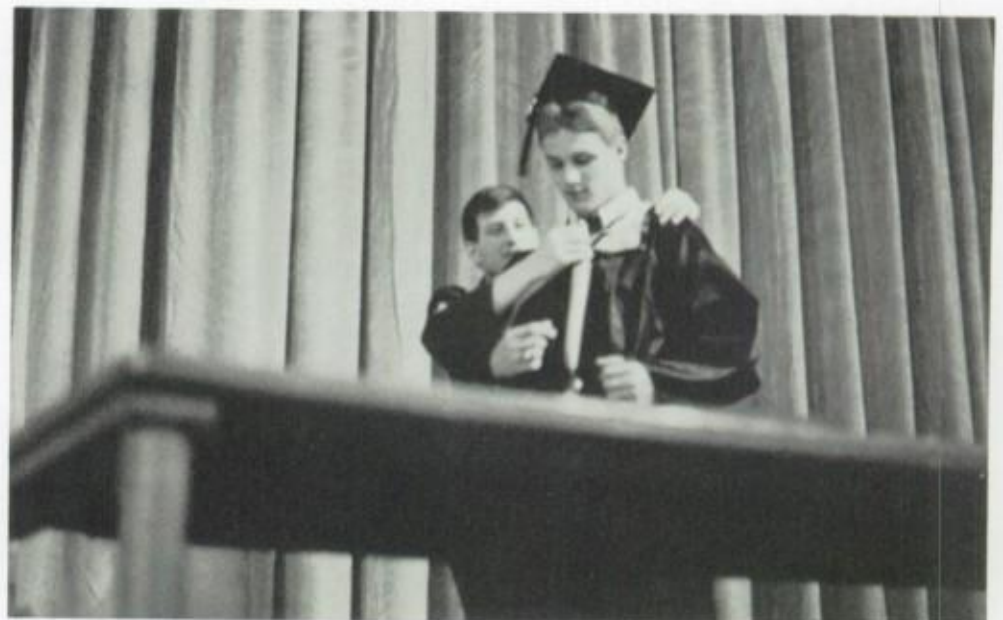

A feeling of closeness and unity. A time to reminisce on the past years and a time to look forward to the future. Honors Night 1988.

A sense of unity

Right: Ann Norris, Dawn Hoag, and Janice Frendt discuss open house plans.

It was June 12th, "I'll remember it because for once, the senior class was completely together. There was a sense of unity. It was very special for everyone there," said Nick Baldwin. In the Waverly High School auditorium, "When you see everyone in their gowns you realize, wow, everyone is graduating. That's a real unique feeling," said Amy Cooper. It was Baccalaureate for Waverly's graduating class of 1988. Reminiscing, Dawn Nash said, "The ceremony was really nice. I will always remember the symphony playing, they sounded great!" Peggy Abood commented on the speakers, "I thought Father Murray was splendid and Waverly High School was privileged to have him speak at our Baccalaureate . . . And I was pretty good too."

Baccalaureate created a lot of mixed feelings in the seniors. "It's really weird to see everyone dressed-up in graduation attire and to know that we're finally graduating. I think Baccalaureate and Honors Night kind of summed up everything before Commencement."

It was June 12th, two o'clock in the high school auditorium, it was Waverly's Class of 1988 Baccalaureate.

Two week delay doesn't dampen graduation spirit

The Waverly Warrior graduating class of 1988 gathered at the Wharton Center on the MSU campus at 12:00 pm, June 19, to prepare for their final walk together. After a couple of walk-throughs, last minute instructions from Mr. Comstock, and refreshments, they were ready.

At 2:00 pm, all heads turned as the 1988 graduates entered. As the final graduates found their seats, the band, led by Mrs. Iagulli, ended its brilliant rendition of "Pomp and Circumstance". As everyone settled down, the audience was entertained by several speakers including the senior class preident, Peggy Abood, and her father Camille Abood.

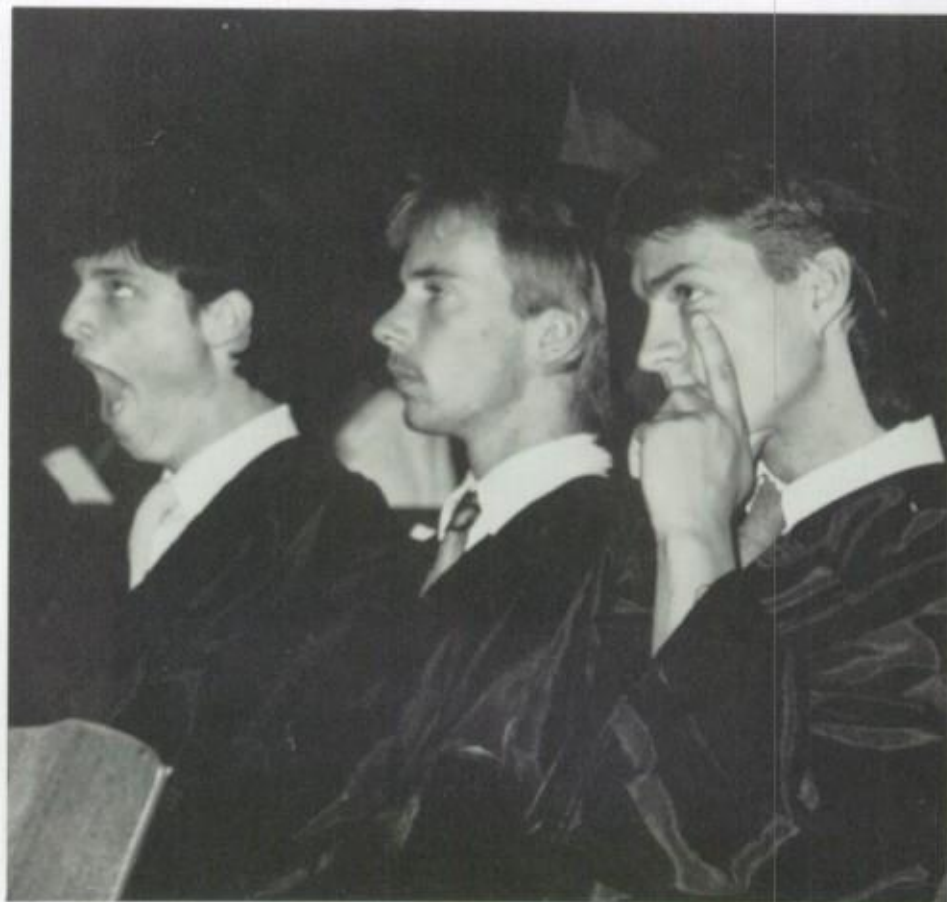

Peggy wished everyone the best and hoped everyone would make their own personal dreams come true.

The guest speaker, Mr. Abood, gave an inspirational speech to the graduates of 1988. He told the seniors that they were the leaders of tomorrow and that we must use everything we've learned and make the world a better place for all.

Roll call then was taken as the 276 graduating seniors crossed the stage.

About an hour and a half later, the graduates, families, and friends filed out of the giant auditorium to celebrate graduation and Father's Day, and to watch the Piston-Laker NBA Final.

Approximately at 5:00 pm on June 19, 1988, the graduating class of 1988 began a new life.

Upper Right: Don't fall asleep Brian Bowser! Allen Vieth and J.R. Ward find ways to keep themselves awake.

A break from the winter blues

It came at just the right time! A dose of excitement was needed to break the monotony that accompanies every winter, and the White Winter Festival was successful at doing just that.

Spirit Week began with "College Day". We wore our favorite college sweatshirts. During the lunch hour six groups demonstrated their rhythm by rapping.

It was a good thing that Tuesday was a warm day because wearing just a sheet can get mighty cold! Dressing in togas and selling 17 students as slaves created tons of excitement on this day.

Wednesday was the first ever "Doomsday". Alex Fink said, "I like the idea because we'd all like to celebrate Grand Ledge's doom." The mock beauty contest was won by Lesli Schrauben.

Is that a girl or a guy? That was a popular question on Tuesday because we dressed up as the opposite sex. The air-band competition was sensational! "Group three was the most original because of their selection, 'Respect', and they did a good job," according to Kim Maidlow. The winner was "Deja" and it was obvious they had practiced a lot on it.

Friday, like usual, had the most participation. Black and Gold Day brought out the spirit in everyone, especially during the pep-assembly. "Brad Engler (otherwise known as Captain Warrior) was the best dressed," according to Gary Acker.

The band BAMF, formed of graduated Waverly students, performed their latest hits at noon. Unlike last year, there was not a court but the dance was still held.

Overall, White Winter Festival was successful in breaking the "winter blues."

Student senate officers

Jeff Goad and Pat Moore led the best assembly of the year. Yes, Jeff really did take his pants off!

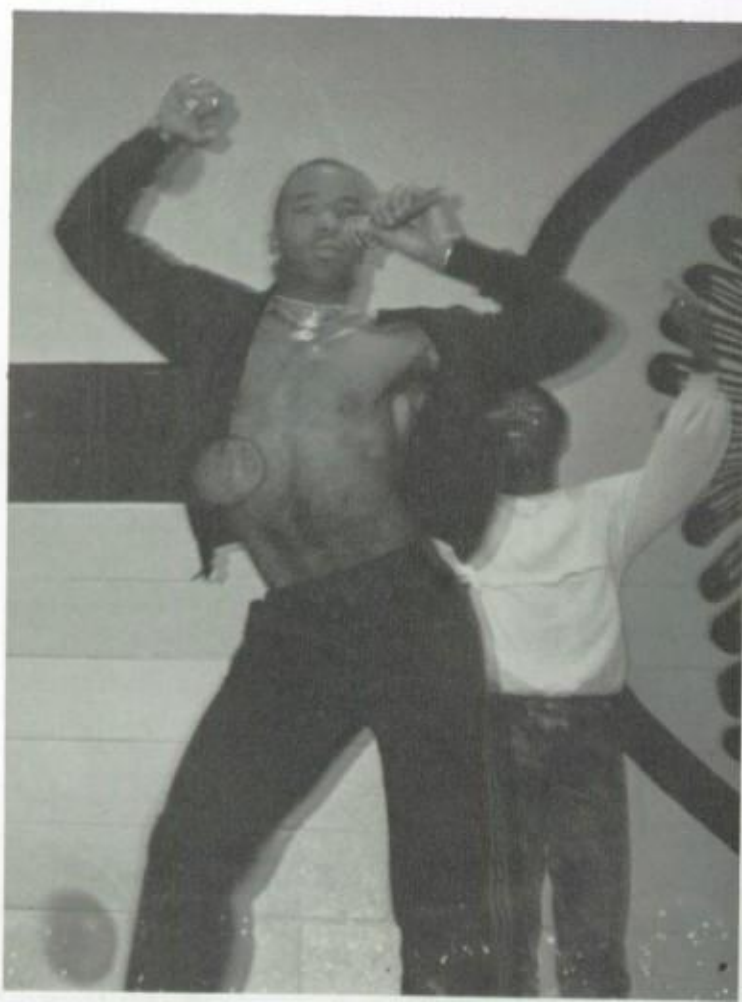

The winner of the air-band contest was the group "DEJA"

Maryanne Cervantes, Aimee Gauthier, and Nacho Centeno, were the members, and they performed to the song "Can't Wait."

Guy Thomas did a terrific job of imitating Michael Jackson's song BAD. His two back-ups were Nathan Banks and Terry Amunga.

Jacinda Adams, Myken Mayberry, and Sasha Jackson made up the group "Crushin Crew." They performed to the song PUSH IT.

Mike Hashley, who represented an Everett Viking was forced to his grave during the pep assembly. Bill Burke and Jason Todd look on, but see no reason to assist the varsity b-ball player Jason Endsley.

Jeff auctioned off seventeen slaves, including his girlfriend Lynann Weatherwax. Student senate earned about $150 dollars this time.

Karl Guerre, Herbie Gonzales, and Marcel Mayberry lip-synced to the song I WANT HER. Their group was called B.K.M.

They say best friends begin to imitate each other, but isn't this a little much Jason Todd and Jason Endsley? They're both contestants in the beauty contest.

Spirit succeeds modesty

White sand, dark tans, hot sun, cold pop, loud music & no sleep . . .

Even vacations are tiresome. Especially for Katie Cushman, Kim Maidlow, and Jenny Creamer as they entertain friends like Brad Engler throughout the night.

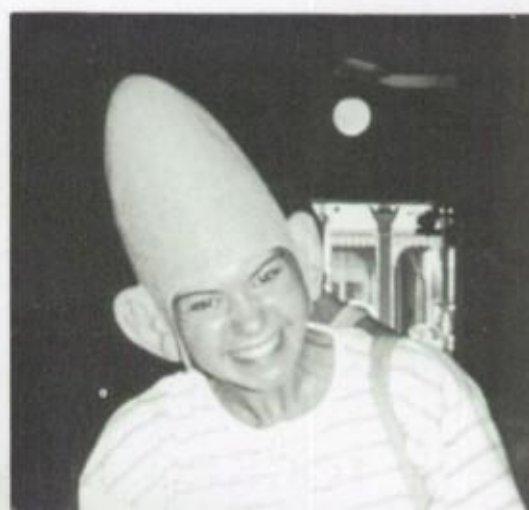

"Surf, Suds, Sun!" "You . . . Chooch!" "Life's a Beach" "Doggy Doo Doo Happens!" "Here Kitty, Kitty!" "Yo, Dudel!" "Sheck anything!" We hear these expressions repeatedly since Spring Break, chances are most of us even say a couple.

But what does all this mean? Well, it's the politest but humorous way to describe Spring Break Vacation this year.

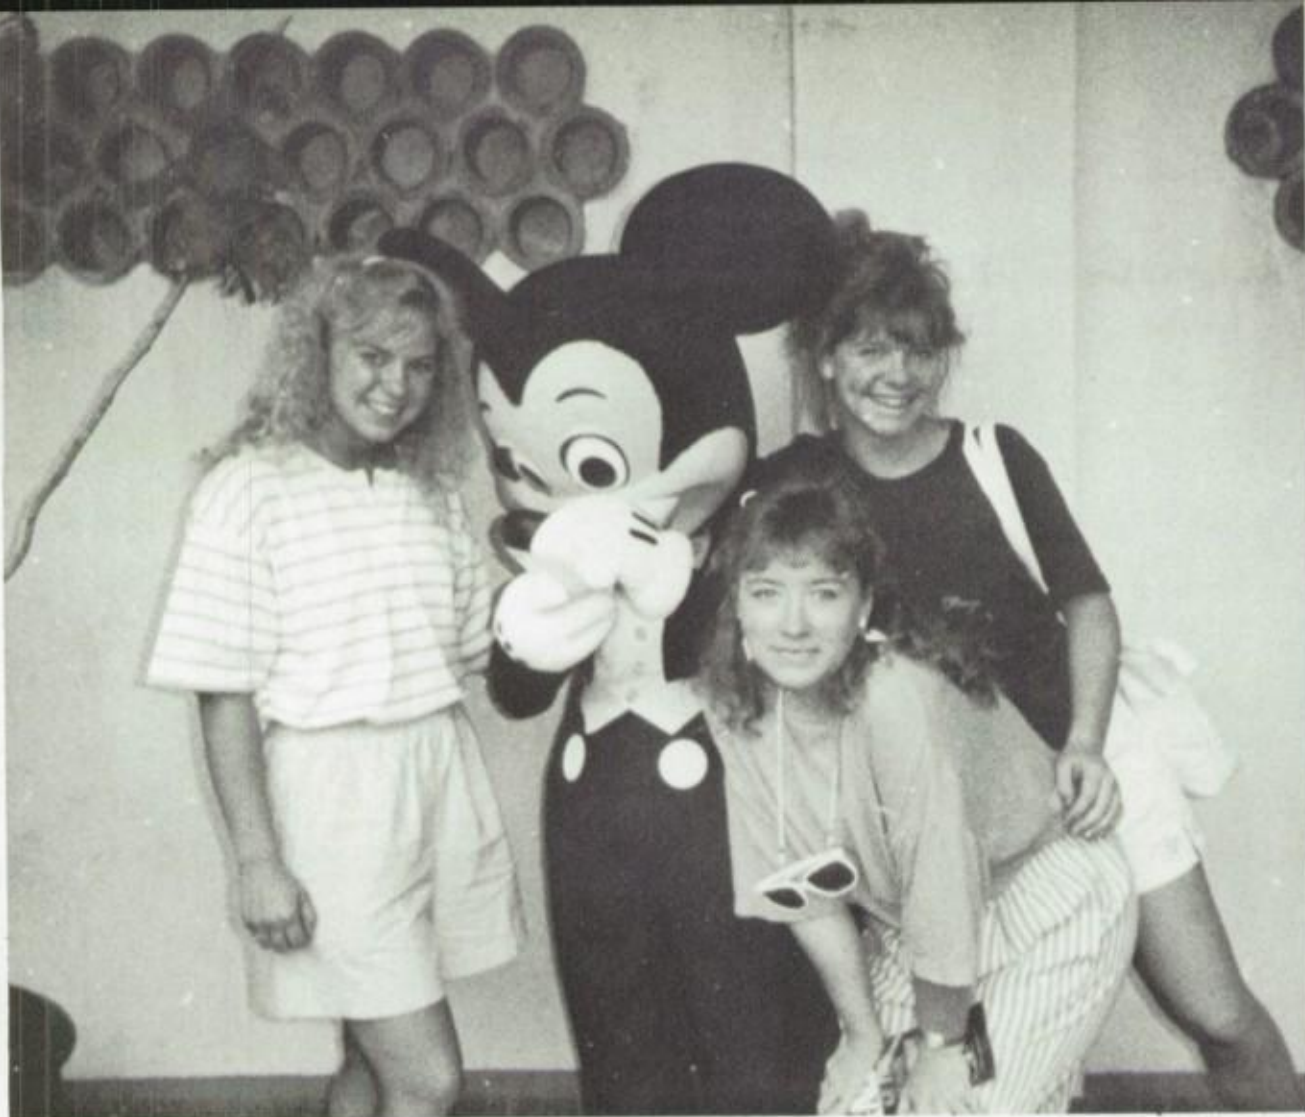

The "hottest" spot to go again this year was Daytona Beach, Florida. About sixty seniors partied there for a week. Senior Kim Rahar said, "It was the best place to meet new friends and have a good time." However, four of our seniors; who will remain nameless, were having too much fun and were sent home early. Florida in general and California are two other very popular destinations. "Those less fortunate ones who stayed in the Lansing area still had fun. Todd Ross said, "It was enough just to know I was free for nine days."

Bill Burke, Josh Kesler, Christian Odlum, Dominic Kellerman, Kurt Cranson, Brad Crist, Dave Clevenger, Jeff Kniple, and Rob Whitaker compete in the Carnival's volleyball competition. Not everyone went to Florida. Amy Houpt and Seanna Dunn spent eight days traveling around Colorado and Arizona visiting places like the Grand Canyon.

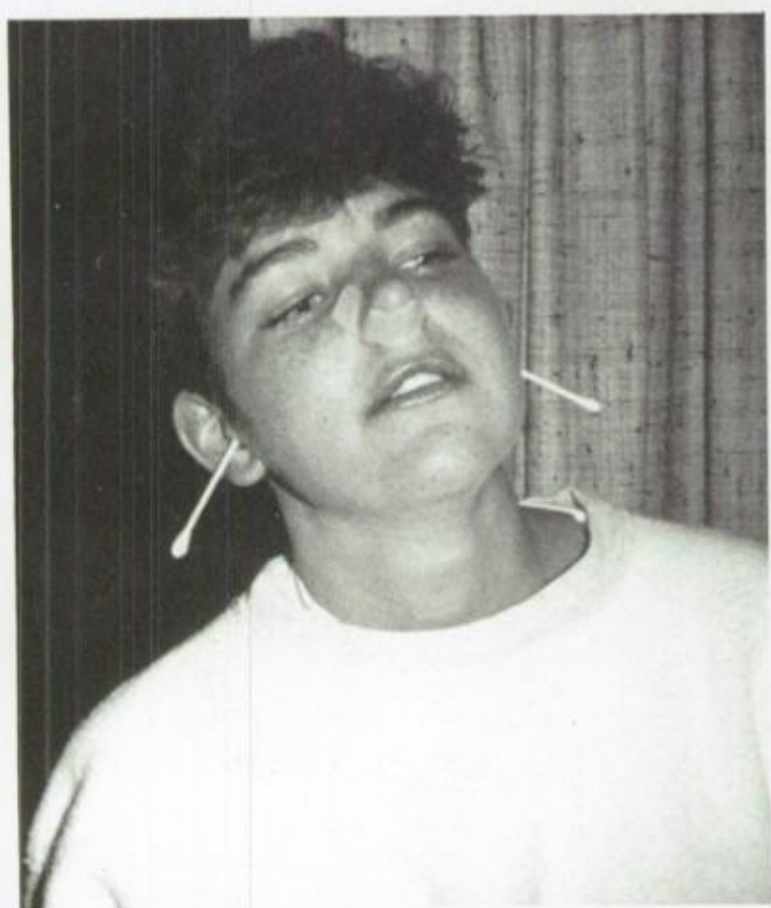

The Carnival Hotel held many competitions including a flex contest which Rob Whitaker competed in. Rob took second place; but everyone thought he deserved first. "I just had to do it! You only live once," says Tricia Martin.

Four awesome people in one picture; it's almost too much! Tricia Martin, Amy Young, and Tami Bennett spent a day at Disney World and were fortunate enough to meet the World's greatest character Mickey Mouse.

A few of the unlucky bus riders await their thirty-three hour trip home. Monica Patton, says "I'm glad Pat Moore was there because it's scary with just three girls."

It looks like Nancy Dombroski had a little bit too much caffeine!?

Mike Fulton and Nick Stornant hold down Kim Rahar in her motel room while Kurt Cranson drenches her with Solarcaine.

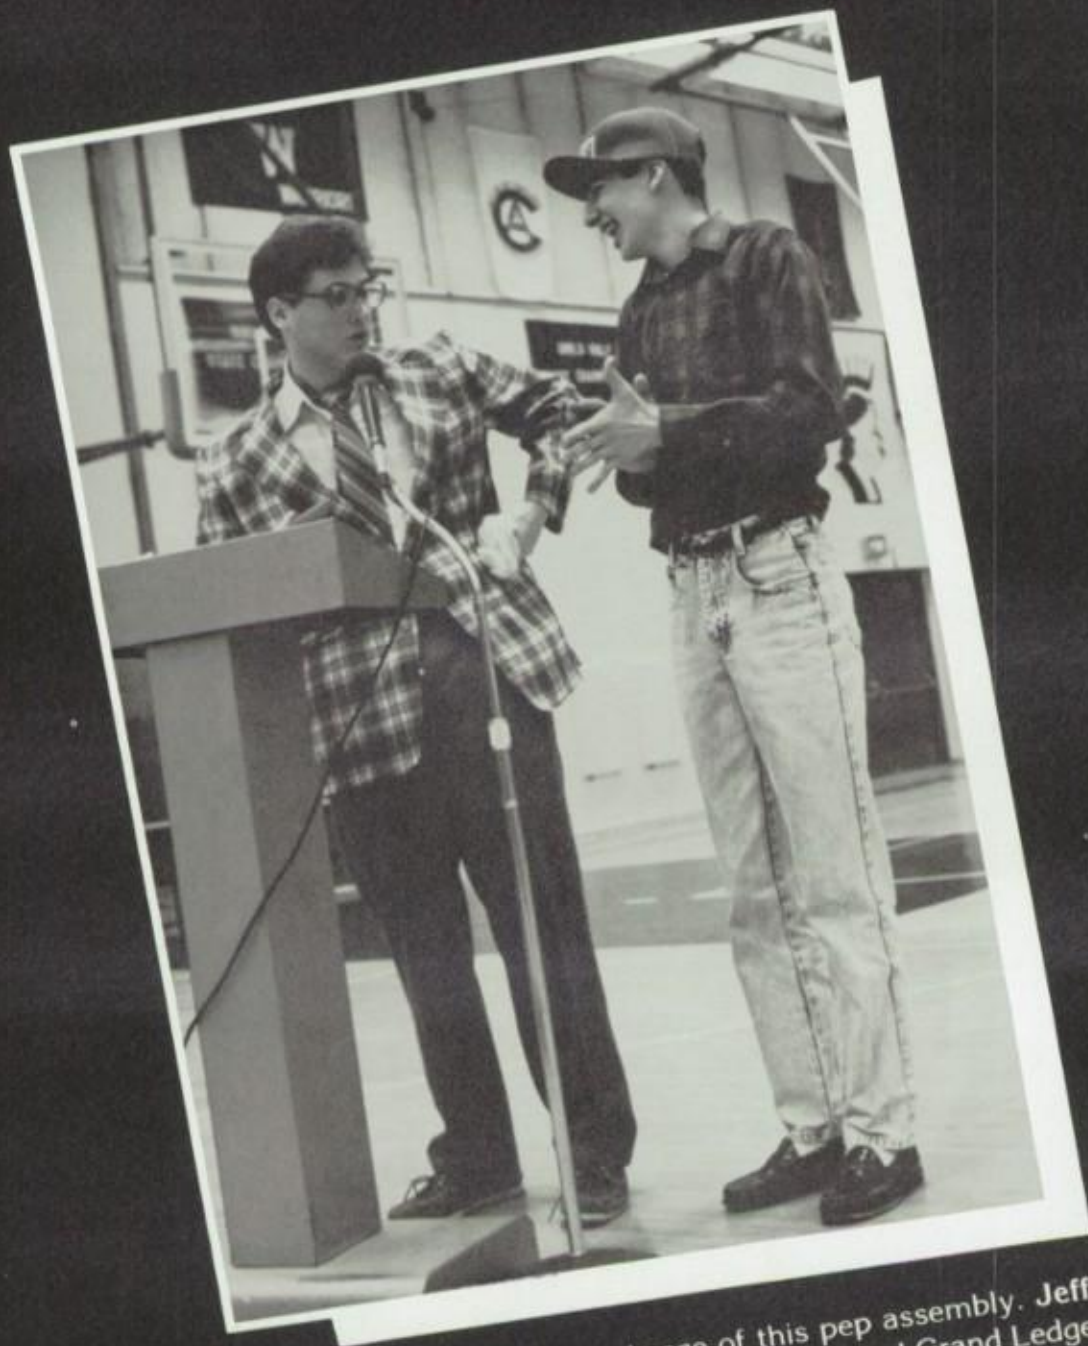

Robyn Garrigus had a rough day laying on Daytona Beach smiling at gorgeous guys, and wondering if this is what heaven is like.

Waverly rocked Daytona

The candid tells the story in a glance.

A Year In
The Life Of

Student Senate was in charge of this pep assembly. Jeff Goad and Pat Moore portrayed what a typical Grand Ledge "hill billy" looks, acts, and dresses like. (Except for the dock siders and penny loafers!)

EVENTS

Waverly students in this year's musical

"It's exciting to think that the rehearsals might pay off and we'll end up with a great production," commented sophomore Tedd Tennis. That's exactly what happened with this year's performance of "South Pacific." The cast and crew produced an outstanding version of this hit movie. Opening night was March 3rd with a follow-up March 4th.

According to sophomore Chris Blackman, "It's worth coming to practice because of the hopeful outcome." Apparently, many people felt the same.

"I think that the new friends I met through the rehearsals made them worth coming to. I was surrounded by kids I never would've met any other way," replied senior Jill Phillips.

Suzy Epps, another senior, replied, "Part of being in a musical is the fun of meeting new people — also the anticipation of a successful production."

The Director, Polly McGurkin, said, "This cast is a lot of fun and has an abundance of talent. It's been a pleasure working with them."

Above: "The best part of the play was how close everyone got at the end. We all worked together for a great performance." — Jennie Thelen

Above: Amy Young, Jill Phillips — "No matter how scared I got 5 minutes before the performance, once on stage I was fine." Left: Is that a genuine Boarstooth bracelet, Billis?

Fun, food and friends make year successful

The French Club participated in many activities this year. The year started out with a pot-luck dinner featuring various French Foods. Next, they competed with many others in making a Homecoming float. The year continued on with a Secret Santa week. All during this time, the French Club were trying busily to sell donuts in the mornings. They then went on to co-sponsor the White Winter Festival dance and the concession stand at the game. They had many meetings with french food and pizza, too. They ended the year with a trip to Montreal with some other French students.

The German Club this year was even more active than the French Club. Their year started out with Oktoberfest and a computer games night. Next, they had a Christmas dinner and afterwards played "Scruples". Following that, they had a Valentine's Party and a video night. They also had a day where they played miniature golf and in the evening watched Monty Python videos. The German Club also had an outing to Potter Park, where they had a picnic, went canoeing, and had a water balloon fight.

The Spanish Club had many interesting events this year. First they built a float for Homecoming. At Christmas time they collected clothing for Cristo Rey (which was very successful). They held a Spanish Night pot-luck dinner and program. They co-sponsored the White Winter Festival dance too. Throughout the year, they enjoyed several meals at local Mexican restaurants.

The Spanish Honor Society this year was small, but productive. They had one big project, which involved the 6th graders, who invited us through the Gifted/Talented. These 6th graders came to our auditorium and went through a "mock" day in Mexico. The 6th graders had to bring birth documents and were given fake passports. They also had to change fake US money for fake pesos. Also available were stores to buy pottery they had made themselves, and Mexican food.

Skiing, Florida and fun keeps us right on track

"Can you imagine 12 girls, 1 mirror, a dozen curling irons, and only 2 plugs?"
— Dee Zaikowski

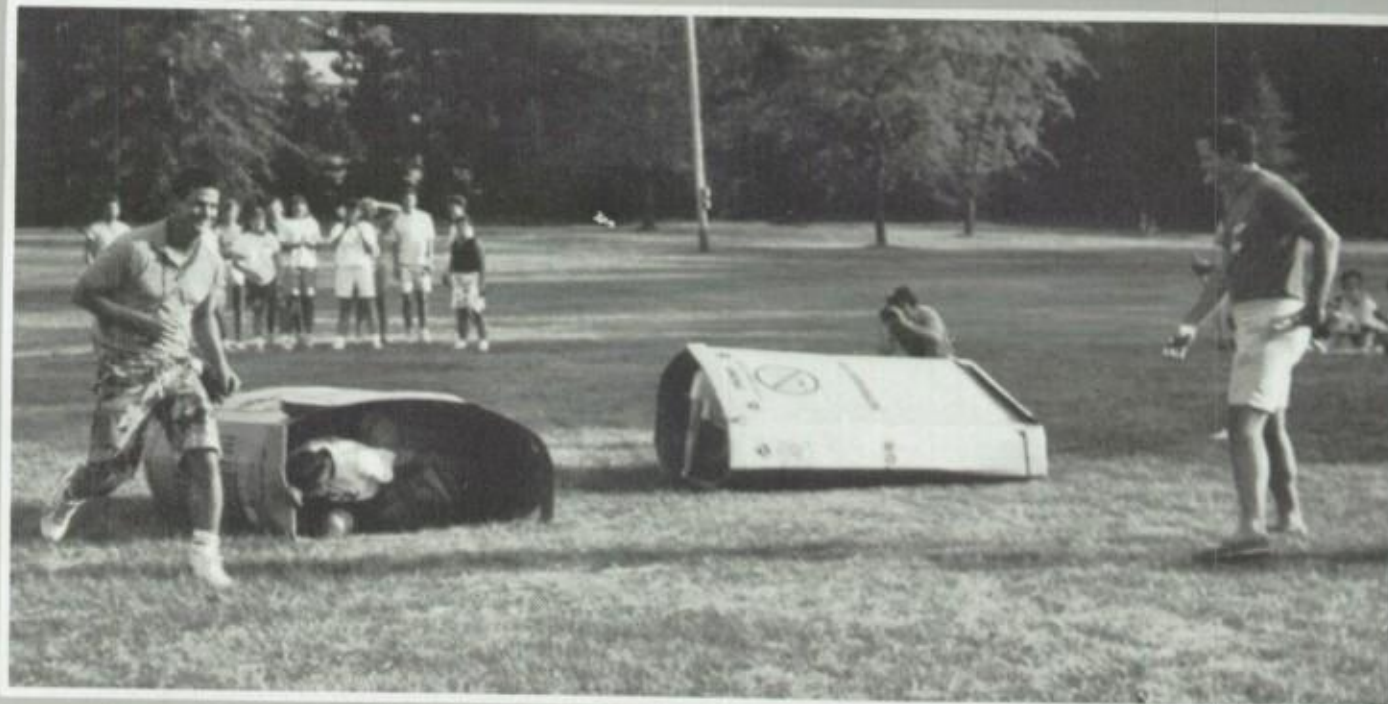

"Bonus", Kim Boyer says after she just gobbled down a jello pie. Maybe that's a Double Bonus.

After 26 hours on a bus and Cathie Lebbon, Heather Du-Mond, and Deanna Zaikowski can still manage to smile.

Roll 'um on — the three people in the boxes all have scrapped knees.

Have you ever wanted to go to Florida for Spring Break, skiing on Christmas vacation, touring the U.S. in the summer or attending numerous sporting events? If you answered yes to all of the above then Campus life is just for you. Campus Life is a nation-wide organization with a few clubs in the Lansing Area, which Waverly has the largest. This year's theme was RIGHT ON TRACK, and started with a kick-off picnic where people stuck their faces in jello to get a prize, and Doug Ouderkirk was a participant in a grape juice squashing. But the fun didn't end there, more outrageous games and guiding discussions followed in weekly meetings. Meetings were given catchy titles such as; Ferris Buellers' Day Off, Maui Wowie, and many more. Topics included, drinking, family, love, and sex. The club was headed by the devotion and leadership of the Student Leaders who brought insight and feedback to Trent and Janet, the fearless leaders. Not only are the meetings fun but the trips are fantastic. This years' excursions took people to Caberfae Ski Lodge, Florida, pistons games, Tigers games, Crystal Lake and Washington D.C. If you never attended a meeting you have missed a whole bunch of fun filled times. Campus Life gives many students lives insight, guide, and gets them RIGHT ON TRACK.

S.A.D.D. had a very successful year. They sent four representatives to Mackinac Island for a leadership conference. They came back with several ideas that they used later in the year as projects. S.A.D.D. put on several activities throughout the year. Twice they served mocktails in the cafeteria and near the end of the school year they had a pie throwing contest where students bought a pie and hit a teacher in the face with it.

S.A.D.D. also sponsored a visit from Tony Lineberry. Tony spoke to the school in the auditorium about wearing seat belts and about driving drunk.

What is the Seventh Wonder of the World?

What is "Odyssey of the Mind"? According to this year's coach, Mrs. Holly Lapratt, it is an opportunity for students to do creative problem solving in a hands-on situation. Students are given a problem which they brainstorm to solve, then they must create the solution and present it.

Waverly had three "Odyssey" teams. The first team was first in States last year, and went on to the World competition where they placed 6th. Only the first place teams of each state of each participating country can qualify for the World competition.

All of the teams practiced for about 10-12 hours a week. "The kids like it because it's the only problem that allows students to be totally creative without adult intervention. The ideas are off-the-wall, but the crazier the better."

Odyssey of the Mind: Steve Risner, Dan Faiver, Julie Burns, Darin Baur, Eamon Bobowski, Sue Lee, Mark Shipman, Cathy Flynn, Tonya Powers, and Jennifer Ockert.

Junior Lyn Kestenholtz — "It was a long road full of ups and downs but we made it to the World's tourney in Maryland."

Problems are real life and there's no one specific answer

Equations

Future Problem Solving is a group of students who are given a list of circumstances and are expected to create, solve, and recreate problems under these circumstances.

This year the team has had to deal with problems such as acid rain, space travel, and the elderly.

The students are first given the problem and then have to brainstorm 20 problems from that one. Then they pick the major one and brainstorm 20 solutions.

Their season ended with a super tournament held in Flint. Here they captured a third and fourth place in the state in Mr. President, and a second in their division in Adventurous Equations.

The members of this year's Equations team were: Hugh Scott, Andrea Clifford, Dyan Hartman, Liz Clifford, Eamon Bobowski, Brad Clegg, Steve Hahn, Brant Wood, Steve Dunham, and Barb Weiland.

"Future Problem Solving allows me to be original in my own way. I also enjoy the challenge," said Cherrish Faulkner, junior.

"I like to work with others, and be creative, and nobody can criticize what I say," said Darin Baur, freshman.

DEBATE

Novice capture 1st in G.A.C.

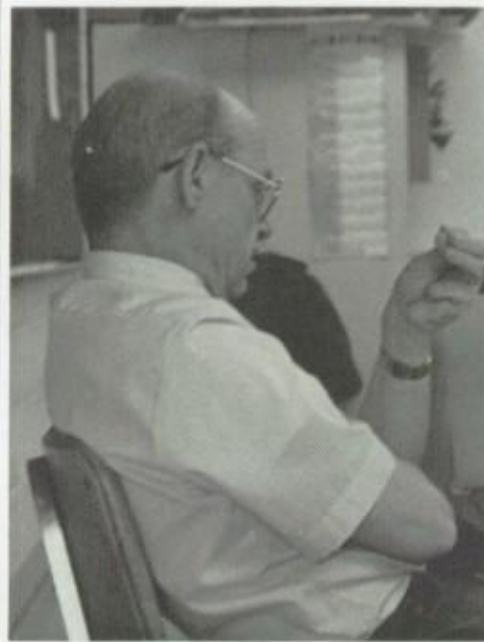

This year, especially for the novice debaters, has been a great one. The novice team consisted of Kerrie Hallberg, Ayanna Mitchell, Tom Cunningham, and Scott Shellenbarger.

The novice qualified for the state finals held in Ann Arbor. This is the fifteenth year that a Waverly team has qualified on the state level — higher than any other Michigan school. The novice also took 1st in the C.A.C. tournament.

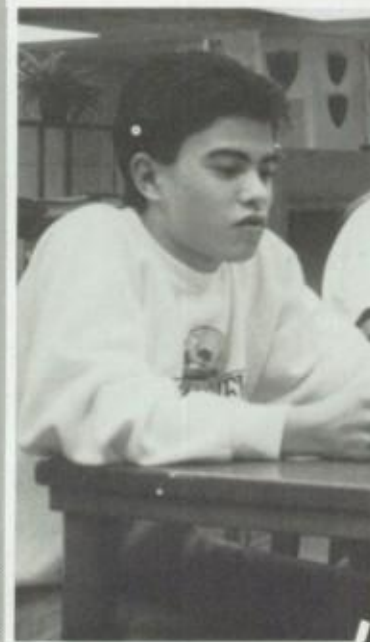

Several students throughout the season won speaker awards at tournaments. Those students were Mike Kim, Ayanna Mitchell, Jennie Thelen, and Tom Cunningham.

Tournaments that the debaters participated in were held at Ithaca, Sterling Heights, Ferris St. College, Central Michigan University, and the University of Michigan.

Mr. Siler, debate coach, summed up the season by stating, "In the light of the success of the novice, the season was a good one."

State champion, Tony Winnicker, kicks back and practices his award-winning broadcast.

Freshman Kim Rodriguez believes that "Forensics is a challenge and the Pentathlon was really tough."

At practice, juniors Katrina Ward, Jennie Thelen, and Debbie Lopez search for a good play.

Forensics this year started in December with Pentathlon. Participating were junior Brad La Pratt and Mary Gunderman, sophomore Tracy Gorten, and freshmen Kim Rodriguez and Katie Leary.

Next, at the end of February came the Forensics play "I Never Saw Another Butterfly," about a young Jewish girl and the Holocaust. At districts, two outstanding actress awards were given to Debbie Lopez and Kim Rodriguez.

Then in April, individual event tournaments were held at various schools such as Freeland High School and Battle Creek Central High.

Sixteen students qualified for regionals and three for the state competition in Ann Arbor. Those three were Tony Winnicker, Nancy Paris, and Heather Cavanaugh. Tony Winnicker placed first in the state in radio broadcasting.

Summing up the season, Winnicker stated, "I feel good about it because I did well."

Raising funds for a variety of worthwhile causes

The National Honor Society can best be summed up as a prestigious group of very active, high achieving, community oriented students who exhibit strong attributes of character, scholarship, leadership and service. The NHS has a dual goal and purpose; 1) To provide service to the school and community, and 2) to work together to help each member become a more caring and well rounded contributor to the community.

This past November, the NHS sponsored the Lansing Food Bank and had a very "fruitful" turnout. In March, we raised money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association by having a Bowl-a-thon. In April, we ran a very successful blood drive to sponsor the American Red Cross. We also contributed to the American Cancer Society as well as the American Heart Association.

Being a National Honor Society member allows me the opportunity to work with fellow students I both enjoy and respect. I feel that I can say on behalf of the membership, that we all take pride in our accomplishments. It is a wonderful feeling.

Student Senate made an enormous effort to boost students' morale. "I think this is the best senate we've ever had. We got a lot accomplished and had a real good time. We've done everything we wanted to. We helped organize the Homecoming week, White Winter Festival, leadership conference, Talent Show, and many more. Next year we're going to host the first CAC Senate," said Kristi Egbert, president of the Student Senate.

Liz Miller, who described being a Senator like being part of a family said, "It was a good experience for me because it showed me how a council runs."

Ms. Kesel, Student Senate advisor, stated, "Student Senate has done more activities than they ever have. They have been extremely active and started new traditions. They're one of the brightest group of officers that I've worked with. I have to congratulate this senate for perseverance for putting up with all my yelling."

Listening Post: keeping Waverly informed

This year's staff had a variety of backgrounds of life. It gave the Post different perspectives with greater variety.

Ayanna Mitchell stated, "It's a great way to exchange information throughout the entire school."

Since Jeff Goad was also the student representative to the Board of Education, the Post had an inside view on Board activities.

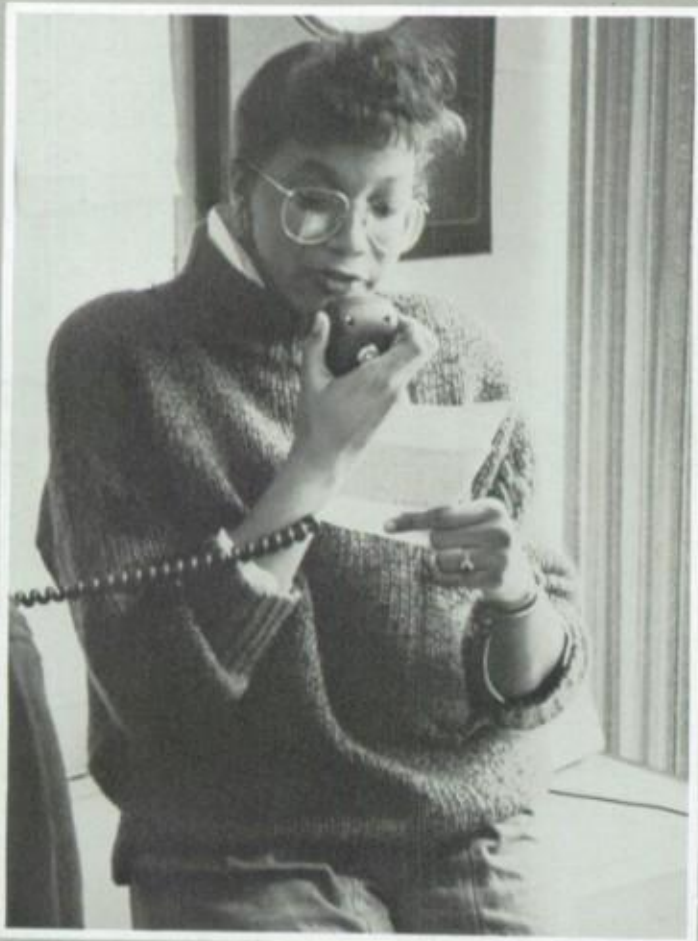

Kristi Egbert, President of the Student Senate, was involved in many sports and activities. She also provided an insider's point of view.

With seven seniors involved on the staff, the student body was guaranteed an experienced crew.

Mrs. Erickson added "It gives students experience in broadcasting."

Color Guard dazzles all

If you ask someone at school what Color Guard is they probably couldn't answer you. Color Guard is a group of 11 very hardworking young ladies that twirl their hearts out at every home football game. This year's squad was made up of 4 vets and 7 rookies that all had a tremendous amount of PIWID (Pride In What We Do). This year they donned a new look with sparkly black and gold flags that dazzled the audience in snappy routines. Senior Becky Miller was Captain and juniors Lyn Kestenholtz and Deanne Zaikowski were Co-Captains. The season started in July when they went to MSU for 4 days of intense work. Color Guard camp started 2 weeks before school's tentative start. They met at the school at 8:30 and worked on drills until 12; then the fun began when they did various social activities like bowling, going to the beach, and the end of week party at the Hilton. The next week Marching Band camp began. They worked on drills and footwork from 8:30-8:30 with 2 breaks. The squad, consisting of Heather Kinning, Kristie Bleisch, Becky Miller, Lyn Kestenholtz and Deanne Zaikowski, won the Marching Bands Outstanding Squad. Captain Becky Miller commented this about the season, "My favorite thing about Color Guard this year was the way everybody worked together and got along. This year the audience paid more attention to us because we were good."

ILIAD

Amy Wright and Brad Gran-zow seem to be getting on Pam Fetter's case. Behind them is the infamous bulletin board. Layout designs, page assignments and deadlines were posted there throughout the year.

"Okay folks," Mr. Keyes says as he rushes into the room, "today is deadline day. You know what that means. Where's John?"

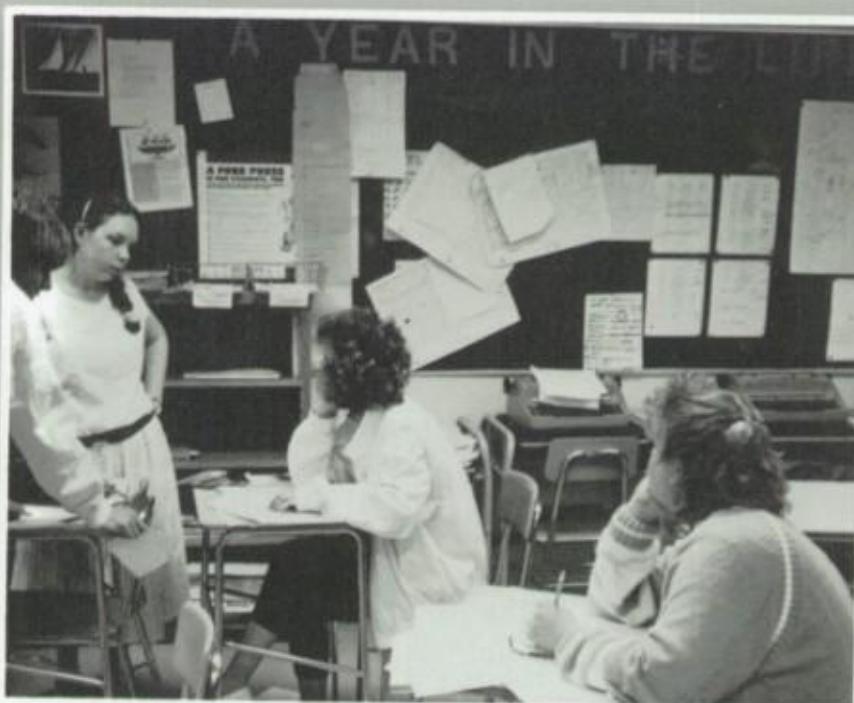

"He's typing up stories."

"Amy is your page laid out and ready to go? Brad, where are the pictures we need? Janice and Tina come here, some more proofs have arrived."

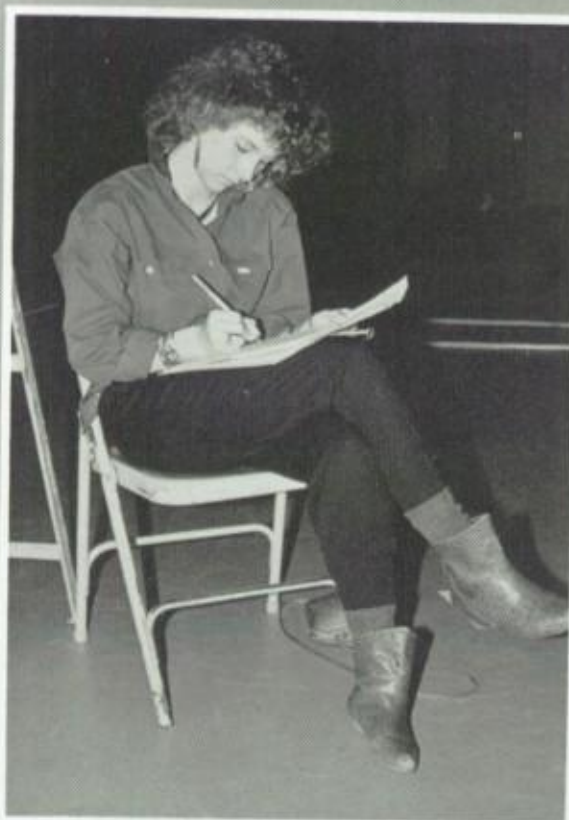

That's Mr. Keyes, our fearless leader, on deadline days. Being in charge of both productions, the Iliad and the Pleiad, is a big job.

The eighteen members of Journalism II found that out very quickly. When things began to really pile up, Journalism I came around and took some of the work away.

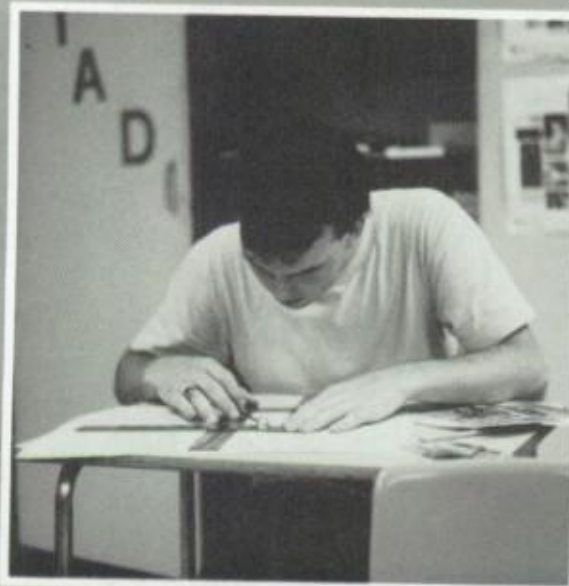

Over the year, sixteen issues of the Pleiad and one special twenty-five year anniversary issue were published by the Journalism classes. Plus . . . 224 year-book pages were produced in less than 180 days. What a job!

Tara Hart is trying so hard to meet her deadline for the pom-pon layouts.

Becky Malin helps Amanda Lee get her story just right. Amanda Lee is a foreign exdchange student from her work on the yearbook is great and she will be missed a lot next year!

Co-editor Tina Weatherwax is busy taking notes during the photo day for all the club and group pictures. Co-editor Janice Maat is pasting up a practice layout at the camp she attended over the summer. "I wish I could get this cropper to work right!" exclaims Jim Coe. Mr. Black and Mr. Orange were of the utmost assistance during the year. All the newspaper articles had to be typed up on one of these computers.

"Would this picture look good here?" Annette Baur asks Jon Roberts. Amy Young is a valued member of the Iliad Staff. Much of the typing was done on time due to her.

All of the things that help the yearbook come together are stored in this cupboard. The layouts pasted on the doors were made at summer camp by the editors. This is very neat compared to what it looked like most of the time! Many hours and deep concentration are two of the main ingredients that go into putting the Iliad together. This is a common way to see Ayanna Mitchell. Hard at work!

Friends around the world

Lone Schmidt and Randy Soeatmadji enjoyed partying with friends. Annie Pang was held prisoner in her calculus class.

This year we've got nine exchange students. Let's see what they think of living in America.

Lone Schmidt is from Denmark. Coming from a small town at home, she experienced an overwhelming change here. "I think the Americans are extremely friendly. The most unforgettable thing I did was participating in the play 'South Pacific'."

Frauke Grade is from Germany. "I saw a lot of things and learned to be independent. Americans are talkative and interesting."

Renate Unger (Hi Baby!) is from Germany. She likes to go to parties with friends. "Everything is new and exciting for me."

Belen Cid is from Spain. "The most fun I had was going to Florida over spring Break."

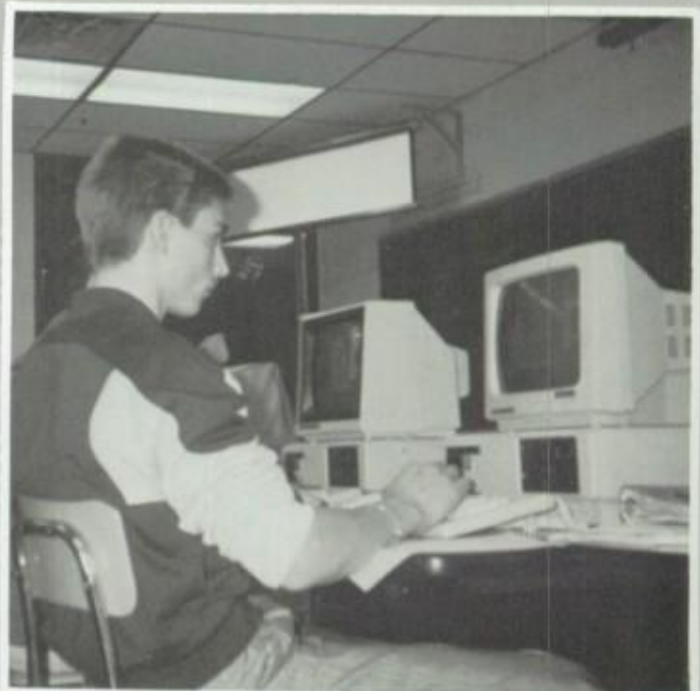

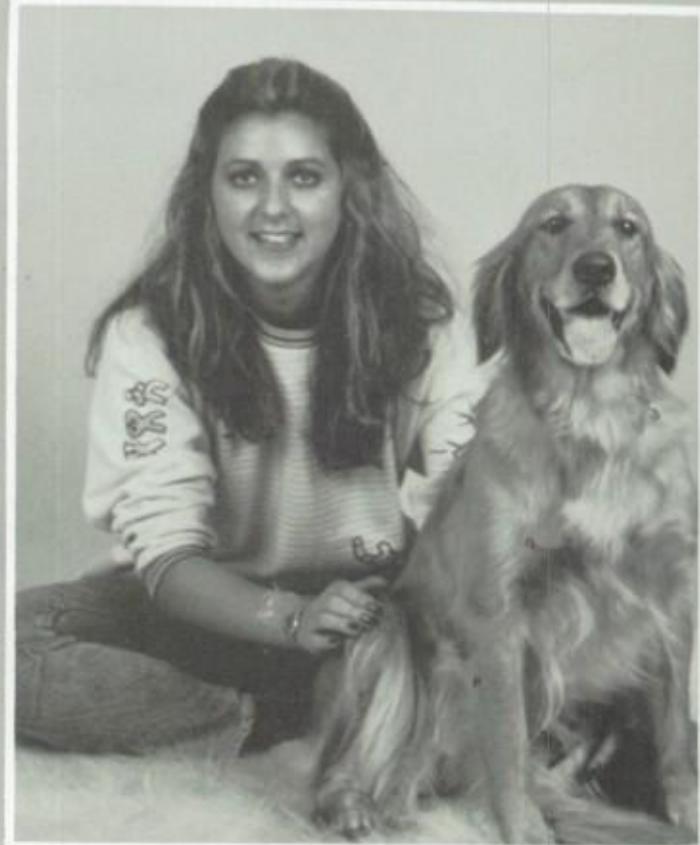

Alexander Wallsten is from Sweden. "I like to go to parties and get wild." Alex was also a diver for the swim team.

Randy Soeatmadji is from Indonesia. "I have a lot of fun here. I want to take the whole school back to Indonesia."

Annie Pang is from Sweden. "We had a real adventure going to New York and Boston over Spring Break."

Ana Sanchez-Martin is from Spain. "I enjoy going to parties and last winter my friends and I went skiing."

For myself, Amanda Lee from Hong Kong, I think it has been a wonderful experience. One thing I won't forget here is my best friends — Mylinh and Chris.

Renate Unger, Ana Sanchez, Amanda Lee and Frauke Grade took a trip to the capital building. Belen Cid was talking to her friend Mr. Skeleton.

Renate Unger with her dog Grannie says "It's much more cool here and it's not so hectic like in Europe." Alex Wallsten was figuring out his computer program.

A Year In
The Life Of . . .

One of the greatest feelings in the world is when you're rounding third and headin' on home. Freshmen Pete Sherry scores a run for the boys' varsity baseball team.

SPORTS

A season of disappointment, but only if measured in terms of the scoreboard. The Varsity Football team received some hard knocks but gained a lot of experience.

The football team also gained a new head coach, John Vertalka. Coach Vertalka introduced a new strategy to the Warriors. Instead of setting goals for the entire season, the team set goals game by game.

The first game of the season was at Corunna and was a close game 17-21.

A couple games down the road came Jackson. It was a cold and rainy night. One of the most memorable plays of the game was when Dan Hathaway ran it back blocked a punt and Jeff Kniple ran it back about 20 yards. The Warriors were leading in the half and maintained the energy through the second half, despite the fact that Jeff Kniple broke his knee. The Jackson game was supposed to have been Waverly's Homecoming.

Team Captains of the 1987-1988 Warriors were Matt Lichon, Bob Sutter, and Jeff Kniple.

At the awards banquet, Jim Phillips was voted by teammates as MVP. Jason Most as most improved.

Next year looks to be Waverly's rebuilding year. A good part of the team will be returning to take on more challenges.

Coach Vertalka is looking forward to next year but really enjoyed this year. He states, "The team was really close, and grew closer as the season went on. The team had to learn a new system, but win or lose, they gave a good effort."

"I really enjoyed playing football this year and I think we were winners because if you think you're a winner, you are," stated senior Jim Phillips. Teammate Josh Kesler said of Phillips' abilities, "He's a pure athlete. He caught every ball that came near him. He could take the hardest hit and always get up." Coach Vertalka is really proud of Phillips. "Jim was the spark-plug of the team."

Ryan Covey improves his kickoff performance at practice.

Ron Ruiz states, "The team gave it their best shot this year. We pushed it to the utmost."

Preparing for the future

What was wrong? Our JV football team didn't win any games. "No size, no strength, and not enough people," said head coach Steve Politowski. "It is not the JV's purpose to win games, but to try to give the players strength and experience that they could take into their varsity season."

Some stand-out players on this year's team were David and John Jennett, Travis Robinson, Peter DuMond, and Chin Kim. "This year we were really just trying to redeem ourselves for last year," said Peter DuMond.

Travis Robinson added, "I had a lot of fun this season. Of course we wanted to win, but it didn't really mean much that we didn't."

So, it seems that even though the JV's had a disappointing year. They still accomplished their major objective, which was to prepare themselves for their varsity season.

"The freshman team was a family, they just about lived together for the extent of the season. They had the desire to be the best, the desire to reach perfection." — Coach Dick Evans

Well prepared, well supported, and well balanced is used to describe Waverly's freshman football team. With a record of 8-1, it's hard to figure out what they do not do well.

"We as coaches try to set the tone for a positive attitude," said Coach Dick Evans. "We never saw defeat," he added. That was until they met up with Sexton and lost their only game of the season.

"It wasn't Sexton that beat us, we beat ourselves," Evans reported. That game flawed the freshmen's perfect record, but it gave them the courage to continue their victorious streak, and win the C.A.C. title by beating East Lansing 27-6.

"It was their ability to believe and to concentrate, which made them win," Mr. Prahler insisted.

"The purpose of the season was to have fun," he added. Many players agreed it was fun. The most memorable event however, was neither losing to Sexton nor winning the C.A.C. title, but was Pete Sherry's odorfilled uniform.

If a team is only as good as their last game, like Evans says, then we should have something to look forward to next fall.

Gridders are C.A.C. champs

Time was standing still. The cheering crowd faded into the background. I stood at the line, facing the basket. I knew I could make this shot. The only sound I could hear was the "tap, tap" of the basketball bouncing off the hardwood floor. "Tap, tap, tap" was accompanied by thoughts of "I have to make this shot. Come on, concentrate!" I picked up the ball, looked at the rim, raised the ball, and let it fly. The arc unfolded in slow motion, right before my eyes. Perfectly aimed, it hit the backboard and dropped through the hoop.

Who knows what goes on in the players' mind? All I do know is that this writer's hat goes off to the 1987-88 Lady Hoopsters.

They started the season with many expectations pinned on them. It was their job to carry on the winning Warrior ways. They put up a valiant effort: posting a 14-6 record overall and a third place finish in the CAC. They proved they could beat the league champs when they beat Eastern here at home on Warrior turf.

Due to her outstanding leadership on the floor and her playing ability, Nancy Dombroski was awarded the honor of being named MVP for the 1987-88 season. Lynnelle Hofstra captured the MIP award; look for her to dominate under the boards next season. Nancy Dombroski was the lone Warrior named to the All Conference First Team. Co-captain Kristi Egbert, sophomore Nicole Kelley, and junior Lynnelle Hofstra were awarded an Honorable Mention from the conference.

"When I look back upon this past basketball season, I see a season of both accomplishment and enjoyment. Although we were not even picked to contend for the league race, we strived towards the CAC crown. The highlight of my season was the upset over eastern at home. The victory was gratifying because it developed team unity. The team's common interest is the love of basketball."

"Time to shoot around at half-time gives you a chance to cool down and shoot with no pressure on you. It helps you relax a little." — Lynnelle Hofstra. A lot of expectations were pinned on Nancy Dombroski. As the season progressed, she proved why. Tammy Mulder, Laurie Gates, and Robyn Garrigus are all waiting expectantly for Jody Day to sink her shot.

Sophomore Nicole Kelley was moved up to play varsity. Watch for her to become a dominate figure on the court in the next two years. This was Nancy Dombroski's third year as a varsity hoopster. Her leadership proved to be exactly what the team needed.

Rena Bohnet added lots of spirit to the team this year. She will be missed once she graduates.

Satisfactory season achieved

"We got along very well. We all went out to lunch a lot, especially during the strike. We all became really good friends." — Kari Hawkins. If you talk to any coach you will find out that this is a key factor to a winning season. Team efforts counts for more than individual effort.

The team had a conference record of 9 wins, 5 losses which places them fourth in the CAC. They had an overall record of 12-

Team leadership came from tri-captains Lea McLaury, Marti Kay Sherry, and Shelly Frendt.

"Pressure is always a factor, you always want to go out and win; but what people have to remember is that we all have bad days." — Lea McLaury

The gym. Not the best place to be when it is ninety degrees outside. Take a closer look. It is full of girls. They are sweating, breathing hard, and paying rapt attention to what their coach is saying. Girls' freshmen basketball. They start while it's still hot outside. They give up their vacation time, to get in condition for the upcoming season. They sweat a lot, drink a lot of water, give a lot, learn a lot, and have a lot of fun. That's what it's all about.

The team finished the season with a conference record of 5 wins, and 7 losses. Their overall record was 6-12. Captains for the team were Jennie Schlitt and Karleta Dodson.

Although their record was not the best, the girls didn't let that get them down. They played hard all season and didn't give up. They went out and trounced Lansing Sexton 45-33 the last game of the season. All the girls are fired up for next year and next season to start.

Girls keep hopes up, end at .500

Outstanding! That would best sum up this year's season for the Warrior harriers.

Despite finishing third in the C.A.C. behind Jackson and Grand Ledge, the harriers qualified the entire team to the final state meet with an overall finish of nine wins, only two losses, and 21st in the state.

In the Invitational meets, the Warriors almost always placed high in the standings. At the Eastern and Haslett Invitationals, the harriers finished second in both with 74 and 82 points respectively.

This year's team was coached by Jim Haase. It consisted of Tom Lyman — MVP, third year award, captain; Tom Pier — MVP, third year award, captain; Rob Fedewa — MIP; Jeff Rinck — All Conference, Oil Can Humor Award, outstanding junior, captain; Ted Manko — fourth year award, outstanding senior; Dave Ellison — Mr. Warrior Sportsmanship Award; Mike Kim — Mr. Warrior Sportsmanship Award; Mike Pier — outstanding freshman; Ed Rashid — outstanding sophomore; Bob Sackrider — Mr. Warrior Sportsmanship Award.

"My most memorable event of the season was making it to states for the third time," replied Tom Pier.

"Making it to states as a team was a really awesome event of the season for me," stated Lyman.

Embarrassing moments for each team member happened often. Mike Pier said, "The most embarrassing time for me was when my nickname was picked, 'Buckie Gump' "

This great season is over for the graduating seniors but the returning runners are looking forward to another successful season.

"The team was the best we ever had. They were hard working, and they actually enjoyed what they were doing. It was terrific," replied Carrie Fernsler.

The Lady Harriers might not have had the best season record-wise, but they definitely had the best spirit of any team in recent years.

The team started out the season with a win on the road against Eastern. Towards the middle of the season, they started to wear down, hitting that mid-season lull that is so common in cross country. Then co-captain Katie Cushman came up with the idea to use Positive Mental Attitude which really helped the team. Before every meet the runners would get together in a circle and just talk about positive things and put all of their negative thoughts out of their heads. The team started to improve and their times got better and better.

"All of us were good friends and we were supportive of each other," said Katie Cushman.

By the end of the season, Carrie had broken the school record five times and the team sent the first seven-member squad to regionals for the first time in recent years.

"We were pretty good, but very young, and with a new coach it made things even harder," junior Sam Daood added. The team ended up with a 10-8-1 overall season. Justin Dunkel summed it up by saying, "It was real up and down all year, but I have a good time and am ready to play next year."

Although it was a tough year, the team agreed that they had many memorable times. Marc Earl commented eagerly, "My goal against East Lansing that tied the game was my most memorable." Good job Marc! Waverly was the only team that even came close to beating E.L.

Sam Daood's most memorable moment was his diving header that allowed him to score. "Watching Sam's goal on tape about twenty times," Justin added with a grin, "would have to be what I remember the most."

"Making Coach Vogel smile," Brian Starks said. Is there a private joke in that guys?

This year's Varsity Boys Golf team had an outstanding year with a record of 12 wins 4 losses while the JV team had a sensational season with a remarkable 15 wins and no losses.

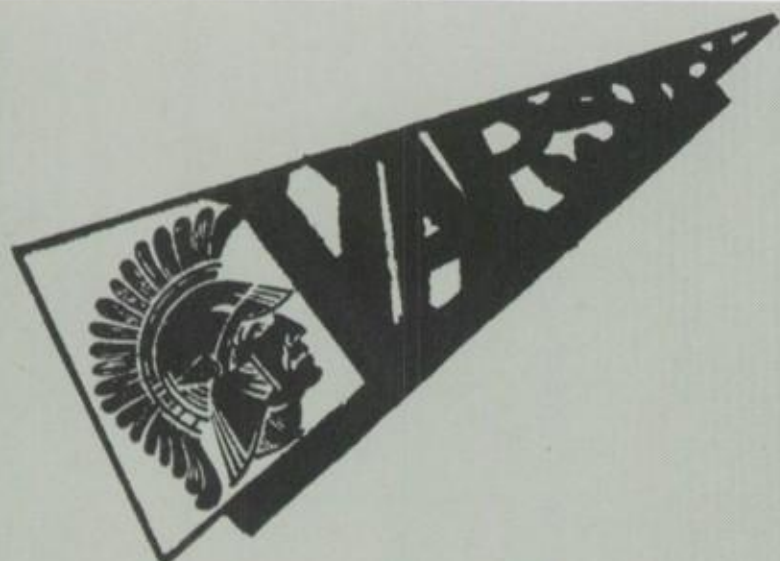

One of the year's best games was played against Eastern in which Waverly beat the Quakers 318 to 372, the JV team also won against the Quakers 329 to 381.

While both golf teams did exceptionally well, we have a lot to look forward to next year when this years' JV team becomes Varsity players. Even though there is a lot of talent on the JV team, it's going to be hard to replace the talent of senior Brad Engler who was not only an outstanding golfer, but also a team motivator.

The 1988 Waverly Boys' Golf team not only had good games, they also had fun.

Tradition — the Girls Swimming team here at Waverly have lots of it. This year's team had many swimmers capable of building a little tradition of their own before they are through. Only three of the fourteen girls on the squad are graduating, thus leaving a very talented group of underclassmen to fill their shoes.

"We had a lot of new swimmers come out this year," said sophomore Rachel Hath and also co-captain. "All they need is experience and they can really help next year." Hath missed over a month of the season due to mononucleosis.

"Losing Rachel during that time really hurt," said fellow sophomore and co-captain Debbie Maidlow. "We lost a few meets by points that she might have been able to make up." Maidlow received the Most Valuable Swimmer Award by her teammates.

"Debbie is an outstanding swimmer with tremendous potential," said coach Lisa Smith.

The Coaches Award goes to the swimmer with the highest grade point average. This year's recipient was Elizabeth Leary. Beth not only swam for the Warriors but she was the team's top diver as well.

Sophomore Lori Haas received the Hardest Worker Award which is voted on by her teammates.

The team finished the season with five wins against seven losses, four and three in the CAC.

This season I was impressed by the amount of new swimmers, we had only 8 returning swimmers and ended the season with 14. Their times greatly improved during the season with time drops in every meet. We had a few difficulties with one of our co-captains being sick for 3 weeks and our coach getting married. We ended strong, placing 3rd in the CAC's and taking 3 swimmers to states, all of whom placed in the top 12.

"Hello, I'm Mark. How are you?"

This year's team has many returning swimmers such as Lori Haas here doing the butterfly.

With a great CAC record of 5-2 and an overall record of 8-4 our girls tennis team really showed great potential. They came close to coming in second place in the CAC but missed it by just a few points. Taking third place, though, made these girls really proud of themselves.

Leading in the highest spot of first singles, freshman Tiffany Odum was the clown on the team. Her personality, along with her great ability to play tennis, shined on the whole team. "Tiffany is a great player," said Peggy Abood, the team's co-captain. And the nick-name "Knock Knees" will stick with Tiffany forever. Jenny Creamer says that they gave Odum the nick name because of the way she stands.

The backbone of the team was a team of two great players. They lead the team with their 15-5 record. This duo of first doubles was Stacey Leatherwood and Becci Salmons. Both of these seniors were looked up to by the whole team and the coach. "They were always winning!" said Peggy.

Peggy stated that the team had many funny things happen to them. For one, this team tried to go to Jackson four different times. Every time they got there, they could not play. These problems were all caused by the weather. Another funny time was when Stacy and Becci were playing against a doubles team from Eastern. Becci tossed the ball over to the Eastern side and hit a girl in the ear. Peggy said that it doesn't sound funny, but it really was. "I guess you just had to be there!"

Overall, this team did great. Everyone played as well as they could in every match and everyone had a really good season. "That was the best thing about the season, along with placing in the top three in the CAC," said co-captain Peggy Abood.

Stacy Leatherwood and I were the most unlikely doubles partners. We are complete opposites, she being the consistant player, while I was the more aggressive one. We compiled a record of 15-5. The high point of the season was playing our last game in the regionals. We were both voted MVP's at the end of the season.

Jennifer tells herself, "You have to concentrate, Jennifer. Do your best."

Tina D'Alesandro, a first year sophomore, says to herself, "I'm going to win this point."

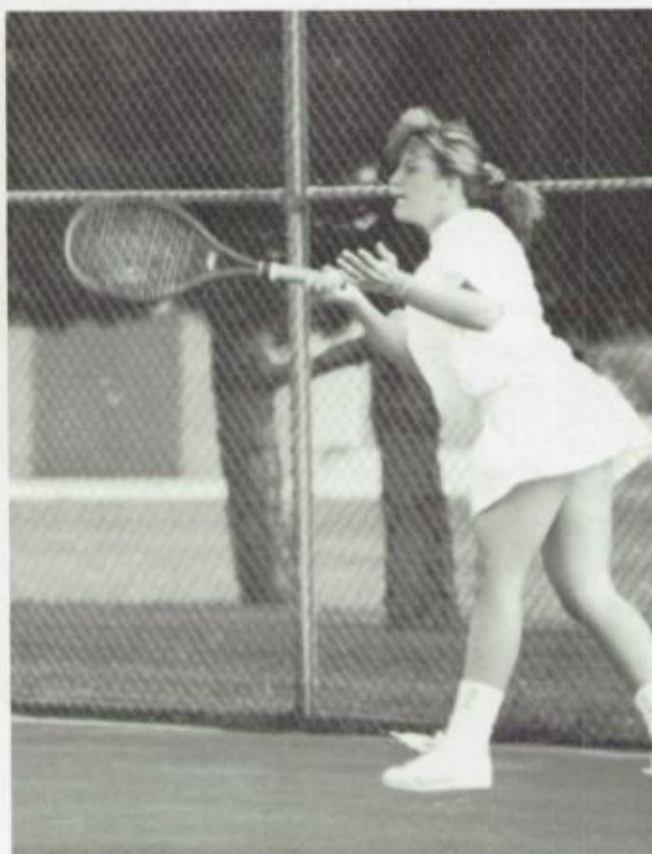

Tiffany Odum, top singles player and top freshman on the team says, "You'd better get this ball over the net Tiffany!!!"

Stacy Leatherwood thinks to herself, "Just do the best you can, and if you don't get the ball over the net ... " But because of her great ability, Stacy did succeed with a great outcome.

"Try to concentrate getting high ground strokes. Also keep a positive attitude," Alicia thinks to herself.

Senior Becci Salmons is amazed and thinks to herself. "I finally got one over!!" Becci was also voted as one of the two MVP's on the team.

Sara Opper, the other freshman on the team concentrates and thinks to herself, "I hope this serve goes in."

Sometimes statistics don't tell the whole story. Just a cliché? Not if you're talking about the 1987-88 varsity basketball team. "These are really a great bunch of guys," said Coach Odium. "I'm just sorry that things didn't work out better with wins and losses. These guys taught me a few things as well. We coaches always say, 'It's how you play the game.' This team played hard all year."

Christian Odium and Steve Kutus were voted captains and immediately showed their stuff in the first game of the season. The pair combined for 44 points in a Warrior victory over Lakewood. Despite a mid-season shooting slump, Odium showed enough floor leadership and smart play to earn Honorable Mention All-Conference honors. Kutus, however, had a banner season and was placed on the All-CAC first team. Christian was voted Best Defensive Player and won the Freethrow Award.

"I developed a great friendship with all of these seniors," said junior Jason Endsley. "I'm going to be really sorry to see them go," he added.

"The things I'll remember when it's all over aren't the wins and losses," said Bill Burke. "I'll remember all the great time — getting stripes on birthdays and stuff like that!"

Endsley and J.J. Darden were also voted honorable mention All-Conference.

Our season was filled with a lot of ups and downs in terms of win-loss record. We always got great crowd support and they stayed with us the whole year. I will never forget the game against Sexton when we came back from 25 down to beat them in the closing seconds.

Experience creates promising future

The J.V. basketball team had a up, and down season. Their greatest victory was home against Everett by 24 points. Then lost a very difficult game against Eastern. They also had a very tough game against Charlotte, but stuck it out in the end, and pulled out a victory in overtime. Then they ended the season on a down note with a disappointing loss at Eastern.

The J.V. basketball team ended with a 8-

12 record. Chad Jennings summed up the season this way. "It was fun, very educational, yet also difficult being between the freshmen and varsity teams."

The J.V. basketball team this year with all of their highs and lows this year didn't have a "good" season in the win department, but with their learning experience from this year, there should be a vast improvement next year. According to Chad

Jennings, "We will have a good team next year, and will continue to improve but we will not have a great team."

The Freshmen basketball team struggled through injuries, and coaching changes to a 8-9 record. The team started out the season with two tough losses to Holt, and Everett.

The team was really down those first five games, but did manage to forget their slump against their rival Sexton. When they were down by five toward the end, Tyrone Igram started "hitting". Igram ended up with 30 points, and as Aaron Mast put it, "It was amazing!"

The teams greatest hardship was overcoming the three different coaching changes. John Smoltz started out the season, but he was called down for Spring Training three-fourths through the season. Mike Shmit then coached the next few games, when he left Jeff Spedoske finished the last game.

The season was very difficult but it was not a total loss. Aaron Most said,

"The season was a good learning experience to prepare to play basketball in the future."

Plagued with injuries & coach change

Their season started out with four straight wins. The third game was against Holt, who the girls had heard were very good. The Warriors were beaten by Holt in the first game; then they realized that they could beat the Rams, and they went out and killed them in the last two games, to take the match.

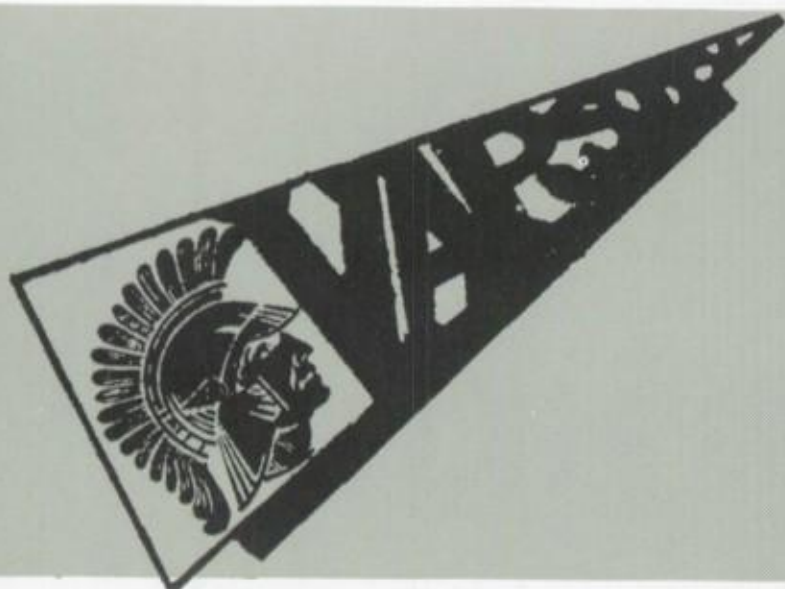

They traveled from Holt to Eastern who has always been a strong contender in the CAC. The first game was tough, 17-15, and in the second game the Warriors took control and won 15-4.

After beating the two toughest teams in the CAC, the girls became too confident. They went to Sexton and were beaten. It was a disappointing loss for the team. They got back on track and killed Grand Ledge 15-2, 15-2, and East Lansing 15-0, 15-11. That set the tone for the rest of the season and ended up clinching the title with a record of 11-3 in the league and 23-11 overall.

Seniors Becci Salmons and Nancy Dombroski captured places on the All Conference First Team. Their teammates Jody Day and Tami McDowell were awarded an honorable mention from the conference.

This season was very special to the team. The girls all became best friends and went out together outside of team duties. This feeling of belonging prompted the excellent playing the team displayed over the course of the season.

Watch out everyone! Here comes the champs

This volleyball team was one of the most memorable teams I've been on here at Waverly, not only because of the special friendship that we created but also because our many accomplishments. As a team we have experienced so much this year both on and off the court.

This picture is full of stars. Top spiker Jody Day and MVP's Becci Salmons and Nancy Dombroski show the key to good volleyball: keep your eye on the ball at all times and concentrate. Jody Day, Nancy Dombroski, and Kristi Steele offer each other congratulations after a well-earned point. Team work is a vital key to a successful team.

Back: Coach Karen Burgess, Annette Baur, Tammy Mulder, Kristi Steele, Lori Grant, Debbie Salmons, Front row: Jody Day, Becci Salmons, Robyn Garrigus, Nancy Dombroski, and Alicia Howrani.

MIP Tami McDowell or, "T. McD." as her teammates like to call her, tries to fool her opponents by tipping the ball over the net. Third year varsity player Nancy Dombroski shows why she is a third year varsity player. Annette Baur was named the top defensive player for the 1987-88 season.

Top blocker Robyn Garrigus proves that she can also put some power behind the ball and spike it over the net. Annette Baur and tri-captains Tami McDowell, Jody Day, and Nancy Dombroski form a deadly back court team. O.K., well maybe captains don't have to act captainly all the time! Nancy Dombroski takes time out to stick her tongue out at the camera while she should be listening to Coach Burgess. Jody Day watches as Annette Baur and Tami McDowell save the ball by sacrificing their bodies. Alicia Howrani and Becci Salmons try to react fast enough to get the ball safely over the net.

Roller-coaster season doesn't discourage girls

A roller-coaster season. That's how the 1987-88 JV volleyball season would have to be described. There were land-slide victories and wins that were barely pulled off. There were frustrating losses. There was a mixture of every kind of emotion displayed during the season: anger, frustration, happiness, joy ...

Their season record was 16-11 and they had a 8-6 record in the CAC. The team was captained by Shelly Frendt and Amanda Zarka.

They started off the season with two strong wins. From then on it was up and down. There were good games and bad. Overall, it was a learning experience for these girls who hardly lost at all as freshmen. The team came back and won their last game of the season.

They had a winning record, they learned a lot, and they had a good time. The season was definitely worth it.

The team always has time to warm up by taking a few practice serves.

Five straight wins. What a way to start the season. What a high you get. Then . . . then you find out you are not infallible. The girls found this out when they lost to Grand Ledge in their sixth game. It was a tough loss, but the girls fought back and won seven out of the next eight games. Ending up with a 12-2 record, the team clinched first place in the conference.

Hours of hard work made these wins possible. They had practice every day that there wasn't a game. From December to March their lives were volleyball, volleyball, volleyball. But all of it paid off, as they came away as the champions of the CAC.

Winning tradition continues

This year's boys' swimming season was full of ups and downs. Statistically, the team ended up 3-4 in the conference and an overall record of 3-10. The team came out 5th in the final conference standings. The Warriors were coached by Brian Post and their diving coach was Dave Jones.

The team was full of winners. Co-captains Bruce Foster and Chuck Fedewa were leaders of the team. Many Warrior swimmers placed in the CAC championships. Mark Burgess, Matt Gabris, Ryan Cameron and Mike Pier all placed 7th in the Free Relay. Chuck Fedewa, Bruce Foster, and Doug Kahl placed 6th in the Medley Relay. In diving competitions, Bruce Foster, Mark Burgess, and Glen Brien placed 2nd, 4th and 11th respectively. Both Bruce and Mark went to the regional diving competitions and placed 4th and 13th. Bruce qualified for the Class A State championships and placed 21st in diving.

Everyone on the team agreed that beating Grand Ledge 95-76 was definitely the high point of the season. When asked the question what the most exciting meet of the year was Chuck Fedewa responded "Grand Ledge gave us our biggest challenge and it was fun embarrassing them."

You could always count on the swim team to have a good time. This was evident during the freshmen initiation week. On each day of this week you could be walking down the hall and see a freshman guy in a dress or another one in flippers and a mask crawling on the floor.

Beating Grand Ledge was definitely the high point

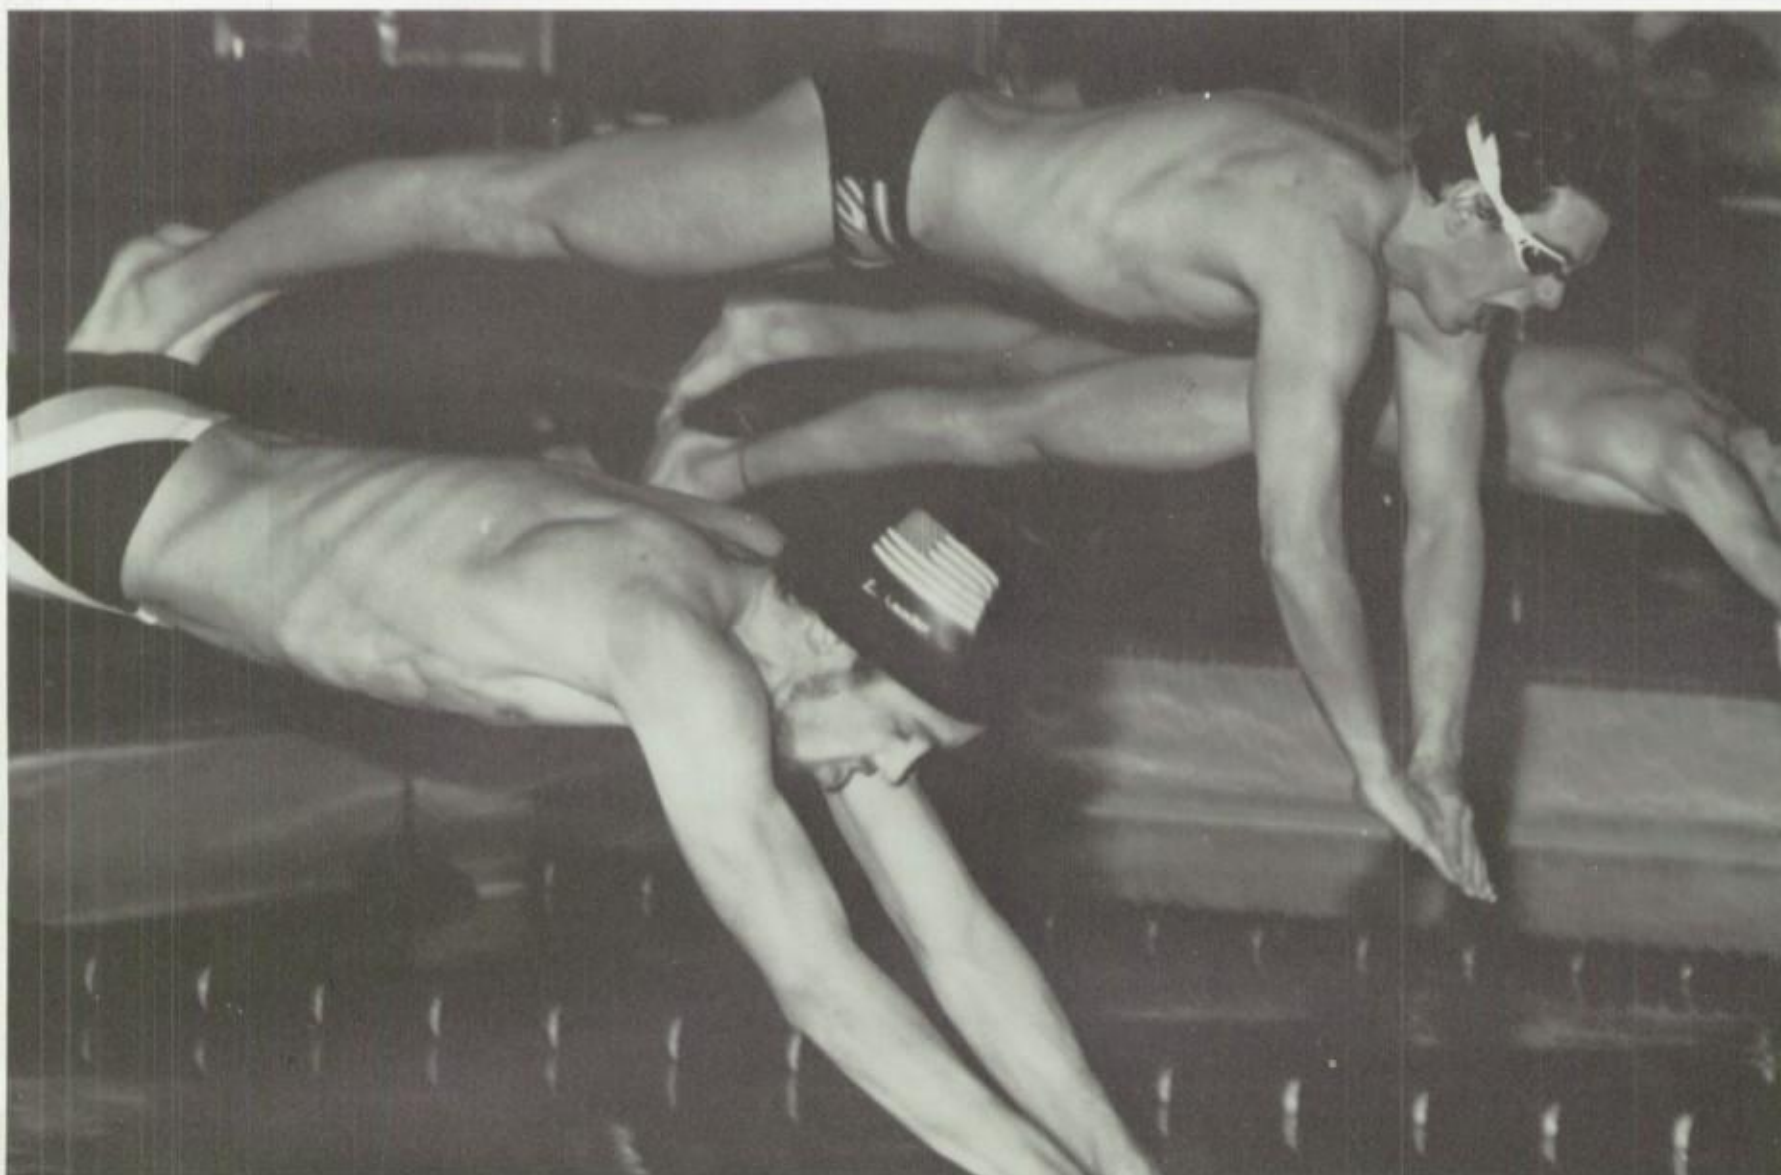

Like most people I have my idols. In eighth grade mine was a two time state champion. He and my coach were strong contributors to my successfulness. As a diver although I dove for the rewards, including placing in the state meet and being our MVP for this past season, diving has taught me a lot about self discipline and commitment. I have invested a lot of time and work into our program and I hope that pride will continue in Waverly.

The girls' gymnastics team had an outstanding '88 season. They found success this year with an overall record of 7 wins and 2 losses, finishing 2nd in the CAC. Kim Breidenstein, a junior, was the captain, and Cathie Tooker, only a sophomore, was co-captain.

With only two seniors, this team has a great deal of upcoming talent. In the next few years Waverly should have a very strong gymnastics team.

When asked if they felt they accomplished everything they wanted by the end of the season, the gymnasts answered:

"Yes, I think we did. We felt strong and confident as a team", Kim Breidenstein.

"Personally, I feel I reached most of my goals and helped the team reach theirs.", P.J. Panessidi.

Being the captain of the team was quite an honor this year, because we had such a strong team — not only "physical strength" but mental. Mental strength is very important in this type of sport. We ended our season with excellence. We came in second in the CAC's and the whole team had qualified for regionals. That was quite an accomplishment! I was really proud and honored being the captain of this team. Way to go guys — we did it!!

The 1987-88 version of the Warriors Wrestling team is one to remember. Not only for the guts this team showed many times, but for the heart it always found. Although the record may not show it, this team did very well considering how young and inexperienced the team was overall.

Senior Scott Doderlein who was this year's Most Valuable Player put it best when he said, "we're not the worst team in the league, but we have a long way to go to be the best."

At 3-9 there is room for improvement and improve sophomore Dave Valk did as he was awarded this year's Most Improved Player "it was a great year for me," concluded Dave. Most Valuable Underclassmen was awarded to Jacob Miller in his first year on the team.

The year included two thrilling wins against Everett including a one point win. Co-Captain and senior Nick Warner went down early in the season with a leg injury and never returned. "I was very dissap-pointed, especially since it was my last year here," said Nick.

The other Co-Captain was senior Craig Stamford who had another impressive year for the Waverly Matmen. The Grapplers finished 8th in the CAC and 8th in the final league meet. Coach Ron Glass state that "we will be back. More experienced, stronger, and physically ready to battle again next year. We'll just have to hope the luck will be in our favor instead of the other way around."

This season captain Scott Doederlein started back in early October. His weight was 154 pounds — his goal — 132. After long hard workouts Scott started his season at 138 pounds. He had to make 132 pounds in sixteen days. He did!

In the middle season, Scott injured his knee, separated his shoulder, and reinjured his knee; however, he worked very hard and named MVP.

The story of the '88 hockey club can best be described as inexperienced mixed with experience. Sometimes that can be a combination for a great team. Unfortunately that was not the case as the team posted a 4 wins 4 ties and 15 losses on the season.

Waverly spotted 9 of the 17 players on this year's team, which included players from DeWitt, Everett, Potterville, and Sexton.

Junior Matt Gelfius was the heart of the team as he lead them in goals scored. Second only to Matt in goals scored was senior Brian Armijo who held this team together with his all-around great play and experience.

One of the highpoints of the season had to be the couple of thrillers they tied with Eastern. Coach Al Neubacher could have hoped for a better record, but this team played its heart out each and every game. All the way to the end they pushed it to the limit before it was decided.

Senior and most valuable player of the year, Brian Dokum is an All-star second to none. Without this magnificent goaltending, they wouldn't have been as close in a lot of games. The Warriors were also lead by Jon Hubbell, Todd Koski, Rub Fritts, Jason Downs, Kelly Hendrick and Trent Nainan.

The hockeymen finished 4th in the CAC. Highlights also included a trip to the All-star game for Brian Armijo, Brian Dokum, and Matt Gelfius. "It was the best game I played all year and the most memorable one for me too," stated Brian Armijo. Next year maybe the Warrior Hockey Club can rebound from this disappointing season, but it will be one to remember.

I started when I was 4 years of age. My father was the motivator and my mother the escorter. In time I was captain of my nite house team. The second year in nites I played goalie.

Ever since then my hockey career was up and down until I thought I found a home with Waverly Hockey.

Although they didn't have a winning season it wasn't for lack of trying. This year, softball team has a lot to cheer about. "This year we really tried; but, unfortunately, we didn't win many games," admitted Wendy Sell.

The warriors kept in mind that winning wasn't always as important as learning and experiencing. "I think we all learned a lot from each other and that's the most important thing," said Rene Bohnet.

A team of 14 dedicated players gathered for nearly nine weeks of practices and games. The players won't soon forget Nancy Dombroski on opening day, when she shutout and quieted an excited Lansing Catholic Central. Nor will they forget Saundra Lartigue's grand slam that led the warriors to a victory of Lynn Prince making her long throw from third base and getting it to first everytime.

Becky Malin said, "It was so exciting. There are so many things we will never forget: the excitement, the winning, the friendships."

As part of the Waverly softball team I had the privilege of participating on the Varsity level for two years. My junior year I was picked All CAC as centerfielder. My senior year I was voted team captain, All CAC Honorable Mention and MVP. This accomplishment could not have been done without the excellent coaching I received and my fellow teammates support.

A learning experience

If being in the middle is a lonely feeling, the Girls' Softball Team must have been lonely.

The girls had a rough season. They finished 8-6 in the conference and 10-12 overall. Their record wasn't exactly something to boast about, but they admittedly learned a lot.

In reality the girls had only one thing in mind, to improve enough for the 88-'89 season to make Varsity. A dream that all of the players have had since starting to play.

"I think it's great that the girls worked so hard to improve this season. I didn't see them play a lot this season but when we scrimmaged them they showed a lot of potential. If they are given time and help I'm sure they will become excellent players. All they need right now is a little extra push to keep them. The loss of any one of those players would be a loss to Waverly Softball," said Becky Malin. Sometimes being in the middle is not half bad.

Despite the 5 and 10 record the team had this season, they had many impressive wins, such as the 35 to 7 romp over Sexton and the sweeping of the double-header against East Lansing, not to mention the 14 to 10 rally late in the season again over Sexton. "It was a fun season and I can't wait till next year," Amy Sanders stated.

One of the most memorable moments Adela Galvan explained was when, "Michelle Fairbanks got hit in the leg and told the ump off. "Betsy Stump said, "My most memorable part of the season was when I hit a grand slam against Sexton."

All such moments were not as pleasant as Jamie Schrauben recalled the moment, "When I slid into third base and twisted my ankle."

Ricci Wells who showed promising talent on the mound said, "I liked working with my coach and I really improved in pitching."

It's only the beginning

"The year as a whole was a great success." Bill Burke couldn't have summed up this Varsity Baseball season any better.

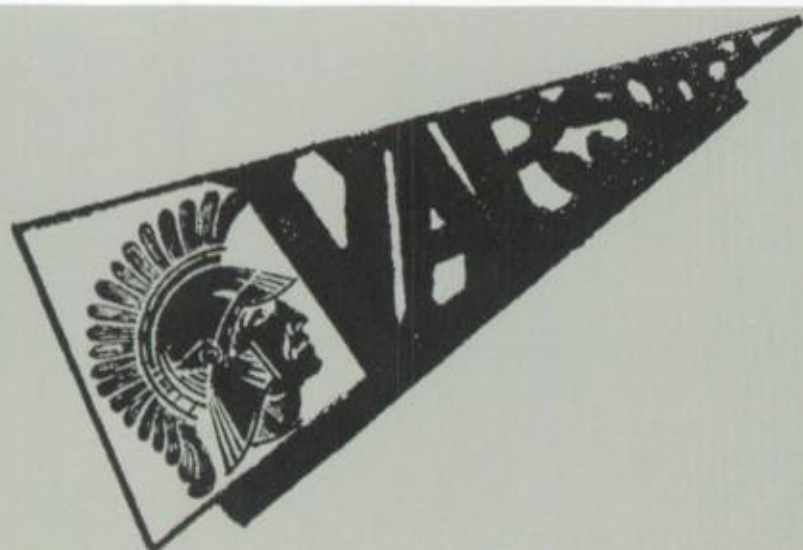

Anyone who followed the games would know exactly what Bill is talking about. From Jeff Kniple's grand slam against Everett or Steve Kutas's outstanding pitching and homerun to barrel over Sexton in the Diamond Classic.

They not only doubled last season's wins and tripled the year before, they have regained respect in the CAC for Waverly baseball. These young men not only play the sport, they have a passion for it. A few of these guys were preparing for this season close to eight months in advance. A couple of guys went to Florida for Spring Break. That's not unusual except for the fact that they went down there to get ready for the season. A sort of mini-spring training. It paid off. Jeff Spedoske and Steve Kutas were both chosen to play on the CAC All-Star team.

There was a certain familylike closeness of this team that people really noticed. When freshmen and sophomores were brought up to Varsity, the team welcomed them. Toward the beginning of the season the whole team spent the night here in our wrestling room. They had to be there at 7 p.m. and lights were out at 12.

After only winning eleven games the past two years, no one expected us to do much this year. Except us. We knew we had good players we just needed to work hard. We met a major goal by playing in the Diamond Classic and beating Sexton.

They'll be back with positive attitudes

Junior Varsity baseball layers finished the season with a positive attitude, but a losing record. Sophomore Ed Rashid had this to say about the future of the team, "we're good hitters, but we'll need work on our pitching."

The team began the season on a losing note, only winning one of their first six games. They struggled all season long, ending with a 6-15 record. The players plan on working on their game and hopefully contribute a few wins to next years varsity team.

Behind the booming bats of Jeff Schwartz, Matt Coppess and others, the Freshman Baseball Team managed to rack up an impressive amount of runs in their less than impressive 2 and 14 season.

The team lost a few close games, such as their 8-9 slug-fest with Grand Ledge and a 5-6 losing battle with East Lansing. It was their defense that really suffered as other teams managed to out-score them consistently.

In their wins against Mason and Lakewood, the team came together as a unit to hold the other teams to just four runs each game.

So there is hope for this freshman team, that will grow in experience and talent in years to come.

Defense improves at close

The girls' track team may have been low on wins, but their hearts and spirits were very high. With the talent of some mighty tough veterans, and the freshness of young talent, the season was filled with great moments and great races.

"The closeness of the team was one of the most exciting and memorable highlights of the season," stated Melissa Phillips.

With veterans like Katie Cushman, Carrie Fernsler, and Beth Leary helping the tougher girls out, the whole squad improved tremendously.

"Our team was very young, but we improved a lot, and they'll be good for years to come," added Fernsler.

Sophomore Anjela Curtis was a major contributor to the team, breaking two school records in the 100 and 200 meter dashes with times of 12.6 and 26.0 seconds.

A one-mile relay team of Cassy Wood, Becky Pfeiffer, Anjela Curtis, and Kim Jones were only two-tenths of a second away from grabbing the school record.

"The enthusiasm and attitude contributed to the success and improvement of our team," stated Katie Cushman.

"As a team, we did not do well, but many individuals did do well," replied Tom Pier, senior. Although the team was small, many runners excelled by breaking some of their own records.

"Bruce Foster, Jeff Rinck, Ryan Covey, and Chad Bidlack did very well this year. Tom Pier also added a lot to our distance," stated Dave Ellison, junior.

Coach Evans, along with Dean Pasino, coached this year's track team. Head coach, Evans, replied, "Some individuals are doing real good, but we have a young, small team." Jeff Rinck, junior agreed, "We were small but as far as distance and field events, we did well."

Although this year's team did not excel in the winning and togetherness, experience was gained by all who participated.

The girls golf team had a very successful season this year. They improved their finish in the C.A.C. from eight place last year, to fourth place this year.

They started out the season with a win at Holt, despite the cold weather, and rain. Next they played the worst match, losing to Jackson, and Sexton. Their next match they defeated East Lansing and Grand Ledge.

The girls also placed third in C.A.C.

"bestball". The team then went on to defeat Jackson, Everett, Eastern and Holt.

The team had a chance to place third in the C.A.C., but had a very disappointing loss against Grand Ledge.

The team made a big improvement this year, and being such a young team they are expected to make another improvement next year. According to Senior Amy Fox, "The team is young, talented and should make a big improvement next year."

The 1988 girls' golf season was a clear success. Most valuable player went to Amy Fox. Most improved was Lea McLaury. Both of these players were named on the second team all conference. Congratulations goes to all the girls.

The name of the game is hard work, commitment, and patience. I love the game of golf for many reasons.

One reason is that golf taught me to work hard and to be the best I can be. Golf also taught me to be committed and to have patience. Golf can be enjoyed the most when played with people who care about the game as much as I do.

Despite losing their four opening matches, the tennis team came on strong towards the end of the season, defeating opponent after opponent, to end up with a 4-3 record in the CAC.

Head coach, Gerald Gerow, said, "This year was just the opposite of last year. With a strong finish this year, it gives us positive momentum for next year."

The boys didn't have much of a preseason because most of them were away for spring break and couldn't practice.

Fortunately, the team had a lot of skilled members returning as well as a few strong first year players. These guys, along with a large junior varsity squad, gave the team the talent it needed to place third in the powerful CAC and fourth in the region.

First singles player, Randy Altman, said, "We lost a few close matches during the season but we came back and showed what we could do at CAC's."

As for next year, only three of the top ten players are graduating, so it looks like we can expect good things to come from this young Warrior team.

A strong finish

I really enjoyed my four years of Varsity

Tennis. I have to thank Mr. Gerald Gerow for he was a tremendous attribute to my all around game, mentally and physically. Over the years I learned that yelling and getting down on yourself does not help. I realized that tennis is a lifetime sport and to just enjoy it.

"After being on the squad for 3 years, I can honestly say this year has been the best," said senior squad member Cindy Eisfelder.

"The whole squad became close friends at camp and remained so all year. It's been great!" commented junior Fleur Guskey.

The 1987-88 pom-pom squad had an outstanding year. The routines performed were all one of a kind. The songs included "Funky Town", "Rhythm is Gonna Get You", "Crocodile Rock", and "Pump Up the Volume/Push It", which was the senior routine.

"I felt good about every routine we performed. We worked hard together, and as a result, our season was great," remarked junior Melissa Silva.

The girls not only performed at halftime at the boys basketball games, but also at a few girls basketball games, a wrestling match, and the Christmas Collage Concert.

"I think that going to camp was the best experience of all. There are times when we would get frustrated with each other but we always pulled together and placed 2nd every night," smiled senior Renee Parshall.

Who dressed up as bunnies on Halloween and threw candy into the crowd? Who kidnapped the basketball team and took them out to breakfast? That's right. It's our own varsity cheerleaders.

Most people may think that all there is to cheerleading is getting up on game days and shouting to the crowd, but that's not true at all.

Cheerleading is as demanding as any other sport. The cheerleaders must be in top physical condition to perform their chants and maneuvers.

Over the summer, two cheerleaders, Debbie Lopez and Melisa Phillips, went to a cheerleading camp where they both placed in the top 10 individual cheerleaders there. This qualified them to perform at the Civic Center.

The squad paid for the trip by selling pizzas and pudding at a cheerleading clinic for young boys and girls.

"It was very successful, and helped a great deal with our expenses to Nashville," said team captain Betsy Bacon.

A new tradition was started this year. Instead of the "Uga, Uga, Uga" chant, the crowd enjoyed the "what, what, what" chant. Hopefully, that will last for years.

As you've seen, cheerleading is a lot more than just going to the games and performing. There is a lot of time and work that goes into making what we have seen happen.

We got spirit, yeah, yeah, we got what, what . . .

Catch the spirit

Have you ever gone early to a varsity game and found yourself enjoying the J.V. game more than you thought you would? This is probably because you were watching the J.V. Cheerleaders. The squad worked hard this year to develop routines and chants.

"I think we worked a lot harder because we got along together better," said Alimah Parshall.

Another thing that helped the team was the fact that this year they were allowed to go to away games.

Team Captain Jenny Girvin said, "We felt that by going to away games, we could give better support to the team."

So next time you're going to a varsity game, try to get there a little early, or better yet, go to the J.V. game first. You won't regret it, the J.V. cheerleaders are something to see.

Cheerleading is an exciting sport to be involved in. One has to have a lot of spirit to pep everyone up during the games.

"It was fun being part of the squad," replied Kelly Reynolds.

Even when the team isn't doing well, the cheerleaders are still behind them cheering them on.

"Cheering at the pep assemblies was one of the highlights," stated Sue Lee.

The freshman cheerleaders are Sue

Lee, Toni Sochay, Cressida Suttles, Kelly Reynolds, Christine Heriford, Angie DiVietri, Kim Rodriguez, Christy Heriford, P.J. Panessidi, and Erin Phillips. This squad ended their football season with an 8-1 and basketball with 9-11. The teams said they got a lot of support from the cheerleaders by the locker signs and the other things they did.

"I had the most fun in Nashville and it was really fun to be a part of the group," ended Kim Rodriguez.

Brad Engler expresses the fine form of his jump-shot over Mike Stapelman.

I.M. has another success

For some people, lunch time is time to feed their faces. Others have special meetings to attend. For the people who aren't hungry and don't go to meetings, here's Intramural sports.

Included in the activities are football, basketball, boys/girls volleyball, softball, and aerobics for the teachers. As shown in all championship games, the competition is fierce, but the fun is a big part of it. "We did it just for fun, but it's good to be competitive," said Madonna Abood. Madonna is a senior spiker for the girls volleyball champs, the Lady Spikers. Almost everybody said they had a good time playing.

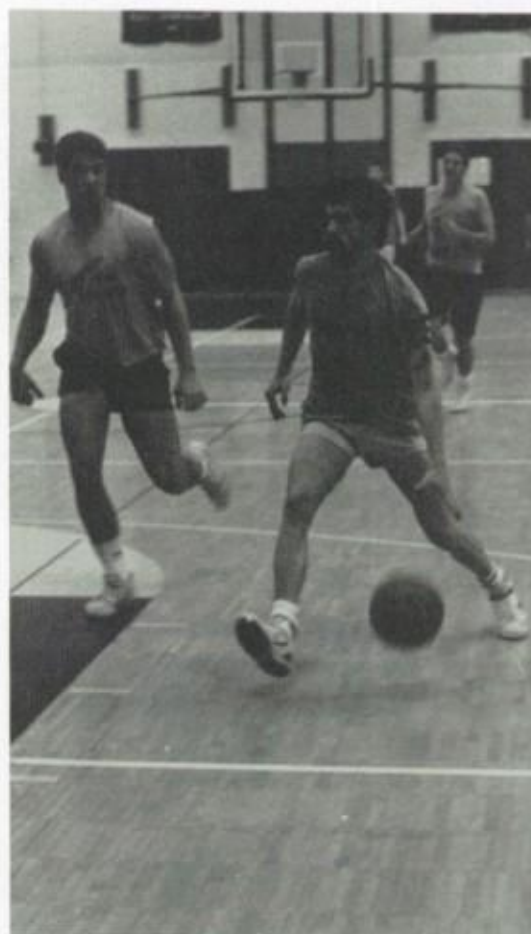

The champions of the basketball season were the Casual Busters. The Busters, with Brad Engler and company, met the Artesians in the deciding game. At the end it was the Busters on top. Money from the ticket sales, along with donations, went to charity.

The Surf M.C.'s dominated the I.M. football season. Jason Endsley, Goran Jurkovic, and Jason Todd lead the undefeated team in the right direction — the championship.

As for softball, there were a couple of controversial games. Second place finishers, the Sidewinders, won two of their late season games on flukes. In a regular season game and on a playoff game, both against the Clan, the final score showed the Clan on top. When checking the Clan's roster, however, two players were found to be ineligible. Thus, the Sidewinders advanced on two forfeits. They made it to the final game only to find Mike Koval, Alex Garcia, and the rest of the Artesians waiting. Both teams played a long, hard game, but the Artesians pulled out the victory, 7-4. "We played a good game, but they kept hitting the ball away from our defenders," stated junior Mike Kuznar.

That concludes another successful Intramural season.

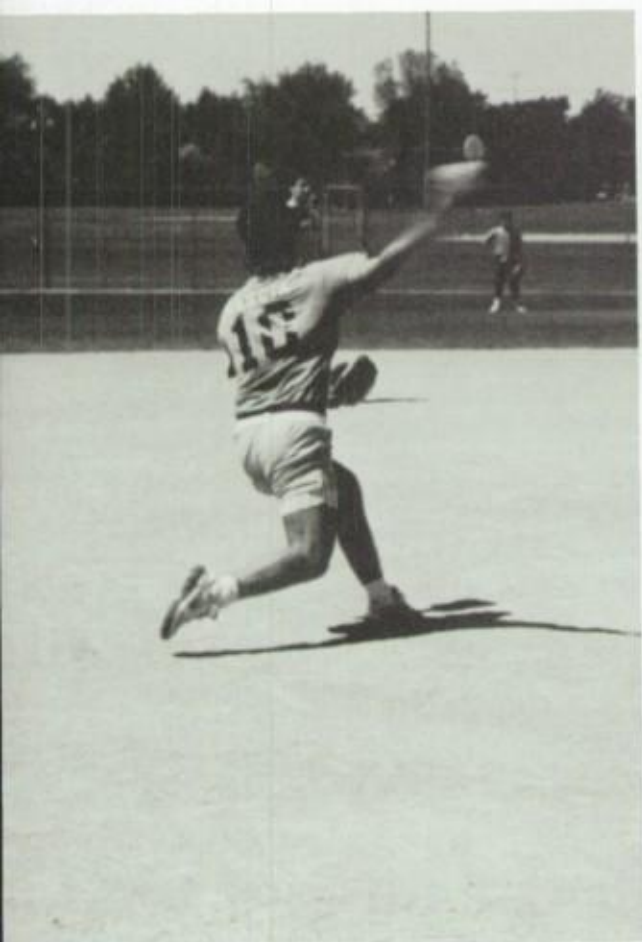

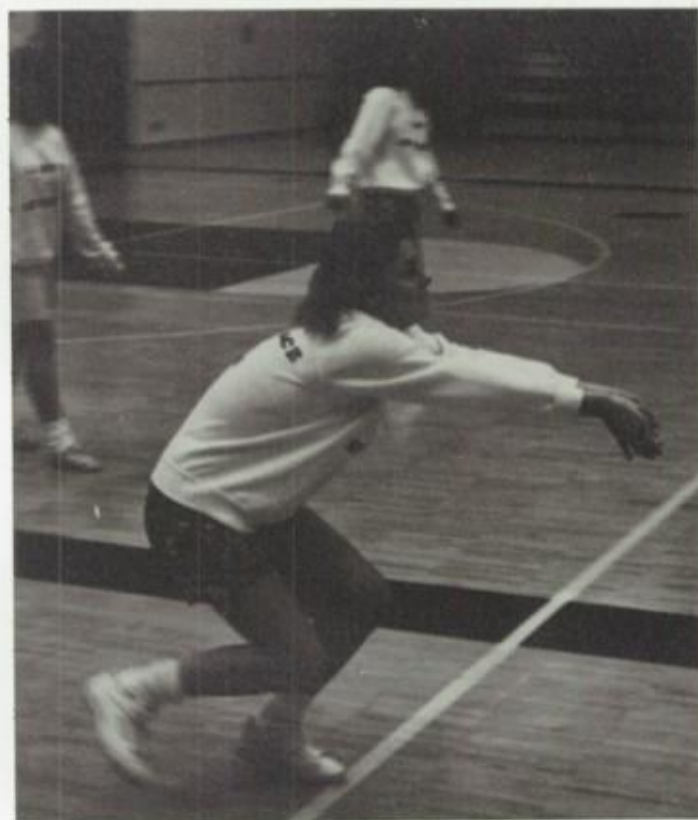

Artesian Tom Pier drives hard to the basket for an easy lay-up. A few plays later, he goes for a base-line jumper.

Beginning a career

I'm ready to start making money for this! That's why I've chosen to make photography my career. I plan to attend one of the best photography departments in the U.S. which happens to be located here in Lansing; Lansing Community College. From there I'll decide whether to be a photojournalist, working with newspapers and magazines, or go into commercial photography or studio photography such as Ellis Photographics.

I'd like to thank Mr. Dale Hansen for all he's taught me in and out of class, also Mr. and Mrs. Ellis for taking care of most of the developing and printing of my photos. I wouldn't forget to thank Tina Weatherwax and Janice Maat, our editors and everyone in Journalism I and II whom I've had the pleasure to work with for the great work they've done and the support they've given me. Finally, and most importantly, thank-you Mr. Keyes for all my hall passes, the last minute advice, and the overall support. I've done my best to make this 1988 Iliad as great as it is. (and it is great!) I'm outa here!

Bred W. Granzen

A great shot with a bad background isn't a great shot, so with the help of Mr. Hansen, I learned to vignette this photo of Alicia Howrani. The enthusiasm and exceptional contrast of the photo of Kim Maidlow cheering brings your eye to that shot.

J.J. Darden worked with me for over an hour after one of his practices just to get this one shot. The strobe light makes the effect of a hundred drumsticks. It makes John Rodgers look as though he's the fastest drummer alive! Thank-you J.J. and John for all the time you spent with me to make these shots look so great. Far Bottom: Sometimes flash photography can be tricky but if you time the shot right, you can stop Ron Wingate in mid-air above his skateboard.

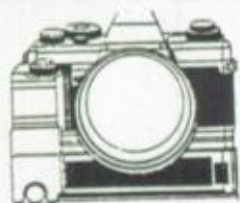

This cute kitten began an interest in studio photography for me.

Right: All posed photos look easy to take, but a lot of the money made in photography lies in posing people in such a way that portrays the spirit of the group. Great job Waverly Special Force. Lower Right: Guitarist, and close personal friend, Aaron Holland, tells a lot about his personality in this photo; his allegiance to W.H.S., his great sense of fashion, and his love for the guitar. Lower Left: When shooting sporting events, the best action isn't necessarily on the court.

Along with really liking this photo, I tried printing it with a high-contrast paper (Kodabrome II RC) which I believe made a very interesting tone. The photo below was one of my first published with a by-line other than by the Pleiad.

Right: I know what you're thinking, "Why is Jeff Goad on this page twice?" Well, Jeff paid me. Seriously, he's here because he's involved in so many activities. If you want to appear a lot, get involved in school. Photographers won't stay away from you. Left: I wanted to get a good ground-to-air relationship with this photo. When you hear on the Listening Post that Bruce Foster got 12'6" on the pole vault, I want you to know how high that is.

First Annual Talent Show a huge success

Waverly's First Annual Talent Show was a success, not only because of the 300+ attendants, but because it brought out many hidden talents. "It was an experience, that is it being our public debut. I'm glad we had such an ideal opportunity," responded the lead vocalist, Chris Carolan, for RIFF.

The first talent show was the idea of the student senate in conjunction with the Gifted And Talented. It was organized by the president of the student senate, Kristi Egbert. "It being the first talent show, every one worked really hard and pulled off a great show." The show made $500 which was donated to St. Vincent's home for children.

Dancers, rappers, comedians, singers, and musicians were all introduced by emcee J.J. Darden.

Colophon

A very special thanks goes out to all of these people for their contributions to the 1988 Iliad:

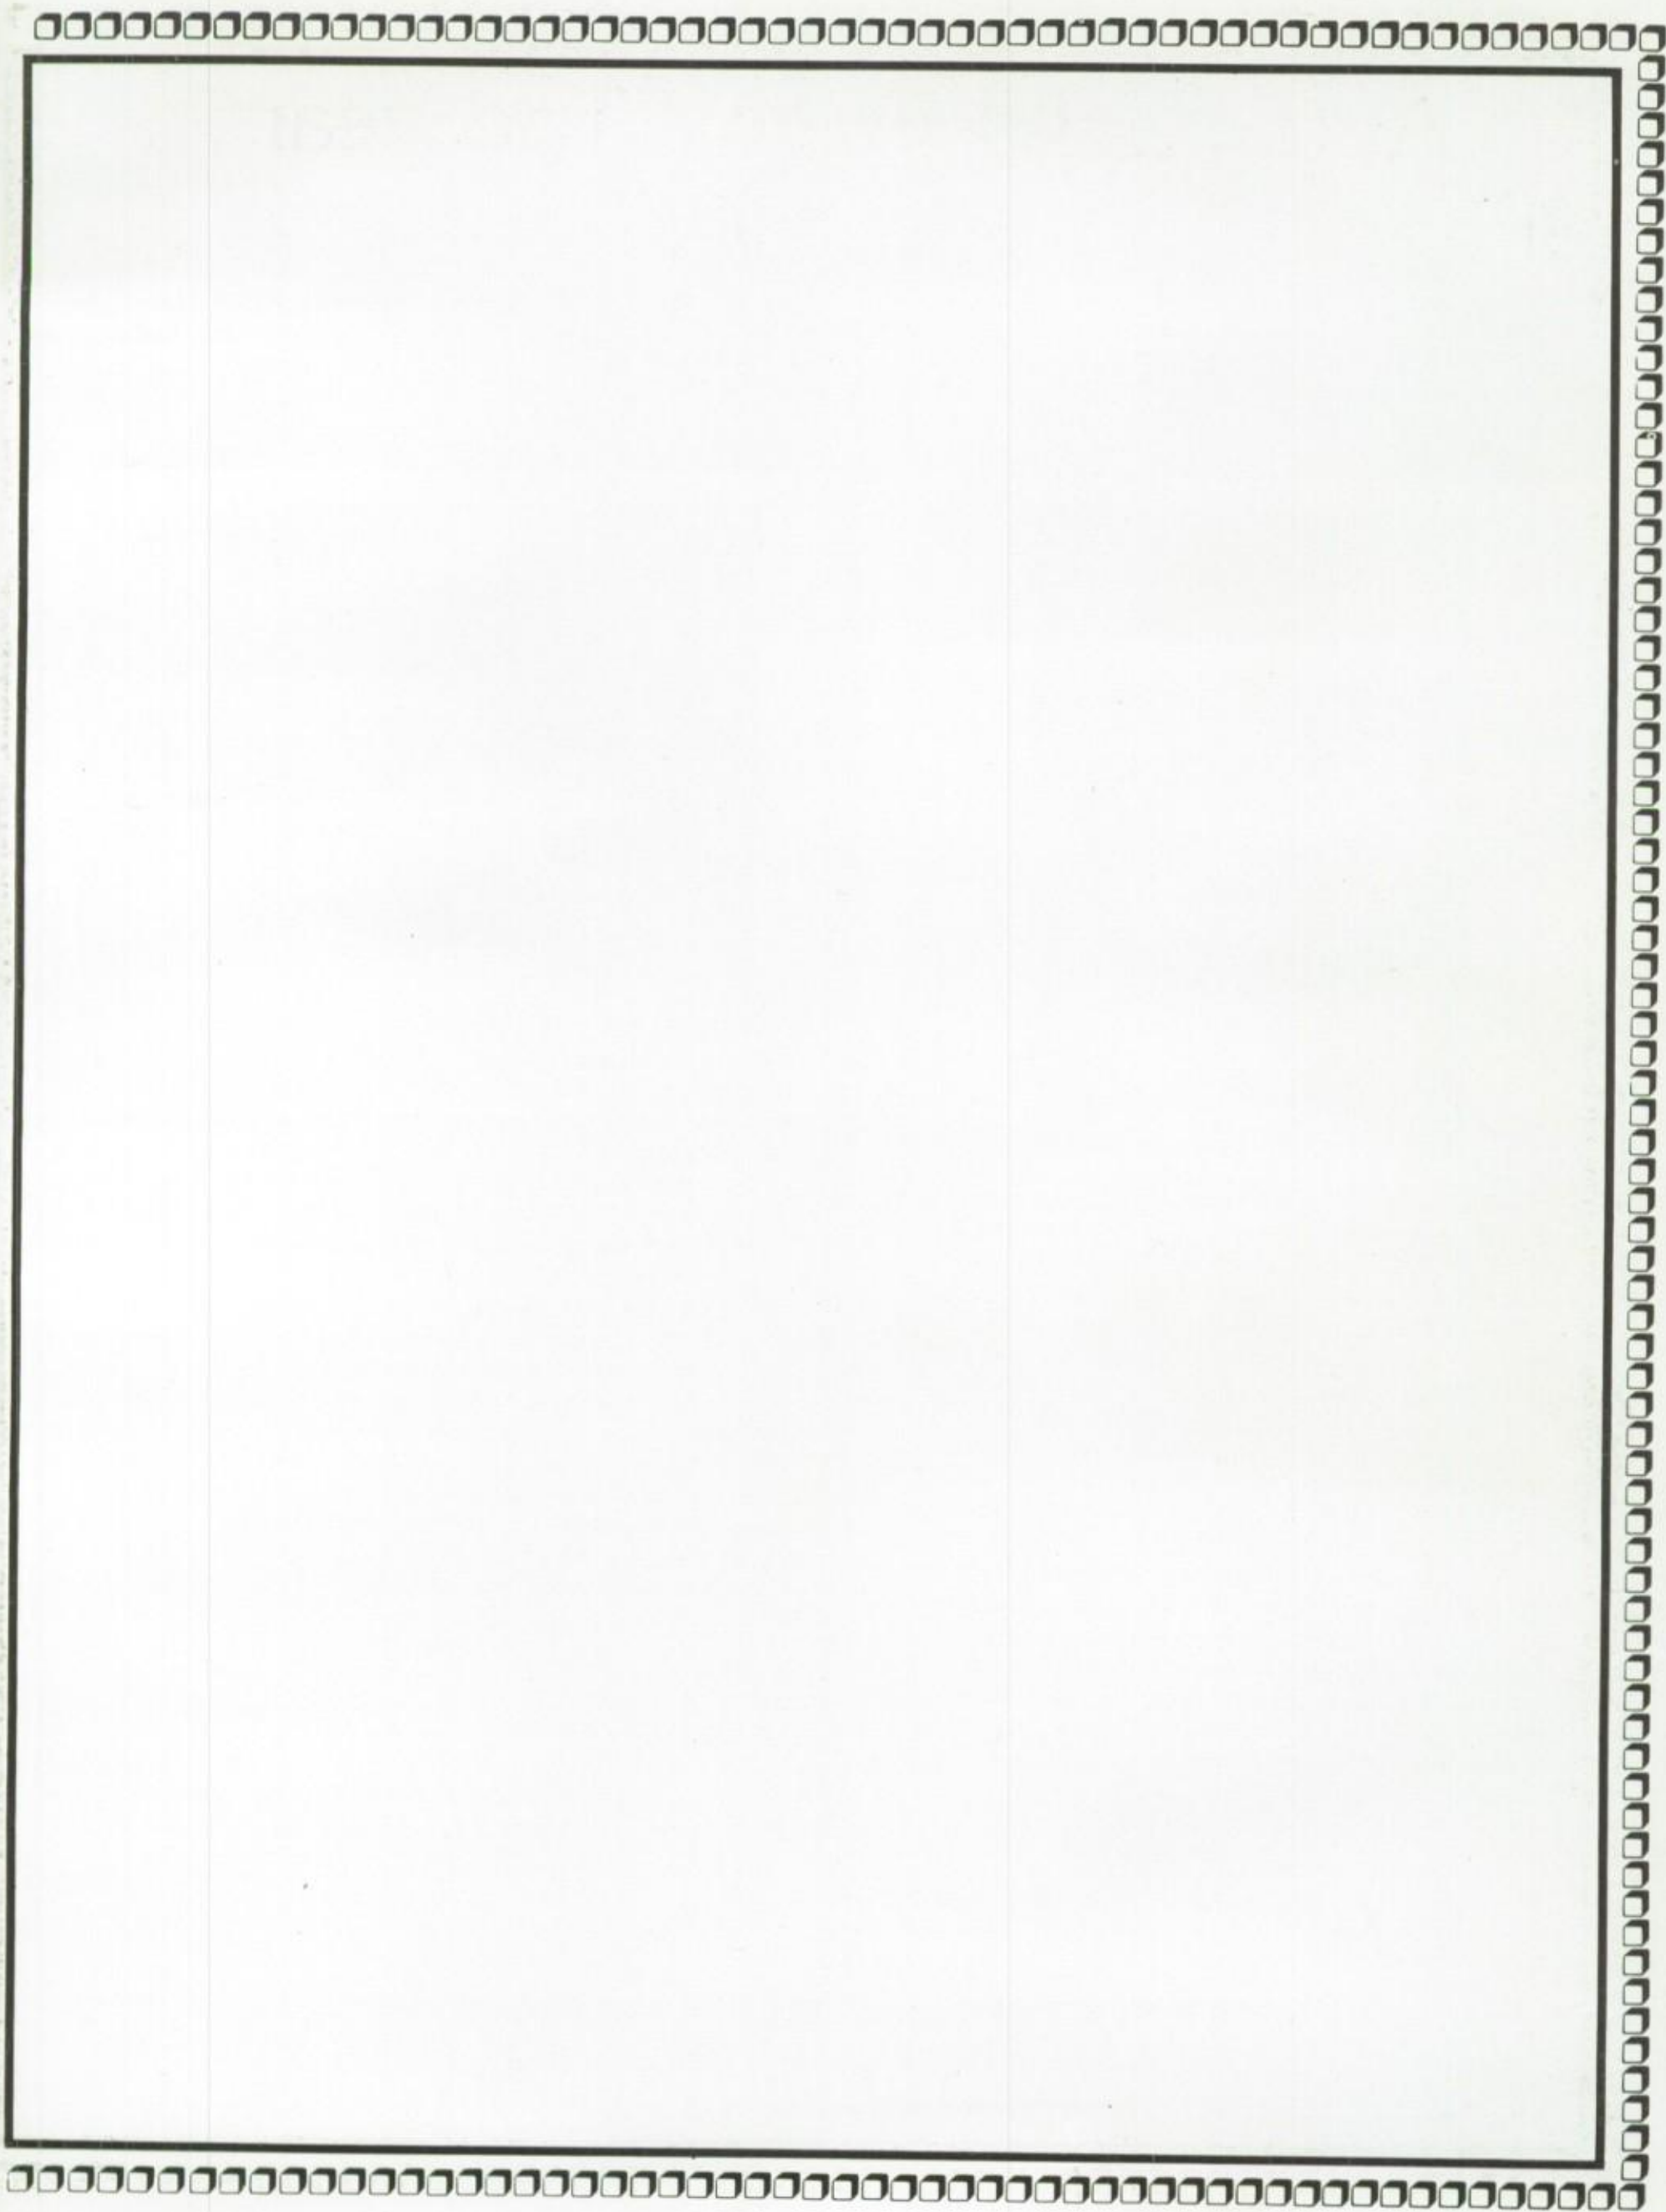

Mr. Mike Laffety was our Jostens representative. He put up with our questions all year long! Mr. and Mrs. Ellis helped us out with the photography. Brad Granzow became our chief photographer and did an outstanding job. Deanne Zaikowski was in charge of the business aspect of the book. Ronda Culver and Debbie Lopez did all the artwork for the book. Amy Young spent hours at the typewriter trying to decipher everyone's handwriting. And last, but not least, to all of the coaches, teachers, and students who not only put up with us interrupting classes, but also contributed stories, quotes, and took time out to let us ask all sorts of nosy questions! THANKS!!!

A VERY SPECIAL THANKS GOES OUT TO A MAN WHO SPENT A YEAR OF HIS LIFE MAKING THIS ILIAD A VERY SPECIAL BOOK. THANK YOU VERY, VERY MUCH — MR. DOUGLAS KEYES — OUR FEARLESS LEADER.

Autographs From "The year in your life"

Cindy,
I'd thought I'd be different & sign your yearbook. Hey I am different !!! ha-ha! It's been great getting to know you especially in choir.
You gave me the confidence that I needed. I wish you the best in the future. Good luck trying out for NADS but I know, you don't need luck.
I can't wait to come back Alumni Night & sing w/you. hint-hint !! Thanks Again Babe for being there.
Bye Sweetie!! '89'
Love,
Amy L. Bacon SENIORS!!
'89'

Have a Senior Great year (when you get there) ha-ha!
& a Junior Year!!

The time has finally come . . .

It's finally the end of the school year and we are finally submitting the last pages of the Iliad to be published. Creating the 224 pages that make up this book was quite a job. Hours, hours, and hours of time went into it. Every picture was hand picked and every story was hand written by a student. A lot of pressure was put on the staff. It was remembered that this book will become the one main thing that people will have to look back upon the "good 'ol days."

If you happened to be hanging around the journalism room fourth or fifth hour, many times you could see people working over tables with frowns on their faces. It had to be deadline time! Thanks to dedicated staffers we sent the book off on time. We may have missed one or two deadlines along the way, but we hit that final one. Thanks to our fearless leader, Mr. Keyes, and our Jostens representative, Mr. Lafferty, for their everlasting patience.

I hope the 1987-88 Iliad lived up to your expectations. It lived up to ours!

Janice Maat

There are many people who I'd like to thank for their help in making this book a success. The first and most deserving is our advisor, Mr. Keyes; without his encouragement and trust, this book would not be completed. My next thank-you goes to Brad Granzow who with the help from Ellis Photography, took and developed almost every picture used in this book. Janice Maat and the Journalism I class deserve the rest of the credit; they all went out of their way to do their best everytime. I loved being an editor for the last two years. I found it to be an exciting challenge that even though it took a lot of my time, it was very rewarding in the end. I eventually knew just about everyone in the school, and was excited over the new friendships it brought me. I thank-you all for the opportunities that being an editor has brought me, I really am going to miss it. I wish the best of luck to Janice, who I know will lead next years' staff through another successful Iliad. I also want to wish you all luck in your future's; especially the senior class of 1988. I'm confident we've done a good job of showing this year of your life, and I hope you are pleased with the book.

God Bless You All,

Tina Wetzel

P.S. In a song by Michael W. Smith he says "a lifetime's not too long to live as friends." I agree with him; I won't forget you!

Congratulations to the Class of 1988

Cindy - we sure have known each other for a long time, haven't we? I still remember when Ambros lived across the street.
Doesn't seem like that was very long ago!
Well, your dad & I stayed friends and I wish you luck in the future. Love, Jenny

Cindy,
To a great girl. Remember all the fun we had in Odum's? Stay
Sweet and don't change!
Love,
Liz

Cindy,
I hope your senior year turns out to be a good one. I know I won't see much of you next year so have a great one.
Ronda
Cassler

Cindy, glad I'm so glad we're friends.
Thanks for being my friend at the beginning of last year when I was new.
I'll always remember you!
F/F Love,
Bucky Pines

Cindy,
Keep smiling and shining - you're a great looking gal with lots of hope for the future. Love the

McNell

Cindy
But you can't wait till your senior year right!
But it will be here soon, don't worry.

Stay Sweet and I'm glad I've got to know you over the years (Remember Odum's speech class?) Boy it was fun to do it we couldn't do it again this year. Hope we can stay friend in the years to come.

Tom Brundt

Cindy,
Josh, sent Basic
Just tons of fun? I could first die! I hate yearbooks sometimes.
Everyone says the same things. But oh well, we're seniors now, so we can do what we want! Yeah, right! ~~But~~, we can't get too out of hand. Just enough to cause a mild revolution! Stay Sweet + out of trouble!

Love Always
Cal/Josh

Class of

Cindy:
Hi. You are a very sweet person
I hope you have much success in the years to come! Thanks for the rides to school. I hope we stay friends forever!

#3/2

Cindy - where the hell has the time gone? Love Jenne were Juniors and soon - Seniors. Pray to God we don't strike next year. Even though we haven't been in many classes in the High School, aw - our friendship has lasted the time test of time
Love
